Gaulle Regime Imposes Bans

PARIS (AP) - President Charles de Gaulle's government, cracking down after two nights of student rioting in Paris, today banned all street demonstrations throughout France and ordered seven extreme leftist groups dissolved.

The Cabinet issued the orders about five hours in advance of scheduled student meetings in Paris, Bordeaux, Toulouse and Strasbourg to protest police action against a revived wave of violence in the academic and industrial crisis that De Gaulle once warned could lead to civil war.

Another French worker died from injuries received in battle with the police, raising the death toll in clashes this week to three. Paris disorders overnight left 194 persons injured. More than 150 were hurt in fights between demonstrators and police in St. Nazaire.

Information Minister Yves Guena announced the ban on street demonstrations will last through the election campaign and the voting for a new National Assembly, to be completed June 30.

Banned organizations include the March 22 Movement, a radical student group headed by Daniel Cohn - Bendit, a 23-year-old West German known as "Danny the Red."

Cohn - Bendit, the idol of Sorbonne rioters, was in London today to tape with other student leaders from Europe and the United States a television program called "Students in Revolt." The British Broadcasting Corp., paid for Cohn-Bendit's ticket and got him liberated for the BBC show after he was held three hours at London Airport on arriving unheralded from Frankfurt.

The spark that touched off the new student rioting was the drowning Monday of a high school student. Witnesses said the youth, along with other students, plunged into the Seine to escape a police check.

With three new "martyrs," France appeared to be in for a renewal of continued student and labor unrest after a brief period during which President Charles de Gaulle's government seemed to have mastered the nation's greatest postwar crisis.

The students began their protest in Paris last Tuesday night on the Right Bank but the police drove most of them back across the Seine to the Latin Quarter and Montparnasse. Using new tactics, the police continually broke the students into small groups, hurling tear gas barrages and concussion grenades heard miles away in the suburbs. There were many short, brisk clashes which left an uncounted number injured.

The Communist party newspaper Humanite blamed the death of the worker, Pierre Beylot, on "the Gaullist police."

"The government has decided to provoke the workers," said the paper. "It substitutes police intervention, bloody repression, for negotiation which could end a conflict which continues."

The Communist-led General Confederation of Workers, France's largest, called for a one-hour national strike today to protest the police action.

Beylot was shot through the lungs during clashes at the Peugeot auto works in Sochaux when the police tried to open the strike-bound plant.

Violence also shook four other provincial cities—Lyon, Nantes, St. Nazaire and Toulouse.

The worst was at Toulouse, in southwestern France. Students and other demonstrators surged through the city and at several points threw up barricades with park benches and traffic signs. The gendarmes charged the barricades, swinging clubs and throwing tear gas.

As the new violence swept parts of the nation, the government remained strangely silent, in contrast with frequent statements and warnings during the rioting in May.

But the government gave in to union demands that police move away from the strike-bound auto plats at Sochaux and at Flins, near Paris, another scene of recent sharp fighting. Without any announcement, the police drifted away, and the managers stopped any attempt to resume operations.

Upwards of a million strikers —mostly in the working and auto industries—are still demanding higher wages and other benefits.

Other extremist groups dissolved by government order were the Marxist-Leninist Union of Communist Youth, the Federation of Revolutionary Students, the Liaison Committee of Revolutionary Students, the Communist Revolutionary Youths the Group of the Revolt and the Workers Voice, a Maoist labor group.

The minister said violation of the government decision to abolish the groups would mean prison sentences of six months to two years according to the law.

Guena said election campaign meetings in closed places will not be affected by the ban on demonstrations, but all street demonstrations are illegal.

A new escalation of the crisis appeared in prospect as students rioted in Paris for the second night running, the Communists called a one-hour general strike today, and the Paris students scheduled another demonstration tonight.

Henri Blanchet, a 49-year-old worker at the Peugeot auto plant at Sochaux, in Alsace, died shortly after midnight of a fractured skull received when he fled from a police charge at the strikebound plant Monday.

Blanchet was the second worker to fall since the general strike began in mid-May in response to a student revolt at the University of Paris. Another Peugeot striker died of a bullet during the battle at Sochaux Monday, and a riot policeman was reported in "desperate condition" after being clubbed in the abdomen with an iron bar.

Harriman Protests Saigon Attacks

PARIS (AP) - The United States protested to North Vietnam in the Paris peace talks today against "particularly vicious rocket attacks" on the heavily populated center of Saigon.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman told the North Vietnamese that the United States had reports that "the current offensive was planned and directed by North Vietnamese generals." He said this information came to the U.S. government from high-ranking defectors.

He met with the North Vietnamese envoy Xuan Thuy for almost four hours. The sessions were adjourned until next Wednesday.

"Today," Harriman said, "I want to be sure you understand that this is a situation which could have the most serious consequences for these talks."

Earlier when asked by newsmen whether the United States would take retaliatory action by renewed bombing of Hanoi or other centers-Harriman said that was not the business of this conference but a question for President Johnson.

Harriman said the bombardments of Saigon have been carried out "using the North Vietnamese rockets and mortars.

"Most importantly, the attacks have relied heavily upon North Vietnamese army troops and they are sustained by a swelling flow of men and materiel from North Vietnam.

"The troops attacking in and around Saigon are under orders to infiltrate into the city, to seize civilian homes and to dig in. Thus, the battlefield has been moved into the densely populated quarters of the capital and suburban areas with resulting heavy civilian casualties.

"The attacking units have been sacrificed. Since the beginning of May, more than 10,000 North Vietnamese soldiers and Viet Cong have been killed in the capital or in its approaches.

The first session of the talks May 13 brought a demand from Thuy for the United States to halt the rest of the bombing of North Vietnam and a counter demand from Harriman for North Vietnam to reciprocate to the limited bombing halt imposed by President Johnson on March 31. That is still the central unresolved issue.

The only basis for encouragement which Harriman and his aides have found is that Thuy, having moved his delegation into a suburban villa, appears prepared to carry on the discussions indefinitely. Neither side has made any move to break off the talks, though both have spoken of the possibility that the talks may fail.

Along with the daily bombardment of Saigon came an "official statement" from the Viet Cong, broadcast by Hanoi Radio Tuesday, predicting a general offensive.

The statement said Viet Cong offensive operations of the last four months - beginning with the Tet assault on South Vietnamese cities in February - and "the general offensive that is coming" are like the battle of Dien Bien Phu which defeated the French in 1954.

U.S. officials took this as support for their theory that North Vietnamese strategy is dominated by a "Dien Bien Phu psychology," that Hanoi's leaders are bent on a decisive victory over U.S. and South Vietnamese forces which would compel the United States to make peace on Communist terms.

Dexter Votes Bonds

DEXTER -- A $600,000 revenue bond issue for construction of the Fram Corporation building was approved by voters Tuesday, 414-2.

In Ward 1 the vote was 132-1, in Ward 2 it was 244-0 and in Ward 3 it carried 38-1.

Construction of the new factory building is underway but formal approval of the bonds was required. The bonds will be paid off by rental payments from Fram with no increase in taxes.

Fire Damages New Madrid Grocery Store

NEW MADRID--The Jones grocery store, 940 Mott St. suffered an estimated $10,000 loss to building and contents in an early morning fire today.

The fire, discovered at 1:30 a.m. by Millard Townsend, apparently started in a storage room in the rear of the building, and spread quickly to the main store building.

The city fire department was able to extinguish the blaze, but not until the building and contents were badly damaged.

Respect for Laws Public Burden, Long Says

Less Crime in Scott County Than Many Other Regions, Sheriff Dennis Says

By WARREN SOKOLIS

BENTON -- "We have a rather clean county compared to other areas," Sheriff John Dennis said, commenting on crime.

"Prosecution is above average in Scott county, and the crime rate has been low because of vigorous prosecution," he remarked.

"Word gets out to the thugs -- even those in prison-- that it's hard to get away with anything in Scott County."

The sheriff praised Magistrate Judge M. E. Montgomery and Circuit Judge Marshall Craig for their roles in keeping down the crime rate. "They know the law," he said.

But before prosecution can begin and the case comes to trial, the crime must be investigated and the criminal apprehended. This is the duty of law enforcement officers. In a rural county like Scott, much of the law enforcement depends on the sheriff's department.

Sheriff Dennis, a silver-haired man of 50, is in his 16th year as sheriff of Scott county and is a candidate for another four-year term.

The biggest crime problem in the county involves juveniles, who are getting beer and liquor, he continued.

"They get hopped up and get in trouble," he explained.

Usually an adult buys the alcoholic beverages for the teenager, he said. The sheriff's department and the state liquor department keep liquor merchants under close surveillance to reduce teenage drinking.

One of the major factors for the increase of juvenile crime can be traced to teenagers' parents, the sheriff explained. "Parents don't know where their kids are at night or who they run around with.

"Most crimes in the county involve burglary and stealing. Crimes of violence are few; the county has no organized crime."

Sheriff Dennis relies on contacts throughout the county to solve crimes.

"It is pretty well known in a town when the kids are loafing, driving around, spending money and have no source of income," he said. "Someone will tip us off and we start checking them out."

Emphasizing the importance of cooperation of private citizens in solving crimes, the sheriff said:

"If citizens have no confidence in law enforcement officers, they (officers) might as well sit behind a desk and do nothing."

To illustrate the point, he noted that witnesses had heard a burglary in process at Scott City a few weeks ago. "They waited until the next morning to call us. If they would have called us when the thing was taking place, we might have caught the burglar in the act."

One of the major duties of the sheriff's department is providing law enforcement for towns which have no law agency of their own.

These include Vanduser, Crowder, Tanner, Salcedo, Miner, Diehlstadt, Blodgett, Morley, Perkins, Rockview, New Hamburg, Commerce and Kelso. In addition, the sheriff's department assists police departments.

This situation presents its own problems of law enforcement. The smaller towns need to have their own policemen and enforce city ordinances, Sheriff Dennis said, but they have no funds to hire their own law enforcement officers.

To raise the funds, the towns would have to increase taxes, and since many of the communities are not incorporated, they cannot levy taxes.

For example, he noted, Scott City has one part-time policeman. The town's population is about 3,000 and its business district is about one and one-half miles long. "It's more than one guy can handle," he remarked.

Last month the residents defeated a proposed tax increase to employ a full-time policeman. The vote failed, 124-80.

One problem faced by the sheriff's department is a small staff. In addition to Sheriff Dennis, the department has three full-time deputies, Mrs. Sylvester Scherer and Jack Stewart, both of Benton, and Ed Michael, Sikeston.

Mrs. Scherer serves as radio dispatcher, keeps the office records and takes care of woman prisoners.

The department is on call 24 hours a day. Most calls are received at night.

After 5 p.m. all calls go to the Dennis home, across the street from the court house. The department needs someone in the office during the night to supervise the jail and take calls. This would require hiring two more deputies.

"Most of the calls are received from 8 p.m. to 3 a.m. Someone has to go," he said.

But not all the sheriff's duties are concerned with criminal work. The statutory duties of the office include serving of all civil process -- jurors, witnesses, defendants and the like-- transportation of prisoners and mentally ill persons to institutions, attendance at courts, maintenance of the jail and caring for prisoners and acceptance of bond in traffic cases.

Sheriff Dennis said he spends about 15 to 20 days a month attending circuit court, eight to nine days a month in magistrate court and one to two days a month in probate court.

"Of course, court sessions usually don't last the whole day, but whenever a court is in session, I spend about half a day in the courtroom," he pointed out.

Another problem for his department is the jail facilities. There is no jailer at the court house where juveniles are kept and the county jail only has a part-time jailer, who is also the courthouse custodian.

"We need a cook at the jail or a jailer to do the cooking," the sheriff said. "The jail is outdated. It was built during the early 1930s and they were short of funds when they put up the concrete building."

The jail is dangerous because when an officer goes back to the cell block, he must pass by the other cells. The sheriff and deputies have been attacked by prisoners while walking through the jail.

"I came near as I ever did to getting hurt once as I walked past a jail cell," he recalled. A prisoner had fashioned a knife from a spoon, honing it to a razor sharp edge.

As Sheriff Dennis passed, the prisoner took a swipe with his weapon. It missed the flesh but was close enough to split his shirt, the sheriff recalled.

The sheriff's department has a budget for 1968 of $47,000. These funds must cover the expense of taking care of the jail, criminal investigation, salaries, prisoners' food and criminal mileage.

In 1952 the department budget was $37,000. Since then salaries have increased, there has been more court sessions to attend and criminal and investigation mileage rates have increased.

With the need for more personnel in the department, the current budget isn't enough to meet its requirements, he said.

Sheriff Dennis was born in Patton in 1917. He was reared on a farm and was graduated from Blodgett high school. He served three years in the army during the depression. He served in the marines throughout the South Pacific during World War II.

Following his discharge from the marines in 1946, he moved to New Hamburg, where he operated a confectionary for six years and then worked at Marquette cement plant in Cape Girardeau.

While at New Hamburg he helped organize and manage a softball team. The team made two trips to state softball tournaments.

He and his wife, Myrtle, have three daughters. Mrs. Nancy Hopper, Sikeston, Mrs. Kay Davis, Cape Girardeau, and Mrs. Sharon Stuckey, Benton.

In 1952 he made his bid for election to the office of sheriff. "I had no previous experience but always was interested in police work and was encouraged by several people to run because I had been active working with kids," the sheriff recalled.

His opponent for the Democratic nomination in 1952 was Early Malcolm of Sikeston, who had been sheriff two terms. Dennis defeated him by 357 votes after a heated campaign. The new sheriff took office Jan. 1, 1953.

He has faced opposition in the primary in the three elections since then. Scott County is heavily Democratic. Victory in the primary is tantamount to election.

"One thing I'm real proud of," he remarked, "the last three times I have run for sheriff I have not lost a precinct in the county."

Sheriff John Dennis

Another thing of which he is proud is that there have been two grand jury investigations in the county since he took office, and "there has been no criticism about the lack of law enforcement in the county."

His 16-year tenure makes him the senior sheriff in counties in the immediate area and one of the ranking sheriffs in the state. He has been president of the Missouri Sheriff's association and the Missouri Peace Officers association.

Reminiscing about cases he has investigated Sheriff Dennis recalled "the most difficult I had

June is the month for brides. But what about the lady who was a bride last June, or many Junes ago?

For that lady, a present is in order. Perhaps just from her husband, perhaps from her children, and perhaps -- particularly on a 10th, 25th, or 50th anniversary - from all her friends and relations.

We all know that silver is proper for a 25th wedding anniversary and gold for a 50th anniversary. But what of other years?

There are several lists and they difer on a few particulars. Here is a list, which has been expanded to include new products on the market.

First anniversary: Paper, plastics.

Second: Cotton.

Third: Leather, or any leatherlike article.

Fourth: Linen, silk, rayon, nylon, or other synthetic silks.

Fifth: Wood and decorative accessories for the home.

Sixth: Iron.

Seventh: Wool cooper or brass.

Eighth: Bronze, or electrical appliances.

Ninth: Pottery, china, glass, or crystal.

Tenth: Tin, or aluminum.

Eleventh: Steel.

Twelfth: Linen, silk, or nylon.

Thirteenth: Lace.

Fourteenth: Ivory, or agate.

Fifteenth: Crystal or glass.

Twentieth: China, or occasional furniture.

Twenty-fifth: Silver

Thirtieth: Pearls, or personal gifts.

Thirty-fifth: Coral or jade.

Fortieth: Rubies, or garnets.

Forty-fifth: Sapphires, or tourmalines.

Fiftieth: Gold.

Fifty-fifth: Emeralds, or turquoise.

Sixtieth: Diamonds, or gold.

Seventy-fifth: Diamonds or gold.

THE QUEEN AT 42

The United Kingdom observes the birthday of Queen Elizabeth III on Saturday, June 8. This is the official b, the Queen was 42 years old on her real natal day of April 21.

Any Commonwealth nation may celebrate the Queen's birthday when it pleases or when it's most convenient The British embassy in Washington is holding its birthday party on June 6. By a proclamation issued 11 years ago, Canada combines the Queen's birthday with Empire Day or Victoria Day, and this is designated as the last Monday before May 25.

Features of the anniversary in the U. K. are the Trooping of the Color and the Queen's garden reception, functions which would not go well with a chilly, rainy April. The Queen also chooses the occasion to announce her honors list. This is a semi-annual event, the other announcement being made traditionally on New Year's Day. Twice a year the British aristocracy gets a transfusion of middle-class blood.

In the remainder of Europe's kingdoms titles are transmitted only by birth, marriage, or adoption. In Britain tha aristocracy remains open. Queen Elizabeth on June 17 will invest her son, Prince Charles as a Knight in the Order of the Garter, one of the Kingdom's highest honors. Charles will not be invested as Prince of Wales however, until June 1, 1969.

TRUE'S PICTURES AREN'T TRUE

Newspaper advertisements showing U.S. senatorial candidate True Davis with all kinds of important persons have been appearing in Southeast Missouri weeklies and dailies in recent weeks. Showing the St. Joseph candidate with such persons as President Kennedy and Governor Hearnes, the advertisements have prompted a question by some observers: Doesn't True Davis know anyone but Presidents and Governors?

Of course he does, and the truth is, the newspaper advertisements of Candidate Davis and the important political figures prove that he does. He knows an awfully good photo cropper.

For example, the one showing Davis with Governor Hearnes is actually an "adaptation"of one that originally showed Davis, Gov. Hearnes, U.S. Rep. Bill Hull state Sen. and Mrs. John E. Downs of St. Joseph and Sen. Downs' mother, all attending a Down's testimonial dinner in St. Joseph.

In the altered picture, now appearing in advertisements throughout Missouri the Downs family has been cropped from the scene and Rep. Hull has been moved in closer to Gov. Hearnes and candidate Davis.

Which, when you get down to it hardly ties in with Davis' election theme: "For your family's sake, your next Senator should be True."

Perhaps there's nothing wrong with using altered photographs in a campaign, although there is a certain legal question involved, since original photographs are altered and since persons pictured with Davis imply a kind of political support that is not necessarily accurate.

If the trend continues, candidates can "appear" with all kinds of world figures, and we eagerly anticipate the day when some candidate goes all the way and secures an audience with the Diety.

NOISE AND HEALTH

Big-city air is doubly polluted -- by fumes and dirt and by noise. The latter kind of pollution will be the subject of a two-day National Conference on Noise as a Public Health Hazard, opening in Washington on Thursday, June 13. As the name of the conference suggests noise can be injurious as well as merely annoying.

Exposure to certain kinds of noise is said to produce hearing loss, damage to the nervous system, and interference with the depth of sleep. But some individuals are better able to tolerate noise than others perhaps because of differences in experience or temperament. It has been observed that complaints about noise come disproportionately from neurotic people.

Obviously the louder a sound the more likely it is to produce annoyance. Most studies agree that a high-pitched noise is more annoying than an equally loud low-pitched noise. A third feature of noises which is often found to be related to their capacity to annoy is the degree of variability in the noise itself A sound which is modulated in intensity is much more annoying than a steady sound;

Noise can be controlled if not eliminated. Making rooms "quieter" by making them "noisier" is one of the favorite devices used by acoustical planners in an effort to get maximum noise control at minimum cost. The background noise itself must be bland and continuous so that it will be scarcely noticed. Central air conditioning systems provide such a background and at the same time keep windows closed against intrusion of distracting street noises.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

If you have to trust someone, you'll generally do better by putting your faith in a fat man. Fat people are more likely to be honest than skinny people simply because it usually takes too much energy to be crooked.

The more sophisticated the conversation at a Manhattan cocktail party, the less likely it is that half the guests present can give the right answer to a practical question, such as, "How many faucets are there on a milk cow?"

A fellow wouldn't mind the high cost of sending a son through college if it would just send him back home a good quarterback.

A man is still boss in the family if, when they go shopping together in the supermarket, he walks in front of the shopping cart and she pushes it.

The trouble with many rebellions today is that they seem designed to stir echoes rather than achieve goals. Even those who join in them often can't explain clearly what they are for.

Nine out of ten lads and lassies who are wearing the new popular tight-collar Nehru jackets can't spell Nehru's first name without looking it up. But you and I knew all the time it was Jawaharlal—or something like that—didn't we?

Fishing has always seemed to me one of the dullest of all ways for a man to kill time, but it does have one good result: Few of its devotees end up in either police courts or divorce courts.

What makes the outrageous opinions of today's teen-age children even more irritating to parents is the way the kids pop their gum while expressing them.

A hypocrite is a guy who takes a pair of binoculars to a beach strewn with bikini-clad girls and pretends he likes to stare through the glasses at all the sailboats standing out to sea.

Liquor never reveals a man's true character more surely than inheriting money does. So the sternest of all tests of a man's principles must be whether he can inherit a profitable distillery and remain the same sweet guy his friends thought him to be before.

One way to tell a man's age is to toss a penny on the sidewalk in front of him. If he glances at it, then walks on, he's under 35. If he bends down and picks it up, he's between 36 and 49. If he starts to bend down but halts because his back hurts him, he's over 50.

Just when we decide the world has gone altogether to the devil, we see, now and then, an old lady placidly at work in her rose garden, and decide there is some hope for mankind yet.

Got Any Change?

TWO MEN WALKED up to a health bar and ordered carrot cocktails. Immediately after they were served, one of the men threw down two bottles caps in payment.

"What goes here," said the store owner. "You trying to be funny?

At that the second man winked at the proprietor and motioned him to step down to the end of the bar. As the two walked away out of earshot of the first, the man siad, "That's my kuncle. He is a little lost in his head. Go ahead and yumor him. Let him pay you in bottle caps and then after we have finished I'll settle up with you."

After the two men had been there for about an hour the store owner said to the second man, "Well, it's closing time now, time to settle up."

"Okay," said the man, "how many bottle caps do you have?

"Twenty-six."

"That's right," the man said, "Now do you have change for a manhole cover?

ON HOODLUM BRUTALITY

The other day we came upon a simple statistic out of Newark, N. J., which made us wonder why there wasn't a riot there last year, with the Newark Police Department doing the rioting. The men in blue certainly had cause.

During 1966, a total of 187 policemen in Newark were victims of hoodlum brutality. That's approximately 14 per cent of the uniformed force. They were victims of "police brutality" in reverse, with hoods and punks providing the brutality. But since it's the police who get beaten and maimed, no one becomes indignant. No groups are organized to march on city hall or stage sitdowns at the state capitol. No one screams for federal fund to improve the lot of the poor persecuted man on the beat, build him a new house or train him for a less hazardous job. No politician even goes through the motions of appointing a commission to study the matter for a year or so, till after the next election.

So the policeman's lot continues to be an unhappy one, with all signs indicating that things are likely to get a lot worse. Not only is the policeman at the mercy of the hoodlums in a community; he is made a patsy by politicians who have no qualms whatever about jeopardizing the lives and property of decent people.

Some of the reports coming out of cities ripped apart by criminal mobs are almost incredible. We learn that police and law enforcement officers were ordered to stand by while hoodlums burned and looted. The reason? Action against this rabble might have "antagonized" them! In many cases the use of weapons was restricted to a point where they ere little more than ornaments. Troops which might have quelled riots in their crucial early stages were kept inactive; guardsmen were told that if they happened to shoot anyone they would be held personally responsible and would have to face civil trial and a court martial. Police were subjected to harrassment-by-law, as so-called "civil rights lawyers" filed suits against them for fantastic amounts.

Who wants to be a policeman in such an atmosphere? Would you?

One of these days the politicos responsible for this are going to wake up and find their communities-and themselves-without any protection whatsoever. Maybe by that time they will realize what they have done.

But it will take some recruiting drive to mobilize a police force on that day.

HOW ABOUT OUR WELFARE KIDS?

What's happening to the "second generation" of welfare recipients?

Are "welfare children" growing up to be "welfare adults"?

Not in Mecklenburg County, North Carolina.

(Mecklenburg's county seat is Charlotte, the state's biggest city with its population of more than 200,000. The area is heavily industrialized.)

The Mecklenburg County Welfare Department has completed a study of 100 families receiveing Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) in January, 1955.

What has happened to the 456 children in those families?

Only 1.9 per cent of those children who are now adults are on public relief as "second generation" welfare dependents.

44 per cent have graduated from high school, and 17 per cent of these have gone on to college.

Half of those who have reached maturity are married and living with their spouses.

71 per cent are now able-bodied adults in the labor market, and only 10 per cent are unemployed.

7 per cent are professional workers (mostly teachers or nurses).

9.7 per cent are clerical workers.

1.9 per cent are officials, managers or proprietors of businesses.

This record is all the more encouraging in view of the family backgrounds of the children.

33 of the families were on welfare because the father had deserted the family.

25 families involved unwed mothers.

19 had disabled fathers.

16 had deceased fathers.

7 had fathers in jail.

Perhaps Mecklenburg County isn't a typical case and doesn't accurately reflect the national welfare picture.

But it does indicate that in our county, at least, it has paid to treat human beings as human beings and to have had faith that welfare children will grow up to prefer independence and responsibility to living on the dole.

Direct observation and psychological tests given in a study of home accidents by a large insurance company reveal that some women are more accident-prone than others. The accident - prone woman is generally shorter than average, and quite feminine in appearance. She is slightly hypochondriac, is quite emotional in her approach to problems, and is not well organized. Sloppy workers are also accident prone. The accident-free woman, on the other hand, is taller, calmer, faster at her work, well-organized, uses the correct tools, and follows directions. So it was said.

If consumers only had to pay their own tax they would be on easy street. But they have to pay the tax of everyone who deals in the products. They have to purchase, from producers to consumers, and that's quite a list.

UNREST IN CUBA

The people enslaved by Fidel Castro's communist regime in Cuba have begun to display their hostility to that regime more openly. Reports indicate that unrest is high and Castro has sponded by becoming more repressive.

In a March 13 speech, Castro revealed that the Central Committee of the communist party had conducted an investigation of the attitudes of the people. He said that more than 77% of the people of Havana Province were found to be "counter-revolutionaries."

The next day, Castro announced that he had closed 7,407 businesses including 955 bars, banned the Cubans' favorite sport, cockfighting, and reduced the rice ration for many families from twelve to three pounds a month.

The closing of bars and the ban on cockfighting was an attempt to reduce criticism of the government. Since Cubans cannot have social gatherings in their homes without a government permit, they had been meeting in the bars and at sporting events to give vent to their anti- Castro sentiments. Castro apparently believes that if the people are not able to discuss their discontent, they will not have any.

Castro has increased pro-government propaganda. Every day, the radio stations cry: "Down with the pessimists! Report all counter-revolutionaries!" Castro militants have been ordered to "shut the mouths of those who talk against the revolution in buses, ration lines and places of work."

Communism's miserable failure in Cuba is becoming more obvious every day to the Cuban people. Castro's increasing oppression has failed to still the love of freedom in the hearts of many Cubans. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Profits zoom from crime on television; TV serves as babysitter for working mothers: LBJ has new FCC commissioner to appoint.

WASHINGTON -- Most people have forgotten it, but former Sen. Clarence Dill of Washington is the chief author of the 1934 communications act regulating the thousands of TV and radio programs which the American public hears and sees daily.

"When we wrote the act," said Sen. Dill recently, "Senator White of Maine and I considered whether we should put a ceiling on profits. After all, the act provided for the use of air channels belong to the public and the public had a right to be paid for them out of profits.

"However, we decided there wouldn't be any profits. That's why there is no requirement in the law for any rental or benefit to the public. "If we had it to do over again, the law would have been different," said former Sen. Dill, now retired and living in Spokane.

His words are significant in view of the stinging report issued by two members of the fFederal Communications Commission, Kenneth Cox and Nicholas Johnson, pointing to the profits of the TV- Radio industry.

CRIME ON TV

Coupled with their report comes the tragic death of Sen. Robert Kennedy and the reaction of at least one member of the President's newly appointed commission on violence, former Ambassador Patricia Harris, who says that when life is so cheap on television it becomes cheap also in reality.

Since 1960, the nation's population has grown by 10 per cent. But since 1960, the nation's crime rate has gone up 88 per cent.

Significantly, the rate of crime more nearly matches the growth of the TV industry than it does the growth of the nation. Further more, the rate of crime is highest among the youth who have grown up glued to the TV sets.

American industry appropriates billions each year for the TV commercials which sell its products, and tells its stockholders the money spent is a good investment. But if the TV commercial sells its product then the TV program must also sell its no. 1 product -- crime. You can't sell one without selling the other. When a child sees men shot, week in and week out, he comes to believe that shooting a man is as easy and as common as washing one's hair with a glamor rinse.

Forty per cent of the working force today is women -- many of them mothers -- and with around 30 million mothers working, the TV set has become the baby sitter at home. This may be worse than no mother at all.

With crimes of violence deluging the networks daily, it's time we asked whether TV murder brought into our homes is not the cause of actual murder in our streets.

The commission on violence should ask -- if three minutes on TV will sell millions of tubes of toothpaste, how much crime in the street will 27 minutes of TV crime sell?

It is a miracle of distribution that TV can reach tens of millions of people at the same time. It is a miracle of distribution that a water system can distribute fresh water to every home in a city.

Today we select the products we use and the people to govern us by means of TV. We are also showing young minds -- too young to select -- a selection of crimes.

TV BONANZA PROFITS

The FCC survey by commissioners Cox and Johnson did not deal specifically with TV crime but rather with the huge profits derived from this kind of programming and the manner in which the FCC renews licenses almost automatically.

"The television industry averages about 100 per cent return on depreciated tangible investment and about 40 per cent on gross revenues," the two commissioners reported.

They found that only one of ten stations in Oklahoma with around $16,000,000 a year gross devotes as much as two hours a week to local public affairs programs.

"There is not in the entire state (of Oklahoma) a single regularly scheduled crime time program devoted to presentation, analysis, or discussion of controversial issues of public importance in the state or in the community," reported commissioners Cox and Johnson.

Yet the FCC renewed their licenses automatically.

Cox and Johnson could have gone further if they had scrutinized the national TV-radio scene. If so, they would have discovered that network profits were among the highest in the nation, chiefly from rearing children on crime programs. For the first half of 1967 the three networks racked up a total profit of $718,700,000.

CBS has made so much money in recent years that it has difficulty investing its profits and has branched out into baseball, theatrics, educational book publishing and even guitar manufacturing. Among other things, it owns the New York Yankees and "My Fair Lady."

All this presents a problem for President Johnson. He has an FCC commissioner to appoint this month. The FCC has been criticized in the past for enhancing Ladybird's stations in Texas. So the country will be watching to see whether LBJ appoints a forthright commissioner who watches the public interest or another patsy who promotes private profits through violence, sex and crime.

ACCOMPLICES IN CRIME

Public Condones Mass Murders, Corruption Among Highest National Officials

NEW YORK — All right let's talk about violence. Let's talk about murder. Let's talk about those million people among whom I walked outside the Cathedral.

Some were sobbing. Some were stolid. All were bitter, angry, though they've lived amid violence, murder, mass killings, torture all their lives—as have their fellow citizens in a hundred cities.

Let's not just talk of a lone assassin. Let's talk of the organized, methodical killing the people tolerate and raise not a protesting voice unless the blood splatters on them.

In Chicago, alone, the anticrime commission has tallied more than a thousand underworld killings in recent decades.

In Boston during the past several years, more than 40 men have been shot down with bullets in the gut or back of the neck. Hundreds have been executed by the Cosa Nostra's enforcers in New York City.

Hundreds more have been gunned down in Kansas City, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Northern New Jersey. Scores have been bombed to bits in Youngstown, Ohio, Detroit, and any other metropolis you can stick with a pin on a schoolroom map.

Even to this day, there are shoot-outs on big city streets. We've lived with it for decades on the labor front.

Just 20 years ago, auto union leader Walter Reuther was almost cut in half in his kitchen by a shotgun blast. A year later his brother Victor was hit in the face by another gun blast.

The next year, the Detroit police told another of this union's officials he was on the Mafia's death list, and to this day he is under bodyguard. There is no such thing as yesterday's security. It always is now.

Some Mafia millionaires have their own police force, air fleet, radio stations and mini-armies.

Those who weep today for a fallen man, yawned yesterday when they read of other killings and corruption which corrde the nation, develop a permissiveness and a cynicism which move good folk to skip right past the crime news to the sports pages.

There are some great police forces—and some which stink. There is the force in one Mississippi city which refused to permit the police of a Northern city to investigate a powerful Mafia chief. The visiting probers had to go to the U.S. armed forces to get equipment for the search.

There are mayors who have been bought and sold by mobs. Bob Kennedy chuckled once as he told this writer of a mob which, when it needed sudden money, sold a half interest in a mayor to another syndicate.

There is a mayor in one Midwest city who, to the knowledge of federal authorities took $1,000 a day in cash from the mob—but this was a local violation and neither the FBI nor the IRS could do anything about it.

There have been Congressmen who have sat with Cosa Nostra "torpedoes." There was a governor who met regularly each week in a Pennsylvania hotel dining room with the local Mafia don. There are governors who have unwittingly conferred with Mafia front men. And judges too. And some, not so unwittingly.

Thus, a second government has developed. It is so arrogant that I have heard some of its people say they can reach into the Supreme Court. I doubt it. But they say it.

Those people who sob today, cry for a man with whom I've disagreed quite often. But on one front we were united.

Bob Kennedy knew the menace of the Mafia. We talked often of the Cosa Nostra's conditioning the citizenry to the all-pervading underworld which was shaken down the Army's quartermaster division, the Navy, the Air Force, and even Atomic Energy Commission's prime contractors.

He was amazed when there was little shuddering or public anger when he reported that the Mafia had disposed of one of its people by cutting the goon up into little bits in Connecticut.

Those Mafia men become legendary untouchables. Television and movie cameras, which recorded Bob Kennedy's last hours from the bullet to the grave, also give the public its kicks by romanticizing killers, bank robbers, sadists, racketeers and public men whom we all know as comrades of comrades of the Cosa Nostra.

Two years ago the Mafia's national commissione met in a Queens, N.Y., restaurant. They were pulled in by an overambitious district attorney before they could be fully wired for sound.

The Mafia's high command had just about finished its biscuit tortoni when the cops came. The public loved it. The New York Times dispatched its food critic to the eatery. And now you just can't get a table in the joint unless you know somebody.

So we load the guns against us. This country defies violence and then is startled when a national leader gets cut down.

And that new philosophical star, longshoreman Eric Hoffer, member of the Presiden't new violence inquiry commission, says tafter the assassination: "Basically we are the most gentle, generous, law-abiding and cooperative people on earth . . . We are not violent."

This longshoreman philosopher, who seems to have made such an impression on President Johnson these days, ought to stop character acting and go back to dock walloping. He's the opiate of the people.

What this country needs is a shot in the arm, a kick in the conscience, and a jolt into reality.

Otherwise there will be many more mass funerals.

Ules Pressons Married Fifty Years

EAST PRAIRIE -- Mr. and Mrs. Ules Presson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary June 2, at a reception given in their honor at their home on South Center Street by their children. Guests called from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Presson were married on May 29, 1918 in the home of Mrs. Presson's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George LaPlant at Barnes Ridge. Their attendants were Mrs. Verlon Braden and Herbert Poe. Mrs. Braden, who now lives in Flint, Michigan, was unable to attend the reception because of ill health. Poe is deceased.

Mrs. Presson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Tanner. Presson now retired, has been a businessman in East Prairie for many years, having owned and operated the Presson Motor Co., with his son, L. B., prior to his retirement.

Mr. and Mrs. Presson are the parents of three children, Mrs. Scott Mainord; Mrs. Howard Schneider and L. B. Presson, all living in the vicinity of East Prairie. They have seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The home was decorated in a white and gold decor. Floral gifts from their friends and relatives were in abundance throughout the home.

The reception table, covered with white organdy, was centered with a five branch gold candelabra surrounded by white chrysanthemums and white roses. A cut glass punch bowl and a silver coffee serve graced either end of the table. Petite fours, nuts, mints and golden punch were served by the couple's granddaughters, Miss Cherie Schneider and Mrs. Robert Botkin. Miss Martha Sue Mainord, another granddaughter, presided at the guest book.

Relatives and friends of the Pressons from Belleville, Ill. Memphis, Tenn., Johnson City, Tenn., New Madrid, Sikeston, Charleston and East Prairie called throughout the afternoon.

Following the reception, a buffet supper was served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Presson for members of the family and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hawkins and daughter from Memphis, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford LaPlant of Sikeston and Mr. and Mrs. James Scott.

Marriage of Candace Catherine Reed, Robert Pell Gillespie Solemnized

COLUMBIA -- In the presence of their families and close friends, the marriage of Candace Catherine Reed and Robert Pell Gillespie was solemnized by the Rev. Maurie C. Kaser at 11 a.m. June 4 in A. P. Green Memorial Chapel.

Miss Reed is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Reed, Higbee, Gillespie is the son of Mrs. Jane B. Gillespie, Sikeston, and William L. Gillespie, Cairo, Ill. June 4 is the wedding anniversary of the groom's parents and also his maternal grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Bartmess.

One large, fan-shaped arrangement of white snapdragons and small white chrysanthemums was centered behind the opened Bible and tall cathedral candles. Seven-branched candelabra on each side of the chancel were lighted by Bradford J. Reed, brother of the bride. Family pews were marked with white satin ribbon and clusters of white snapdragons and chrysanthemums.

Mrs. E. B. Poage, organist of Sikeston, played appropriate wedding music preceding the ceremony, and accompanied Mrs. M. L. Canedy, soloist, of Sikeston, as she sang "I Love Thee," preceding the entrance of the groom's mother, "At Dawning," preceding the entrance of the bride's mother, and "The Wedding Prayer during the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, wore a white dotted Swiss wedding gown of her own design and creation. The controlled skirt consisted of five square neckline accented at the center by a lace modesty piece, and long fitted sleeves with lace at the wrists falling over her hands. Her finger-tip length veil of imported illusion, and her modesty veil, were secured by an open crown of pearls and crystals. She wore a single strand of graduated cultured pearls and dainty matching earrings, a gift from the groom. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis. Her blue garter was handmade by the groom's late maternal grandmother, and she borrowed the British sixpence she wore in her shoe.

Attending their older sister were Miss Roxanne Reed, maid of honor, and Miss Penny Reed, bridesmaid. Their identical dresses were of dotted swiss. The floor-length A-line skirts were accented at the Empire waistlines by matching velvet ribbon. A broad band of lace was inset at the top of the deep hem and the three-fourths length bell sleeves featured matching bands of the lace inset. Their stiffened lace tiaras were held in place by circlets of velvet and secured their short veils. The maid of honor, wearing pale yellow, carried a bouquet of light blue daisies with long blue velvet streamers. The bridesmaid wore light blue and carried a similar bouquet of yellow daisies with long yellow velvet streamers.

The groom wore a sprig of the flowers from his bride's bouquet on his lapel. He chose as best man his only brother, Air Force Lt. William B. Gillespie, Fairborn, Ohio. Bradford J. Reed, brother of the bride, served as groomsman and Michael Wertz, of Columbia, served as usher. The groom's attendants' boutonnieres were white rosebuds.

Mrs. Reed wore a jacket dress of pale gray, shadow-etched in red. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of Garnet roses. In her arms she carried the youngest member of the family, five-month old Stacy Ann.

Mrs. Jane B. Gillespie was escorted to her appointed place by her older son, Lt. William B. Gillespie. She wore a coin dotted white sheath, topped by a fll length Navy blue organza coat, and a matching pillbox hat of organza petals. A large fresh American Beauty cabbage rose was pinned to her small velvet clutch purse.

Immediately following the ceremony, the wedding couple greeted their families and friends at The Hathman House, where Miss Gay Forsee, was in charge of the guest book. Arrangements of blue and yellow daisies centered the three long tables. The bride placed her bouquet on the bride's table beside the three-tiered wedding cake. The bouquets of her attendants were placed at either end of the wedding couple's table. Following a Polynesian luncheon, the bride and groom cut their wedding cake, which was then served to the guests, as were the groom's cake bon bons.

As the bride ascended the spiral staircase to change into her traveling costume, she tossed her wedding bouquet, which was caught by Susan Johnmeyer. The groom tossed his bride's blue garter over his shoulder, and it was caught by his brother, Lt. Gillespie.

For traveling, the new Mrs. Gillespie wore a sleeveless sheath of light blue ottoman, also of her own creation, as was her matching small hat. She wore a gardenia encircled with stephanotis pinned at her shoulder.

Later in the evening, after their arrival in Sikeston, a number of their friends surprised the newlyweds at an old-fashioned charivari, which lasted well into the early morning hours.

Upon returning from their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie will be at home for the summer in Sikeston, where both are employed. In September they will return to Columbia, where they are students at the university.

Mrs. Gillespie, a graduate of the Fayette high school, will be a senior in the school of nursing at the University of Missouri. Gillespie, a graduate and post-graduate of Columbia Military Academy, Columbia, Tenn., received his bachelor of science degree from Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau. He was awarded the master of science degree in animal husbandry at the University of Missouri, where he is working toward a doctorate in that field.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. E. O. DeField, and Miss Ina Pemberton, all of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Bartmess, Kennett; Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Gillespie, Lexington, Ky.; Wm. L. Gillespie, Cairo, Ill. Mrs. Robert W. Sauer, Mrs. N. W. Pemberton, and Mrs. Geo. B. Munroe, all of St. Louis, and Mrs. M. P. Clark, Plant City, Fla.

REHEARSAL DINNER

June 3, following the rehearsal, Mrs. Jane B. Gillespie and her son, Lt. William B. Gillespie, entertained the members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests at dinner at The Hathman House. Two long tables were decorated with arrangements of blue and yellow daisies. Gillespie, as toastmaster, recounted amusing anecdotes in the lives of the honored couple and offered the first toast.

Advance Church to Mark Anniversary

ADVANCE -- The 50th anniversary of the Advance Methodist church will be celebrated Sunday. Speakers will be Bishop Eugene Maxwell Frank, St. Louis, Missouri Area of the United Methodist church, and the Rev. John C. Montgomery, Jr., Farmington, district superintendent, Cape Girardeau- Farmington district.

The invocation will be by Rev. Lindbergh Stephens, pastor. The Rev. Mr. Stephens will preside at the morning's "Moments of Informal Fellowship" which will include welcome, registration of attendance and announcements.

Services will begin at 10:45 a.m.

The anthem "God's House," will be sung by the church choir.

At 12:45 p.m. lunch will be served in the church dining room.

The afternoon program will begin at 2 p.m. with recognition of charter members.

The speaker will be Miss Verda Farrar, a retired missionary, who will speak on "Our Heritage." Miss Farrar, a missionary from the Advance church, retired after spending 36 years in the mission field in Brazil.

On display will be a bulletin that was used when the present building was dedicated in 1918.

A history of the church will be given to everyone present.

New Madrid WMS Aids Needy Family

NEW MADRID -- The Baptist Women's Missionary Society met at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the church. Fourteen members were present.

The meeting opened with Mrs. Pearl Throop, chairman, reading from the prayer calendar. Mrs. Grace Harris gave the prayer.

Members reported on the bazaar items sent to the children's home in Bridgeton for the strawberry festival. A letter of thanks received from the home was read.

Mission action was taking food to a needy family. A cash love gift was presented a member.

The society will sponsor a child to summer camp. Counselors going to camp are Hubert and Grace Harris and Mrs. Lorene Shepard.

The program, "Pluses for New Missionaries," summarizing requirements of missionaries, was given by Marsha McVay. Assisting in the program were Mrs. Annie Beeson, Mrs. Sandra Kerr, Mrs. Jean Gilliland and Mrs. Harris.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Miss Jeanette Haubold.

Refreshments were served by co-hostess, Mrs. Pearl Bailey, Mrs. Lee Earl Carpenter and Mrs. Throop.

The annual tryout camp of the Minnesota Twins baseball club will be held at Blanchett Park in St. Charles Monday through Wednesday.

Bill Messmann of Chesterfield, midwest Scouting supervisor, will be in charge. Workouts begin each day at 9:30 a.m.

All players should bring uniform, glove and shoes.

S. H. Sparks of Morehouse won both first class in the 13-inch and the 15-inch at the Central American championship dog trials at Cape Girardeau. A record for the Southeast Missouri Beagle Club.

The Dogs name were Cossett's Pinkey and Whayne's Dan.

Do Rite's Old Bonus took third in the 13 inch class, Jack Tisher of New Madrid is owner. Do Rite's Old Hatchet, another dog owned by Tisher placed fourth in the 15 inch class.

Fishing is reported excellent at all of the area private fishing lakes, with channel cat hitting good and a number of catches of bass reported.

Twenty players were named to the NCAA college division All-America teams by the American Association of College Baseball Coaches.

Tom Stabile of Slippery Rock had the top batting average of .478 and each of the 16 regulars hit at least .314 during the regular season.

The two first-team pitchers Charles Cappello of Long Island University, and Don Richards Chapman, Calif., met in the first game of the college division tournament Wednesday. But both succumbed to the heat and humidity and were not involved in the final decision.

The first team:

PITCHERS - Don Richards, Chapman, 12-4; Charles Cappello, Long Island University, 9-0.

Catcher - Brian Hansen, Buffalo University .477.

First base - Pat Cluney, Trinity University, Tex. .371.

Second base - Tom Heintzelman, Parsons Iowa .437.

Shortstop - Vic Ambrose, Albuquerque University .420.

Third base - Reggie Treadway, Sul Ross State, Tex. .373.

Outfield - Tony Delbane, Youngstown, Ohio, State, .436; Wayne Pitcock, Arkansas State, .314; Jim Whitehurst, Delta State, Miss., .341.

Second team:

Pitchers - Jeff Pryor, Florida Southern, 10-2; Dennis Jones, Southern Colorado, 8-1.

Catcher - Bob Bonacci Albion, Mich. .451.

First base - John Lawing, Belmonte Abbey, N.C., .356.

Second base - John Davide, Buffalo State .473.

Shortstop-John Lowestein, University of California - Riverside .393.

Third base - Gus Bell Jacksonville, Fla. .347.

Outfield - Jim Milas, Coast Guard Academy .368; Alex Rowell, Luther, Iowa .348; Tom Stabile, Slippery Rock .478.

Area fans will continue to . . . see good baseball played at VFW stadium.

But . . . one can't help but think what a game could be staged on the VFW diamond if the 1968 edition of the Sikeston Connie Mack team . . . would meet a Connie Mack team composed of former area Connie Mackers.

One might see Dick Bethune on the mound or Mike Zaricor. Rudy Manley, Richard Montgomery, Ken Davis or George Hale in the lineup. Others who could possibly be in the All-Star lineup . . . are Mike Sherry at catcher, Bill Reid, John Heacox in the infield along with Tim Garner, Sonny Jones. Ronnie Plummer and Don Metz.

The 1967 edition of the Potlatch Connie Mack team is favored to win the Black River conference and I personally think such a game could benefit the '68 Potlatchers and the area fans . . . WHAT A GAME . . .

AP - Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert did not leave it up to the individaul clubs whether to play their weekend games and did not consult with the owners before making his decision, a spokesman said Monday night.

Joseph L. Reichler, director of public relations for the commissioner's office, said Eckert ordered that all weekend games be played but that no Saturday contests start until after the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, which originally was scheduled for 5:30 p.m., EDT, but de layed more than five hours.

The commissioner consented to postponements in Washington, New York and San Francisco on Saturday and in Boston and Baltimore on Sunday at the request of those teams, Reichler said. Any other other home team that wanted to call off a game also would have needed such consent, he added.

Gibson Ends Personal Jinx

ATLANTA (AP) — St. Louis hurler Bob Gibson, who beat the Atlanta Braves Tuesday night for the first time in two years, calls the five-hit victory "the best I've pitched all year."

Gibson raised his record to 6-5 with his 6-0 rout of the Braves.

"I felt really loose," the hero of last year's World Series said. "The fast ball was my best pitch, but the curve ball was very good. I was getting the curve over."

Gibson struck out four, walked two, hit one and allowed only one Atlanta runner past first base.

"Gibson looked great," rejoiced Cardinals Manager Red Schoendienst. "It was the best he's pitched. He was throwing with a nice and easy motion, no strain. I think he's over the little arm trouble he's had."

It was Gibson's second consecutive shutout and the end of a personal jinx against Atlanta.

Braves Manager Luman Harris said he wasn't particularly discouraged about the loss.

"We're still playing well " he said. "I'm not going to get disturbed about this.

"You can't get five runs down," he added. "It takes the game out of the manager's hands. I can't hit and run. I have to just sit there and watch it."

Five of St. Louis' runs came in the first three innings, to knock out Braves pitcher Dick Kelley, 2-4.

Lou Brock opened the game with a walk and scored on Julian Javier's double. Javier scored on outfielder Mike Lum's wild throw home.

With two out in the third, Curt Flood singled, Orlando Cepeda and Mike Shannon walked and Tim McCarver singled in two runs. Shannon scored when McCarver's hit got by Lum. Flood's double and Shannon's single completed the scoring in the eighth.

All Atlanta's hits were singles, most of them widely spaced.

It was the Cardinals' 13th win in 15 games and their 10th straight over Atlanta.

The two teams meet again tonight. St. Louis will send Nelson Briles, 7-4, against the Braves' Pat Jarvis, 5-4. s

SIU Holds On

OMAHA, Neb. AP - A pair of old pro coaches in college baseball, Rod Dedeaux of Southern California and Chet Bryan of Oklahoma State, are headed for an early showdown in the College World Series tonight.

Both opened with first-round victories Tuesday night. USC needed only two hits to defeat Brigham Young 5-3 behind Bill Lee, while OSU sprayed 17 hits and got a no-hit, no-run relief job the last eight innings from Bob Richardson in an 8-5 victory over Texas.

Dedeaux is after his fourth NCAA baseball title and USC's fifth.

"USC won its in 1948 and 1958, so maybe 1968 is our year," he said.

This is Bryan's third straight trip to Omaha and he has the best hitting club of the three. The 1966 team was runner-up to Ohio State.

"We don't have a stopper, but this club has a good attitude," Bryan said. "These boys listen and respond when I tell them something."

St. John's of New York, 24-8, and North Carolina State, 24-7, both first-round winners, will play at 5:30 p.m., CDT, followed by Southern Cal., 46-14, and OSU, 21-7, at 8. In the loser's bracket at 2, Texas meets BYU. Southern Illinois, given a reprieve when Harvard dropped a game-ending pop fly, eliminated Harvard 2-1 on Jerry Bond's leadoff home run in the 11th inning Tuesday. The victory moved SIU, ranked No. 2 in the final national coaches' poll, into Thursday' third round.

St. John's will start right-hannder Rich Napolitano, 7-2 with a 0.97 earned run average on a staff with a fantastic 1.01 season ERA. NC State will start Joe Frye, 8-2, a freshman right- hander with a .379 batting average and the club leader with four home runs in just 29 trips.

USC will start right-hander Jim Southworth, 2-1 and 2.84, while Bryan will choose between a pair of right-handers, Mike Camp 1.76 and Bill Maxwell 2.11.

BYU will send right-hander Brad Meyring, 5-3 and 2.59, against Texas right-hander Larry Hardy, 4-2 and 2.48.

Wayne Weatherly's three-run homer started the OSU comeback from a 5-0 deficit and inept fielding by Texas helped in a four-run fourth which knocked out Jim Street.

BYU's Ken Crosby seemed to have a hex on USC until his own wildness and BYU errors proved his undoing in a four-run seventh. Larry Romney, the NCAA home run, hit No. 13 in the eighth with a man on.

Foresters Record 7th

A home run by Charlie Dye and the three hit pitching of Rick Wilson enabled the Sikeston Potlatch Forest Connie Mack baseball team to post its seventh win of the season against one loss yesterday as it shut out Jackson.

Potlatch swept a twin bill Saturday from Blytheville Legion, 2-1 and 19-1.

Wilson, a new resident to Sikeston from Iowa, struck out 15 in his debut for the Foresters.

Dye was the big hitter for the Foresters, collecting two hits in four trips to the plate.

Coach N.P. McDaniel's squad faces Dexter in SEMO Connie Mack league play at VFW park tonight with Tim Halter slated for mound duty. The Foresters are at home Thursday, entertaining Poplar Bluff.

Oran H.S. Opens Summer League Play With Win

Scott Anderson pitched and hit Oran past Delta in the opening game of the high school summer baseball league last night, hurling a two-hitter and blanking the Bobcats, 5-0.

Anderson whacked a double, triple and home run as the Eagles opened defense of their title.

VOTE FOR

EDWARD V. LONG

FOR U. S. SENATOR

WHAT HAVE HIS OPPONENTS PROMISED THEY WILL DO FOR AGRI-BUSINESS AND AGRICULTURE.

HERE IS PART OF LONG'S RECORD SINCE HE HAS BEEN IN THE SENATE.

Sponsored legislation to establish Medicare back in the 87th Congress.

Senator Long, a farmer himself, helped pass the Food and Agricultural Act of 1965 which extended Federal Farm programs through 1969.
Sponsored legislation to enable Farmers Home Administration to provide disaster relief for losses suffered by farmers on their homes and buildings.
Sponsored legislation to increase loans for rural electric and rural telephone service.
Strong supporter of School Lunch and School Milk programs.
Supported Fair Packaging and Labeling Act.
Supporter of legislation to assist our local law enforcement agencies to obtain modern equipment and developing effective techniques in training personnel.
In the 87th Congress he supported a measure establishing a matching grant program for re-education, training and recruitment of State and local police forces.
Senator Long is currently a sponsor of two bills providing Federal assistance for education and equipment for law enforcement officers.
He has helped many Missouri counties, towns, and communities with water, sewer highway, housing and other development projects.
Senator Long has testified before Senate committees on numerous occasions in support of flood control projects in Missouri.
Senator Long was a sponsor of the GI Benefits act of 1966.
Supported legislation to increase Social Security benefits.
Senator Long has always fought and voted against proposals which would hurt Missouri's cotton, dairy, grain and livestock farmers. He is today strongly opposed to those who call for an end to all farm programs. This is a small part of the legislation he has sponsored and fought for in our behalf.
Senator Long has always been a Missouri Senator for Missourians. He has the seniority that it takes to be heard in the Senate.
We are losing Congressman Paul Jones, who has always been a friend to Agriculture.
Most Senators and Congressmen are non rural and non rural minded.
Our Local people have been to Washington, on many occasions. on Flood Control and Farm Legislation, and have always found Senator Long on our side and ready to put his shoulder to the wheel.
Think about our losing rural Senators all over the United States and picture what it will do to agriculture and agri-business.
Vote for the man we have tried and has proven himself

VOTE FOR EDWARD V. LONG, AND RETURN HIM TO WASHINGTON.

to handle":

In 1957 a boy from Charleston and his girl friend from Sikeston were parked in a car north of Sikeston. Two assailants came up to the car, killed the boy and raped the girl.

"I worked on the case for a year," he said.

One problem in solving it was that the girl said the two assailants were Negroes. It was later learned, they were Caucasians and had worn cotton socks over their heads.

One of the assailants, Bill Slayton, was picked up on another charge and sentenced to prison at Boonville, but at the time it was not known that he was one of the assailants since officers were looking for two Negroes.

While at Boonville Slayton told another inmate about the slaying-rape incident. Word got back to the sheriff, who made three trips to Boonville to interview the prisoner.

The sheriff got a warrant for the other assailant's arrest and went to St. Louis to pick the boy up.

The other boy, Lynn Wayne Hester, re-enacted the crime for Sheriff Dennis and Sikeston Police Chief Arthur Bruce. Hester, who was the killer, was given life imprisonment, and Slayton, the rapist, was given 15 years.

The pair had been picked up by the sheriff's department two weeks after the crime had been committed. "We found the cotton masks in their car but couldn't tie it in with the case because the girl had said the assailants were Negroes."

The case from which the sheriff got the most satisfaction occurred in 1954.

A Sikeston woman was hit on the head with an iron pipe and then raped. "The first I heard about it was when I read it in the Sikeston paper," he recalled.

Bob Dempster, then prosecuting attorney, called the sheriff and asked him to help on the case. The sheriff requested and was given a plain clothes highway patrolman to help in the case because he felt the investigation would include more than Scott County.

A canvass of the neighborhood revealed that a man had been visiting his grandparents the night of the crime. He was traced to New Madrid, from where a car had been stolen that night. The car matched the description of one seen in the neighborhood.

The sheriff obtained all available pictures of the suspect from relatives telling the relatives he was a missing person. The pictures were then sent to law enforcement agencies in the areas where the suspect had relatives.

The sheriff and the trooper traced the man to the Belmont ferry and received word that he had been picked up in Clinton, Ky., where one of the pictures had been sent.

This was on a Saturday, one day after the sheriff had entered the case.

The suspect refused to waive extradition on a charge of car theft, so Sheriff Dennis flew to Jefferson City to obtain extradition papers from the attorney general and lieutenant governor.

The sheriff then flew to Frankfort, Ky., to obtain signatures of authorities so the suspect could be returned to Benton.

The suspect was returned to Missouri, and the woman who had been attacked was brought in to identify him. When she faced him, she broke down and couldn't control her emotions.

The suspect was then taken to Jefferson City, where he failed to pass a polygraph test. Still he did not confess to the crime. Sheriff Dennis pointed out that there was no conclusive evidence against the man for the rape, indicating that only by a confession could a conviction be obtained.

The sheriff had the prisoner in his home and by applying a bit of psychology, he obtained the confession.

Sheriff Dennis had arranged for the grandparents to talk to the suspect, knowing that he was fond of them. Rather than experience the shame of facing his grandparents, the man made a confession.

He waived his preliminary hearing, went before Circuit Judge D. W. Gilmore, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

After passing sentence, the judge gave the man a chance to change his plea, but he declined.

On Friday, one week after the sheriff had entered the case, he transported the man to the penitentiary to begin serving a life sentence.

Nine days after the crime was committed, the case had been solved, the man was arrested, tried, convicted and had begun serving his sentence.

This case points out the importance of the confession in solving crimes, the sheriff said. Recent United States supreme court rulings have made it difficult to make confessions stand up in a court room.

In most cases the suspect is willing to cooperate and make a confession, he said.

"Ninety-five per cent of the people you come into contact with who have violated the law will cooperate with you," he explained. "The majority of them have had unhappy backgrounds and don't have any friends. If you show them you want to help them, they will cooperate."

The supreme court has ruled that the suspect must be told that he has a right to remain silent, that anything said can be used against him as evidence in court, that he has a right to talk to a lawyer and have him present while being questioned, and that if the suspect cannot afford to pay for a lawyer, one will be appointed for him free of charge.

Even before the court ruling, the county never let a defendant go before the court without a lawyer, Sheriff Dennis said. The ruling hampers police work and causes policemen to spend a lot more time on a case than was necessary before the ruling, he said.

Before the ruling there was little police brutality used in obtaining confessions, Dennis said, and whenever there was it usually was reported to the public by communications media.

Progress Related by Secretary of State

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the text of a speech made by Missouri Secretary of State James J. Kirkpatrick at a dinner for State Sen. Nelson Tinnin and Rep. R.B' King.

MALDEN - I would like to talk to you about state government progress, and the Democratic administration that has kept its promises and continued to move Missouri forward.

This is a broad topic. I cannot cover it all in one talk. But let us review some highlights of a proud record, and how all your state elective officials have contributed to it.

Governor Hearnes. of course, has been the leader. He has shown himself to be a man of courage and action. He has established the principal policies and provided the power to make them meaningful.

Governor Hearnes' record is widely known and understood.

I would merely point out the areas in which he has been the proposer and the achiever, to the betterment of all Missourians.

These would have to include:

Mental Health and its expanding program of professionalism. This includes the three new intensive treatment centers, the nine mental retardation centers (an area in which Missouri took national leadership) and the new alchoholism program. In simplest terms, this means the Missourian who becomes mentally ill now has a better chance of being cured, and quickly. And it means that the chronic drunk will get hospital care instead of repeated and unhelpful jail sentences.

Industrail Development - Missouri last year (1967) had 322 new and expanding industrail plants, far surpassing any previous year's record. (In 1966, there were 302). During the first three years of the present administration, 58,297 new industrial jobs were announced. This is far above any previous three-year period. Total manufacturing employment in 1967 reached 455,300 jobs-the highest ever. Unemployment has declined to only 3.3 per cent. These are achievements that relate to the energetic efforts of local chambers of commerce, the professional guidance given by the state department of commerce and industrial development, and to the good business climate created for Missouri under Democratic administration of state government.

Education - New colleges at Joplin and St. Joseph; increases in junior college support, so that $2 millions in state aid in 1965 for 9,000 junior college students will become $7 millions for 25,000 students in 1969; greatly enlarged appropriations for the four-campus university system and the state colleges, and more than $30 millions in annual increases to the school foundation program. This adds up to better education for young Missourians whose lives will be entirely lives in the age of space and technology. There are some who like to portray Missouri as a laggard in higher education. They always fail to point out that between 1965 and 1967, our state increased its contribution to the operating funds for public higher education by 59 per cent. This compared to the national average of 42 per cent for that period. Missouri ranks fifth among the states in this index of accomplishment. In the same period, while enrollments grew by 47 per cent, state appropriations were up 103 per cent, and the state appropriated $77 millions to capital improvements on the various campuses. Does that sound like a state standing still?

Tourism - Visitors to Missouri are precious. They spend money for food, rest, recreation, entertainment. They pay gasoline and sales taxes into our treasury. When you add it all up, it amounts to an awful lot of money each year - at least three-quarters of a billion in "primary" dollars. The new tourism commission, organized to put more energy into our efforts to expand Missouri hospitality, represents an investment, not an expense. The average tourist spends $14.16 a day while in Missouri. The more we attract - or, if we can persuade the 21 million who come now to stay just one day more--Missouri's economy will be enormously benfited. The tourism commission expects 25 million out-of-state visitors to spend a billion dollars in Missouri in 1970. Isn't that something!

Highways--The forthcoming era of new four-lane highways will be paid for by user tolls rather than tax revenues. This expansion in useful highways has been prepared for by new legislation now awaiting court approval.

Additionally, there have been such achievements as the department of community affairs, the council on the arts, bettering the correctional system, conflict of interest and civil rights legislation and improvement in the kind and quality of welfare assistance increased.

Missouri certainly has a proud ecord in a most sensitive area-finances. The state treasury has been thrifty, efficient and prosperous.

Today, Missouri gets more interest from its money, nearly $12 millions per year, than ever before. This is more money than any other state gets on idle state funds. In the first year of receiving interest on state funds, Missouri collected only about one-quarter million dollars from this source. As recently as 1962, interest totaled only $1 ¾ millions.

Today, Missouri is in sound fiscal position. More than $300 millions cash is in the treasury. State deposits of funds are scattered in banks throughout the state bettering the economy of many communities. Prudent management at all levels by the Democratic team is paying off in many ways -- low tax rates, ample funds in the treasury, vital programs better funded than ever before.

Another big plus is the state consumer protection law.

This statute, enacted last year, makes it unlawful to advertise or engage in false, fraudulent, deceptive or misleading merchandising practices. It is a civil law, and its aim is not only to suppress such practices but to secure for the bilked customer a return of his money. A similar law in Illinois has returned more than $12 millions to customers in the last six years.

In Missouri, the Attorney General's consumer protection offices in Kansas City, St. Louis and Jefferson City have already managed to bring back $10,000 to deceived customers in four months.

For example, there was the Missouri man who ordered $850 in painting supplies and sent cash with his order. The merchandiser persistently failed to deliver the merchandise, after repeated attempts to get it. But the merchandise was sent within five days after the Attorney General's office got the complaint.

This new statute is indeed saving money for Missourians who need only to apply to consumer protective division offices whenever they think they have been tricked.

The state auditor's office has moved steadily and quietly forward. County audits, which at one time were at seven-year intervals, are now at the statutory period of four years, and moving toward a goal of two years. Institutional audits -- colleges, hospitals, schools, etc. -- now cover 110 agencies, an increase of 25 in the last decade.

Body of 1967 Drowning Victim Found, Rites Held

OWENSBORO, Ky. - Services for Albert Brannum, 33, a former Cardwell, Mo. resident who drowned in a boating accident in the Ohio River New Owensboro Feb. 5, 1967-along with his brother, Charles 23 were conducted at 10:30 a.m. in the chapel of Haley McGinnis Funeral Home.

The Rev. Samuel P. Gish officiated and burial was at Elmwood cemetery.

The son of Thomas and Ellen Brannum of Cardwell, and his brother had gone to the river on the afternoon of the accident, to try out a new motor in a boat. Apparently the boat capsized in the swift water and both men drowned. An extensive searchfailed to locate their bodies and they were given up as missing and dead.

Sunday, a group was cleaning up a campsite, 25 miles downstream from where the drowning occurred which had been covered with high water and found a clothed skeleton in about 12 inches of mud. A billfold in a pocket of the clothing was well preserved and a social security card showed the name of Albert Brannum. The search was renewed for the body of Charles Brannum but no trace has been found.

Albert Brannum is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brannum of Cardwell and four children. A son, Larry, lives at Cardwell and a daughter, Jacqueline, is married and living in Rives. His wife, Charlotte, has since remarried. They has two children - a daughter, Latrina, 2, and a son, Albert, Jr., 1.

He is also survived by five brothers: Bobby Brannum of Owensboro, Ky., William of Owensboro, Ky., William of Cardwell, Jomack of Chicago, Ill. and James and Johnny of the home at Cardwell; and four sisters: Shirley Ashley, Betty Miller and Barabara Miller, all of Chicago, and Mary Dees of Yazoo City, Miss.

Hosmer Calls for Insurance Probe

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) John E. Hosmer, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state attorney general, has called for an investigation of what he calls "the fraudulent insurance companies incorporated in the state."

Speaking at a Pettis County Farm Bureau picnic Saturday, Hosmer, a Springfield attorney, issued a challenge to his two opponents, Russell Millin and incumbent Norman Anderson.

Hosmer accused Millin of "laxity in office" when Millin was U.S. district attorney for western Missouri. He also claimed Anderson "was so deeply involved in the Presidential Investment Co. Scandal in St. Louis" that Anderson "did not feel that it was in his realm to prosecute any other insurance scandal."

Romney Revises Thinking

LANSING, Mich. (AP) - Gov. George Romney, who urged for months that Republican governors unite early behind one presidential candidate, is doing precisely the opposite now by urging Michigan's delegation uncommitted.

What has we're doing is relastic now," Romney said in an interview. "I'm not going to bat my head against a wall."

The wall to which he referred is the gubernatorial indecision that helped crush his own campaign for the nomination.

Romney is determined to hold the bulk of Michigan's 45 votes away from either Richard M. Nixon or Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the present.

The object, he says, is to await developments, candidate statements on major issues and preconvention polls.

Romney openly controls the delegation as a favorite son, insists that no consideration of a job by either Nixon or the national Republican administration will enter into what the Michigan delegation eventually does.

Would he consider running for vice president?

"I don't know," the governor replied. "I'm not going to deal with the problems of this country effectively (in that job) and make as much of a contribution as you'd like to make."

Thus far Romney has won general endorsement from party leaders and delegates for an all-out effort to draft him. However, the state's lieutenant governor and the majority leader of the state senate are spearheading moves to win support for Rockefeller and Nixon, respectively, when Romney abandons his favorite-son candidacy.

The key question is how much of the delegation Romney will be able to deliver when he makes his own decision.

Loyalty to the three-term governor is strong among most of the Republican organization - and the national convention delegation is overwhelmingly in an organization slate.

On the first ballot, as a favorite son, Romney is almost sure to get 44 or more votes. Up to four, from two conservative anti-Romney congressional districts, could go to Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Rockefeller now seems to have the upper hand in private leanings among the delegates, and he's all but sure to have an edge if he gets a Romney endorsement.

Romney won't say who he leans toward, but other party leaders think he will eventually go to Rockefeller if Nixon hasn't clearly sewed up the nomination.

Rockefeller was among the first backers of Romney's short-lived candidacy. Republican leaders, however, think the governor is more likely to be swayed by Rockefeller's past involvement with urban problems. These leaders also contend that Romney probably will conclude that Nixon can't make a dent in Detroit's Negro vote.

The nation's 200,000 tons of low-cost uranium reserves will be exhausted by the mid-1970s if only a million tons must be found by late 1980 to supply proposed power plants.

Laos Going Gets Rougher For the North Vietnamese

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

VIENTIANE LAOS (NEA) - All U.S. presidential candidates should be required to visit Laos before making speeches on Vietnam.

It might give them new perspectives, eliminate some of the unrealistic theories some are expounding.

Despite their current military victories in Laos, here, at least, Ho Chi Minh's North Vietnamese Communists seem to be their own worst enemies.

By sabotaging the coalition government of which they were a part, the Communists have won the enmity of left-leaning Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma and have forced him to turn more and more to the United States for support. Originally suspicious of U.S. intentions, Souvanna Phouma's confidence in and respect for this country has been growing steadily for no longer than he feels.

The North Vietnamese armies now barely make a pretense that there's a civil war in Laos. It is an open, cynical, colonial invasion.

The fighting is done with North Vietnamese troops. The quality and morale of the Pathet Lao army units has sunk so low both the North Vietnamese and the Laos people regard with disdain. North Vietnamese generals openly give orders to the Pathet Laos puppet administrators.

The native people in the Red-occupied areas of Laos have been moving out by the tens of thousands.

North Vietnamese animal forays to seize the free Lao rice harvests have alienated thousands of Lao farmers.

The Communists for years have promised schools and medical stations. They haven't even come close.

Though Ho's invading North Vietnamese armies are overwhelmingly superior in military strength, though they've been fighting Laos forces for more than five years and though the Lao government is aware of reports that men must be thrown into battle with pitifully inadequate training, there's a new spirit growing among Lao armies and Lao leaders.

Six years ago, the Lao were defeatists. Lao armies ran from the battlefield on rumors the North Vietnamese were coming, even when there were in the neighborhood.

Today, some Lao troops still run. Others don't fight too well. But in some areas, where capable Lao generals command and where the Laos troops are fighting in their ancestral neighborhoods, the North Vietnamese are not having an easy time of it. They win battles, but at some cost.

Talk to the young colonels and you feel this new spirit. What Laos needs, they say, is to get rid of incompetent senior officers - and juniors as well - and get the arms they need to fight with. And specific weapons they want. The arms they're talking about are M-16 rifles. The Lao don't have the modern small arms to match the AK-47 automatic rifles the North Vietnamese troops carry.

This doesn't mean the Lao are going to be a match for the North Vietnamese regulars in the months ahead. It does mean that Ho has failed psychologically in a country where six years ago he controlled most of the high cards.

25 Cases Heard in Magistrate Court

Magistrate Judge M. E. and costs and given 60 days in jail. Montgomery heard 25 cases in court Monday, with Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Thomas Gilmore representing the state.

10 Malden City Employes Take Walk

MALDEN - The Malden board of public works met last night to consider employe-management differences that resulted in eight or 10 employes leaving their jobs without notice last week.

It is understood the men failed to show up for work Friday. Included are employes of the water and sewer departments, the municipal power plant and line maintenance department.

More than half of the regular work force has remained on the job and services of the departments are continuing without interruption.

Details of the nature of the differences were not available today. It is understood the action of the workers who have remained off their jobs is unauthorized.

Electrical power for the City of Malden is supplied by a municipally-owned generating plant, a modern dual-fuel diesel electric generating plant with a 6200 kilowatt hour capacity.

Southpaw golfer Bob Charles finished 28th in the American Classic and the Hartford Open on successive weekends. In both tournaments he earned the same amount - $737.50.

Seven New Directors Named to Delmo Board

LILBOURN -Seven new directors were named for three-year terms at the annual meeting of the Delmo Housing Corporation at South Lilbourn Saturday.

The new directors are Mrs. William Bullington, Essex; Harold C. Hanke, St. Louis Dr. Ralph Pumphrey, Washington University, St. Louis; the Rev. Paul Y. Harlan, Presbyterian minister of Kennett; A. E. S. Schmid, St. Louis, and Mrs. Frank L. Wright, St. Louis.

Richard K. Morse of St. Louis was elected to the unexpired two-year term of the Rev. Robert McCoy.

Henry Putzel of St. Louis, a long time member of the corporation, was declared an emeritus member of the board.

High school scholarships, representing $2,025, were awarded 30 students of the five-county area of Mississippi, Stoddard, New Madrid, Dunklin and Pemiscot.

Five students of the area were awarded college scholarships of $400 each. Migrant health project coordinator Francis James of Lilbourn announced the U. S. Public Health Service had made a grant of $63,000 to be used for family health services for agricultural migrant families. The services will include eye glasses, dental work, doctor fees and medicine for these families.

Charles Fleer, director of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation at Portageville, outlined the various programs for which application for funds have been made. He stressed interest in the present and future programs which would make citizens self-sustaining.

Reports were given by ten representatives from the counties of Mississippi, Stoddard, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

Approximately 150 attended the dinner meeting in the community building.

East German Restrictions Challenged

BONN (AP) — Representatives of the United States, West Germany, Britain and France are seeking ways to counter new restrictions placed by Communist East Germany on West Germans traveling to Berlin.

Some West German commentators called the East German action the most serious threat to access to West Berlin since the 11-month Berlin Blockade by the Russians in 1948-49.

East Germany announced Tuesday night it will require West Germans for the first time to have passports and visas for train, road and water travel between West Germany and Communist-surrounded West Berlin.

The regulations appeared to be a new assertion of East German sovereignty and of the Communist regime's defiance of the Bonn government's claim that it is the only representative German government.

The East Germans also announced hikes in overland transit fees and freight taxes.

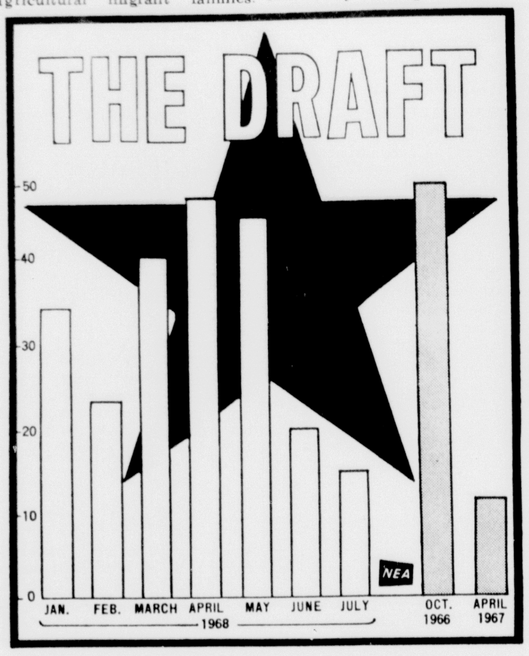

There was no indication of interference with official traffic of the three Western allies, which is controlled by the Russians as the other occupation power, or with air traffic to West Berlin, which is controlled by the occupation powers.

A meeting of U.S., West German, British and Frence representatives in the American Embassy lasted until 1 a.m. today. An anticipated joint allied protest to the Soviet Union was not announced.

Up to now, West Germans going to West Berlin by surface routes have traveled on their West German identity cards. ADN, the official East German news agency, said the West Germans would have until July 15 to get passports.

Increases in transit fees become effective June 20 and freight taxes on July 1, ADN said.

Visiting U.S. Undersecretary of State Eugene Rostow called the East German action "a serious situation" and said such a change from the present pattern cannot be tolerated.

Draft calls show a sharp drop for June and July and are expected to continue relatively low for the rest of 1968, due largely to a high re-enlistment rate. The July call is the lowest since April of last year. The peak call was in October, 1966.

Missouri University Issues Population Projection Report For State Highway Commission

Where will Missourians be living and working in 1990? A soon to be released report by the University of Missouri at Columbia attempts to answer the question.

The report was prepared for the Missouri State Highway Commission, which financed it in cooperation with Missouri University and the United States Bureau of Public Roads.

The State Highway Commission initiated the study because it needed population projections on which it could base its estimates of future travel patterns on a statewide basis. These projected travel patterns are basic both in the making of estimates of future usage of existing highways and in evaluating the needs for proposed highways.

"When the researchers at the University completed their report," said State Highway Department Chief Engineer M. J. Snider recently, "it was apparent that the report would be highly useful not only in Missouri highway planning but in a wide variety of other planning efforts which will be undertaken by private and governmental agencies within Missouri."

The report gathers into one package a variety of population projections which have never before been collected in one study. It includes figures for urgan and total population; transportation, wholesaling, retailing, manufacturing, and service employment; total employment; school enrollment; and automobile registrations. Included in the report are statistical break-downs of date for geographic units ranging in size from single cities to combinations of neighboring states. Projections are included for the years 1967, 1975, and 1990.

A summary of the full report, which contains most of the data which would be of value to the average user, is being prepared by the State Highway Department and will be available for distribution within 60 days. The full report should be released by the University within 60 days also. But distribution of the full report will be limited.

Sirhan Seems To Approve Treatment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, seems satisfied with his treatment in custody, says an American Civil Liberties Union attorney.

A.L. Wirin, counsel for the ACLU's Southern California chapter, commented on Sirhan's condition at a news conference Tuesday. Wirin has visited the Jordanian immigrant in his 12-by-9 foot jail cell several times since his arrest June 5.

Meanwhile, Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, who was criticized after he disclosed information about Sirhan's background, defended his actions as being in the public interest.

He said he acted only to "get the facts to the public to prevent rumors and violence" such as that which occurred after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Memphis, Tenn., April 4.

Sirhan is denied radio and television and says he doesn't want to read newspapers, Wirin said. The attorney said the defendant is allowed a few minutes of exercise each day in the corridor outside his cell and spends his time reading books on occultism.

Security for Sirhan remains strong, Wirin added. He said he was searched each time he visited the prisoner and the deputy accompanying him to Sirhan's cell in the jail's infirmary wing was given the same treatment.

Despite Sirhan's asking Wirin three times to defend him, the attorney said he would not take the case. His role, Wirin said, was to safeguard Sirhan's rights and to help find a lawyer to represent him.

Since his first court appearance June 5, hours after Kennedy was shot at a celebration in honor of his victory in the California presidential primary, Sirhan has been represented by a public defender, Wilbur Littlefield, who was named Tuesday to take charge of the case.

At another news conference, Yorty said initial reports of the shooting described the gunman as possibly a Cuban or Mexican-American. "I think it was a public service to identify the suspect as not coming from those groups," Yorty said.

Military Troubles in Japan Grow

TOKYO (AP) — Troubles increased for the U.S. military in Japan Tuesday. A special committee of Japanese cabinet members urged that the United States be asked to relocate an air base. The Tokyo city council demanded a ban on visits by nuclear warships and student demonstrators blocked a gunpowder shipment.

Sentiment against American bases in Japan, which is constantly fanned by the Socialists in their campaign to scrap the U.S.-Japan security treaty, increased markedly this month after an American jet based at Itazuke Air Base crashed on the Kyushu University campus.

Despite a U.S. promise to curtail night flights, the cabinet committee recommended that Prime Minister Eisaku Sato ask the United States to move the air base to another site.

Chief Cabinet Secretary Toshio Kimura said even if the full cabinet agrees, no formal request will be made to U.S. authorities until a number of alternate locations can be offered.

Sources said the Japanese are considering asking the United States to share the Japanese air bases, at Tsuiki or Miyazaki, which like Itazuki are on Kyushu, Japan's southern island.

At Kitakyushu, meanwhile, about 100 leftist students charged into a railway station and snake-danced on its track to prevent the arrical of 1,800 tons of gunpowder for the U.S. ammunition depot on the city's outskirts.

A freight car containing the gunpowder was switched to a spur line and left standing. No attempt was made to run the student blockade.

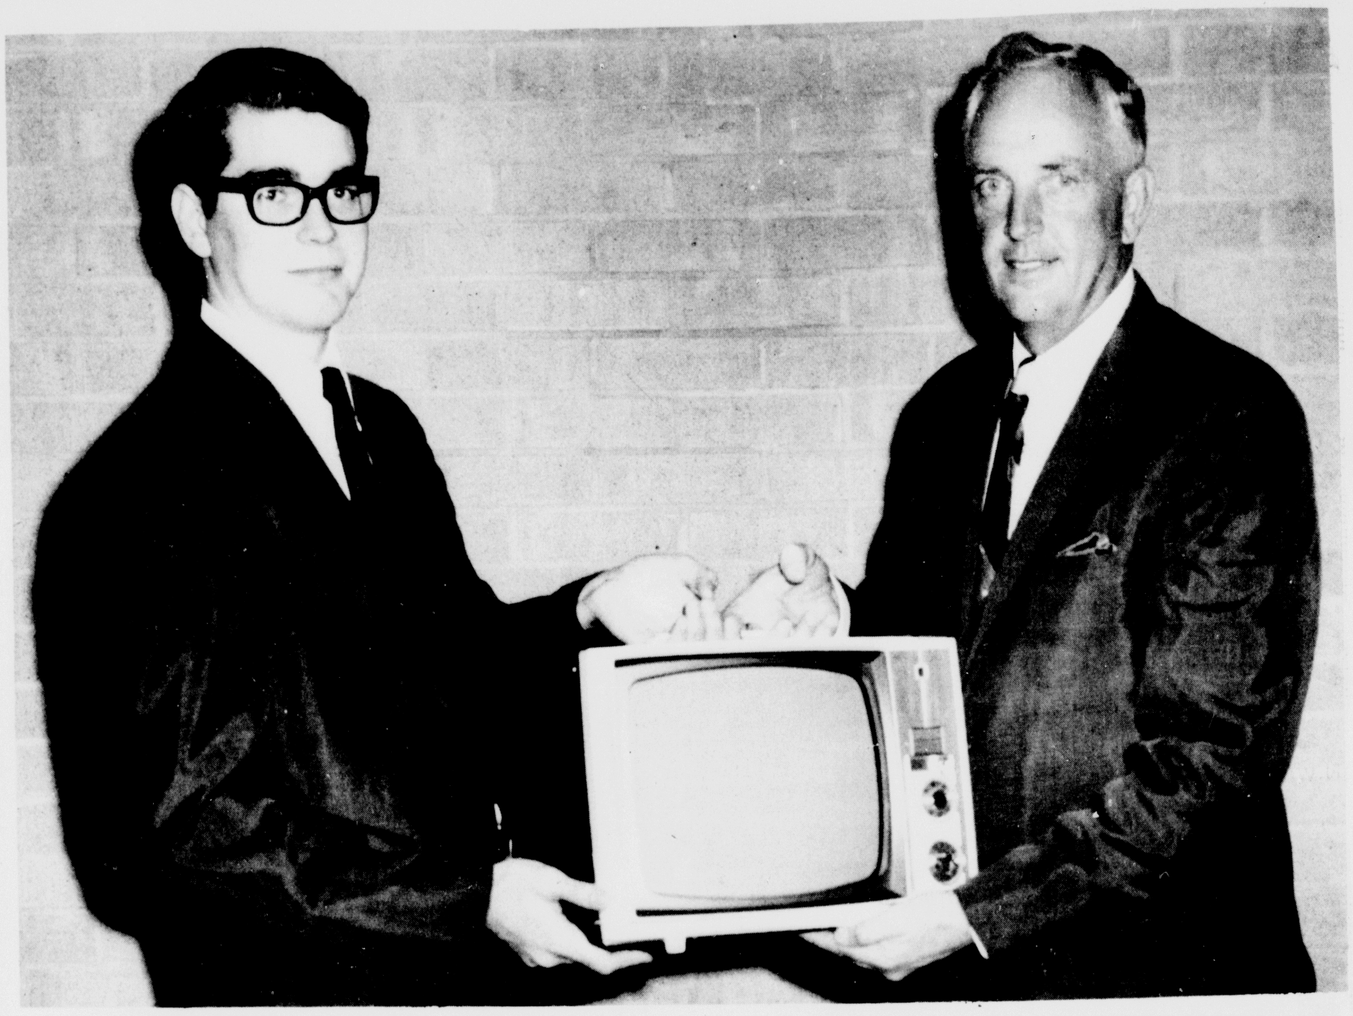

The city assembly of Kitakyushu has adopted a resolution demanding removal of the ammunition depot because of local opposition. Last month, a U.S. freighter was unable to unload part of a 3,500-ton ammunition shipment because of a boycott by the local longshoremen's union.

The Tokyo Metropolitan Assembly unanimously adopted a written opinion opposing the entry of U.S. nuclear-powered vessels into Yokosuka the port of Tokyo and one of the two Japanese ports at which U.S. Navy ships regularly call.

The opinion asked the Japanese government to ban U.S. nuclear ships from Japanese waters. It cited the increase in the radioactivity level reported in Sasebo harbor during the recent visit there of the U.S. nuclear submarine Swordfish.

U.S. authorities denied the Swordfish was responsible for the contamination, but could not prove it to the satisfaction of Japanese officials. A series of city councils have called for a ban on the nuclear ships, and the United States has suspended their visits.

Wage Decision May Cost State Up to $500,000

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A U.S. Supreme Court decision Monday extending the federal minimum wage law to state institutional employes could cost Missouri up to a half million dollars a year.

The estimate came Tuesday from John C. Vaughn, state comptroller and budget director, on the basis of a preliminary check. He said detailed figures would be available later.

The decision could raise a new problem for the special legislative session which starts June 20.

The new law requires institutional employes to be paid a minimum of $1.40 an hour starting July 1. Vaughn said he was not so much concerned about that provision because most state employes now receive at least that much.

But overtime pay requirements of the new federal law might increase Missouri's salary costs by thousands of dollars. A special problem is posed, Vaughn explained, by "house parents" who are required to live with inmates at some institutions and theoretically are on duty around the clock.

Vaughn said state departments are checking to determine what their potential costs might be.

Austria, Germany Meld in Walsertal

IN WINTER—This is a wintertime photograph of the village of Hirschegg in Klein Walsertal (Little Walser Valley) with the Widderstein (Ramstone) in the rear.

SUMMERTIME IN THE MOUNTAINS—This is a summertime shot of the village of Hirschegg/Klein Walsertal with the Barenkopf (bear head) left and the Widderstein (Ramstone) at rear right.

By KEITH WOOLHOUSE
Associated Press Writer

RIEZLERN, Austria (AP)—This alpine resort lies in one of Europe's strangest valleys—a paradise which you have to enter by the back door.

The valley, Klein Walsertal, is in Austria. But, unless you are a mountain climber, you can only get to it from West Germany.

It's a place of peaks and paradoxes.

The peaks are a range of U-shape mountains which cut the valley off from Austria. The only way in is through the small town of Oberstdorf in West Germany.

The paradoxes are many. Klein Walsertal—it means Little Walser Valley—is politically a part of Austria. Its 4,000 inhabitants are ruled by Austrian law, vote in Austrian elections and pay Austrian taxes.

But Austrian goods are subject to import duties while West German goods move in free. That's because economically it is part of West Germany.

Citizens from the "Austrian mainland" who visit the valley find that West German marks and not Austrian schillings are the official currency.

Though they are still on Austrian soil they have to change their schillings for marks at a bank to make purchases.

Here's another curiosity. All the vehicles carry Austrian licence plates—bought in German marks and paid to West German authorities. But the plates are issued by Austria.

The postal trucks which serve "Austria's only colony" come in from West Germany. But the stamps on the letters are Austrian, payable in West German marks. The three valley towns have both West German and Austrian postal zip code numbers.

Law and order in the valley is maintained by Austrian police. But German custom officers have the responsibility of controlling the frontier.

Ludwig Leitner, the Olympic alpine combination champion in 1964, also got right up in the double nationalities of the Walsertal. Leitner, who runs a hotel in the valley, is an Austrian. But he won his Olympic title at Innsbruck for the West German Ski Federation.

His brother who lives next door raced for the Austrian Ski Federation and was unplaced.

Other sports don't go unaffected. Local soccer clubs belong to West German leagues. Otherwise they'd have to travel more than 50 miles to their nearest away game.

For tourists there is little difficulty in getting here—provided you don't start out in Austria. The valley is about 100 miles southwest of Munich and 60 miles from the West German shore of Lake Constance.

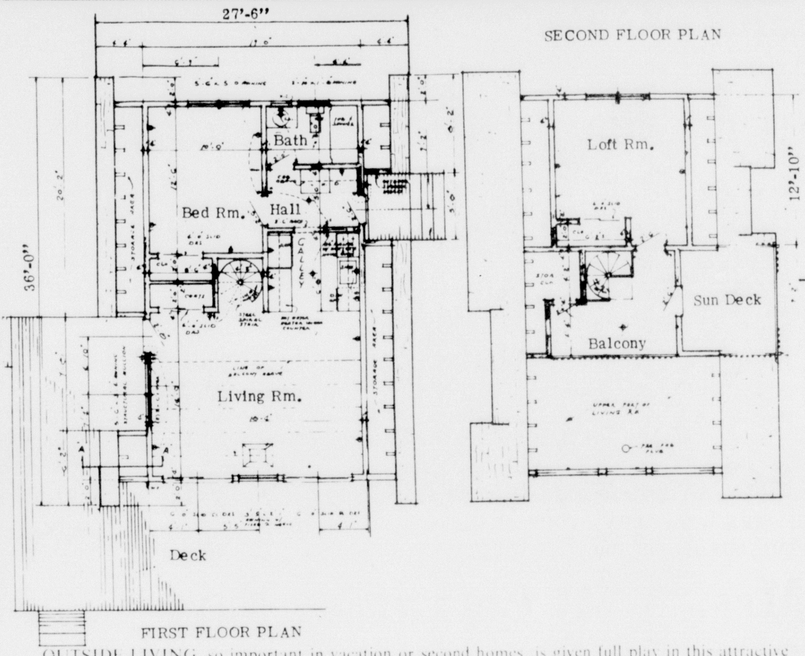

Klein Walsertal isn't listed on many maps. It's only 15 miles long and, at the most, four miles wide. But it's fast becoming one of the most popular winter and summer resorts in the region.

Sharing the valley with Riezlern are Hirschegg and Mittelberg. Between them they have 80 hotels and nearly 400 boarding houses. Almost everyone who lives in the valley and has a spare bedroom is in the tourist business.

Samuel H. Gottscho is 93 years of age and still active in the field of photographing gardens for which he has long been noted.

Starting in 1898 when he was 23 years old, he became engrossed with plants, gardens and landscapes. It remained an absorbing hobby until he was 50. Then, in 1925, he decided to become a professional photographer specializing in architecture and gardens.

His photographs were delicate, elegant and factual. They revealed a natural aesthetic arrangement which transmitted the quiet restful nature of the subject matter to the viewer of the pictures. He became the photo-biographer of the country's foremost formal gardens. A selection of his photos will soon be published in a book entitled "Famous American Gardens."

For this interesting bit of Americana, I am indebted to Modernage Custom Labs which is displaying a retrospective exhibition of Gottscho's garden pictures on the walls of its new Manhattan office. They held an informal press preview to meet the spry old man whose enthusiasm for photography has endured for so long.

In the 70 years since Gottscho took his first pictures on 4x5 glass plates with a 'Premier' box camera made by the Rochester Optical Co., photography has developed and been catapulted into the present electronic age. But one constant is important and has never changed: the zeal and emotional interest of the photographer.

"At 93," says Gottscho, "I find myself still in love with photography and excited by every step — from the image on the ground glass to the final print."

The exact technical data for each picture is unimportant in his viewpoint. He thinks it is more helpful to explain when and why he uses filters and the results he expects to achieve. "The fundamental factors are composition and lighting," he emphasizes. "The type of apparatus used and other technical data are secondary."

Despite his age, Gottscho plans to continue to spend his vacations and spare time in studying and photographing the country's wildflowers and weeds. "Although I have been privileged to photograph the finest gardens," he said, "the greatest beauty, it seems to me, is still to be found in the ever-changing forgotten corners of the natural scene."

It is a pursuit in which he can be joined by every photographer — amateur or professional.

Glamorous Underworld Minis

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Underpinnings have undergone a remarkable change since the advent of mini outerwear.

Pantyhose has become a best seller and slips, of necessity, have crept up to just a few inches below the waistline.

But where mini outerwear is frequently toughened through the use of stiff fabrics, even the briefest underwear remains soft, pretty and completely feminine in design.

Tricot provides the smoothness and drapability that have made possible a new mini image—one of dreamy softness, with touches of silky satin, taffeta and crepe.

The shortest, flirtiest minislips and the most romantic lace-trimmed nighties vie for the attention of the young set which takes to the mini look as enthusiastically as a kitten eyes a ball of wool.

Colorful sets of tiny tricot bras and bikinis show up in new junior lingerie departments which have been set up in many stores throughout the country. Statistics show that 65 per cent of lingerie customers are under 25 and want young, chic, short lingerie.

Many new lingerie garments have been invented for the mini-minded and often these designs perform double duty. There is a petti-and-panty girdle all in one, on a single waistband. It's made of nylon crepe tricot over a matching spandex panty girdle. Another current bit is a chemise-length minigown in nylon tricot featuring a softly shaped lace sleep brassiere.

There's no end to the list of glamorous newcomers to the mini underworld scene. There's no end to the enchantment of new colors to be found in today's lingerie departments where counters look like the palettes of painters. Bursts of brilliant greens, rose pinks, bright marigolds and soft lilac are a sharp contrast to the washed-out pastels of former years.

Keeping in step with spring's silhouettes and hem-length lingerie has become a fashion category in itself. Like hosiery, it has been lifted out of fashion limbo and it's fun to buy, fun to co-ordinate and fun to match with the skirt it may peek out from under when you drop your gloves.

TYPICAL of feminine minifashions in sleepwear is this chemise-length gown in Antron nylon tricot by Olga. It is modern in length and romantic in mood.

EXTRA HORSEPOWER was needed when this motorist in Gdynia, Poland, drove a little too close to the water and got bogged down in the sand.

Ky Yields More Ground To Thieu

SAIGON (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky quit today as head of South Vietnam's People's Self Defense Committee, giving further evidence of President Nguyen Van Thieu's gains in the long power struggle between the two men.

Ky's letter of resignation to Thieu came after a week in which Ky has not participated in any government activities and has remained almost entirely in seclusion at the seaside town of Nha Trang.

The committee is an attempt by the government to arm and give rudimentary training to neighborhood and village groups for self defense against the Viet Cong. Ky was appointed to head it on May 3.

In the past week, Thieu has steadily increased his own control of the government at the expense of Ky. One after another, Thieu has replaced high officials loyal to Ky with men loyal to himself.

Among the Ky men replaced or about to be replaced are Maj. Gen. Nguyen Ngo Loan, director of the national police; Lt. Gen. Le Nguyen Khang, commander of the 3rd Military Corps Area; and Van Van Cua, the mayor of Saigon.

Several other high-ranking Ky supporters were killed last week by a rocket from a U.S. helicopter which the U.S. mission said misfired.

Ky has only those duties assigned to the vice president by the constitution. They are largely ceremonial.

Ky in his letter of resignation said: "In consideration of the fact that we have a new government which is capable of commanding a people's self-defense committee more reasonably, I have found it necessary for me to hand over the power to command the committee to the government from today on."

Harold R. Wissel, who coached last season's Trenton State College basketball team, is the new basketball coach at Lafayette. He succeeds George Davidson who is the Easton, Pa., school's athletic director.

June 12, 1918

Last Sunday, A. W. Husk, Dan Reed, W. A. Garner and Mr. McGee spent the day at Wahite, fishing. About two o'clock while Mr. Reed had gone to the club house to get a drink of water the remaining three heard a noise overhead and on looking up saw an aeroplane. It was very high, as they said it would go behind the clouds, which obstructed their view, then come into sight again.

Mrs. A. A. Cervantes Says Enjoying Family Important

EDITOR'S NOTE: This it the 91st in a series of articles about the home life of Sikeston area families.

By RUTH DILLENDER

CHARLESTON -- Enjoying your family and what you have are important says Mrs. Marjorie Cervantes, 15 Willow Dr.

She and her husband, A. A. "Bud" Cervantes, have a son, Al, two years old, and a daughter, Karen, four years old.

Cervantes is a farmer, livestock dealer and owner of Cervantes Equipment Company at East Prairie.

Mrs. Cervantes' hobbies are singing and horseback riding.

Cervantes breeds quarterhorses and shoots skeet. He has won skeet and Western pleasure horse show trophies.

Mrs. Cervantes a past president of the Junior Study club, is vice president of Chapter CV of the PEO Sisterhood, and was a delegate to the PEO state convention in St. Louis in May.

Her husband is a Shriner and a candidate for president of the Missouri Young Democrats.

The family attends the Methodist church, where she sings in the choir, leads music in Bible school and belongs to the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Mrs. Cervantes says she likes to cook, a talent she learned in home economics classes in high school and college.

A treasure in the home is an antique rocker in which three generations of infants of Mrs. Cervantes' family have been rocked.

Recipes she suggests are:

FROZEN RED RASPBERRY SALAD

1 package raspberry Jello
1 ½ cups very hot water
1 package frozen raspberries, partially thawed
1 small can of crushed pineapple
1 large banana, diced
½ cup chopped nuts

Dissolve Jello in hot water and add partially thawed berries until completely separated. Chill until it is the consistency of an unbeaten egg white. Stir in pineapple, banana and nuts.

Dressing:

Mix together in bowl.
1 cup thick sour cream
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 tablespoon sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice.

Mix thoroughly and chill over night.

CHARCOAL BEEF LOIN

Start fire in brazier. Let it burn down to about 325 degrees.

Place beef loin on spit of rotisserie and spiral wrap with bacon. Secure with tooth picks. Cook slowly so as not to dry out meat. Do not overcook.

Mrs. Cervantes says this cut of meat does not have any waste and she finds a small amount serves many.

She says serve with Dawn Fresh mushroom steak sauce with sliced mushrooms.

RAW CAULIFLOWER DIP

1 cup Hellman's mayonnaise
2 teaspoons curry powder, or to taste
1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons catsup
½ teaspoon grated onion
Garlic to taste

Mix ingredients. Refrigerate.

Wash and cut woody base of cauliflower. Break into flowerets. Serve on tray around dip.

Mrs. Cervantes says the cauliflower may be prepared the day before serving and kept in a plastic sack in the refrigerator

PIZZA DIP

1 pound ground lean beef
½ medium onion, chopped

Brown together in skillet.

Add:

1 can tomato soup
1 pound Velveeta cheese

Melt. Serve in chafing dish. Use Frito corn chips with dip.

BUTTER BEAN AND CORN CASSEROLE

¼ cup butter
¼ cup flour
1½ cups milk
¼ cup grated cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Make cream sauce from above ingredients. Add vegetables:

¼ cup chopped pimentos
¼ cup green onion tops, cut ½ inch long
1 package frozen lima beans cooked as directed
1 package frozen corn, cooked as directed

Pour into greased casserole. Top with three tablespoons melted butter mixed with two cups bread crumbs.

Devices to Catch Robbers Updated by Electronics

NEW YORK (AP) — The holdup man aimed his gun at the cashier and the cashier threw up his hands. This activated a radio transmitter hidden in a special belt the cashier was wearing.

Instantly a little computer, attached to a telephone elsewhere in the store, dialed the police. Seconds later a tape message related to the police the name and address of the store being robbed.

Next the computer dialed the telephones of nearby stores and told their proprietors—again by activating a tape recording—to jot down a description of the robber and his vehicle as he left the store.

In this instance the thief was caught before reaching his automobile. Even if he had escaped immediate apprehension the police still could have had a description, a license plate number and other identifying information.

Should the thief—or perhaps a dishonest employe—have slipped in while the store was closed he might have been picked up by radar waves that also would have activated the computer.

In fact, the devices that flooded the room with radar waves might also have activated a camera that would have recorded every move of the intruder for playback later by security officers.

You'll seldom hear very much about these ingenious devices, mainly because too much publicity about a security product is guaranteed to reduce its effectiveness. But as crime and violence increase, so do the number and type of products to combat them.

Some of these items were shown to the trade recently at the International Security Conference, a gathering that impressed on the uninformed layman not so much the security he could find in these items but, instead, the elaborate extremes that man must use today to protect himself from other men.

A records storage firm sought business for its complex of vaults drilled into a Utah mountain, with the reminder, that on Aug. 14, 1814, the British burned Washington, destroying the public records.

It indicated that such chaos could be avoided no matter what the devastation, presumably even by an atomic bomb, because "the overburden of granite—200 feet of solid rock—will withstand any force known to man."

A manufacturer of "unbreakable" glass invited anyone to swing a baseball bat at a huge pane of its product.

Another firm promoted "Chemical Mace," suggesting to law enforcement officers "its incapacitating formulation can be projected directly into a crowd or, if necessary, can be 'rained' on their hands."

But the trend in security products now seems to be evolving away from those that meet force with force. Fortress-like strength, such as in old banks, loud alarms, violent weapons are giving way to silent, unseen electronic devices.

It might be said, in fact, that the business is growing up, maturing, becoming more sophisticated. More than one company in the field of security has had applied to it by securities analysts the tag of "glamor stock."

Fat Woman Sheds Both Her Pounds and Friends

Dear Ann Landers: I got tired of hearing people say, "You have such a pretty face--if you lost some weight you'd be beautiful." So I went to my family doctor and asked him to put me on a strict diet. I shed 40 pounds in seven months.

So what am I writing about? Well, since I've lost weight I've also lost my fat girl friends. I shared my diet with them and kept urging them to stick with it but they didn't have the willpower.

At first they seemed thrilled about my weight loss but as I began to look better they became cooler and cooler. The real break came when I started to date some very attractive men. It's hard for me to believe that my friends are jealous yet I don't know how else to figure it. Do you? --- THE NEW ME

Dear New: Success can be awfully hard to take -- particularly somebody else's. Those dames were not friends. They were merely acquaintances with whom you once shared a common misery. you've lost nothing of value.

Dear Ann Landers: I am employed in a large office. The man who clears all down payments has been helping himself to money. He confided that he started by taking small amounts for a day or two to tide him over a personal "crisis." Now he takes larger amounts for longer periods.

I have access to the books but have never had any reason to check them. I'm afraid one day he will be discovered before he has a chance to set the books right. This has caused me sleepless nights because now that I'm aware of what's going on I have what is known as "guilty knowledge." I don't know why he cut me in on his maneuverings and I wish he hadn't. Should I go to the boss, or to his wife, or keep my trap shut and hope for the best? --- TOO MUCH INFO

Dear Too Much: Your co-worker is committing the crime of embezzlement and the fact that so far he has made restitution periodically doesn't change the situation. It's your duty to tell the boss what's going on and leave it to him to decide whether to give Mr. Sticky Fingers another chance.

Dear Ann Landers: If you don't want to print my letter please put a check in either of the boxes I have drawn at the bottom of the page and return it to me in the enclosed envelope. One box is marked SHE PAYS. The other box is marked YOU PAY AND FORGET.

I have a cleaning woman who is unbelievable. If she had one more brain she would be an idiot. This dumbbell has worked for me for six years. Don't ask me how I have stood it.

Yesterday she tried to do me a favor and save 15 cents worth of soap powder. She over loaded my washing machine and burned out the motor. The repair bill is going to be out of this world.

Should the woman pay for the damage or not? Please check the square and I will do as you say. ---EMPLOYER OF A NUMBSKULL

Dear Employer: I am checking "YOU PAY AND FORGET IT." Everyone who has domestic help must expect some breakage over a period of time.

Even smart and careful housewives have been known to break things once in awhile so don't be so hard on your cleaning woman.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You -- for Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Washington Report

By Senator Symington

Washington Report - In the death of Senator Robert F. Kennedy -- a moving force in the democratic processes of America - I have lost a long and close friend and could not be more sorry for his noble family and our country.

If we are to survive as a nation, it is becoming increasingly clear that love for our country and our fellow man must replace the hatreds that have been building up in the hearts and minds of so many of our people.

In the aftermath of this tragic and senseless shooting of Senator Kennedy and five other Americans, many Missourians have telegraphed urging stronger Federal gun laws.

We will continue to support measures to strengthen Federal laws on interstate traffic in guns as well as other measures to help prevent crime and strengthen Federal gun laws.

We will continue to support measures to strengthen Federal laws on interstate traffic in guns as well as other measures to help prevent crime and strengthen law enforcement.

Although not completely satisified with the gun control and some other provisions of the Omnibus Crime Control and Law Enforcement Assistance Act as passed by the Senate on May 23 and by the House on June 6, on the whole I believe it could be helpful.

When the bill was before the Senate last month, I supported every key amendment proposed to strengthen the provisions on interstate traffic in guns. Regrettably, the amendments to ban the interstate mail order purchase of rifles and shotguns were defeated by substantial margins. Now that the President has called again for enactment of these rejected provisions, the Congress should reconsider the need for strengthened gun laws.

The principal weapon of a criminal is a gun. According to the FBI, in the four-year period 1962-65, of all murders in the United States 57 per cent were committed with firearms in Missouri, 65 per cent.

The essential purpose of federal legislation in this area is to assist state and local governments enforce their own gun laws if they have or desire to enact such laws.

As example, Missouri State law requires a permit to purchase a concealable weapon. Nevertheless in 1966, 5,000 persons who gave a residence address in the city or county of St. Louis purchased firearms mainly handguns, in Illinois, where no permit is required. About 200 of these purchasers were found to have been convicted of felonies.

The fact that the long range solution to this critical problem may lie in improved social and economic conditions does not negate the need and importance of strengthened law enforcement in the effort to control crime. The causes as well as the instruments of violence merit our attention and

If America is to succeed stemming this violence violence which has struck all too often at both the least known and the well known among its efforts must be made at every level of government, in recognition also of the changes in communications, transportation and population growth.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, June 12, the 164th day of 1968. There are 202 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1665, the city of New York was incorporated under English law. A mayor five aldermen and a sheriff were appointed.

On this date:

In 1630, the first governor of the Massachusetts Bay Company, John Winthrop, sailed into the harbor of Salem.

In 1776, a Declaration of Rights was adopted in Virginia.

In 1838, the territory of Iowa was organized.

In 1933, a world economic conference opened in London.

In 1940, Chungking, China, was heavily damaged by Japanese bombers.

In 1944, Germany launched flying bomb attacks against Britain during World War II.

Ten years ago—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was conferring with Canadian officials in Ottawa, after a fiveday visit to the United States.

Five years ago—Civil rights leader Medgar W. Evers was shot and killed in Jackson, Miss.

One year ago — Israel declared that it intended to keep some of the ground won from Egypt, Jordan and Syria in the six-day Middle East War.

The difference between an old-fashioned and an Old Fashion girl is a matter which requires proof.

Family Loses All But Clothes In Home Fire

KENNETT - The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hays, two-and-one-half miles west of White Oak, was destroyed Sunday morning by fire.

The family saved only the clothes they were wearing.

The family was at church when the fire broke out in the five - room frame house. When they returned, the home was burned to the ground. It is believed to have started from wiring.

Clifton Hays, a brother to J. R. Hays said that the family is in need of household items and clothes.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Hays, there are five children in the family, three girls ages 11, 9, and 7 and two boys, ages 4 and 5.

Hays works on the farm of Glen and Charles Fuller.

Rockefeller Pledges Closer European Ties

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller pledged today to call a summit meeting of Western heads of state to create "a true Atlantic partnership," if elected president.

Looking for support to overcome the Republican delegate lead of Richard M. Nixon, the New Yorker offered sweeping foreign policy proposals in the opening of two days of public speeches and private talks in California.

He planned private meetings with a few top Republicans who are pleged to vote for California Gov. Ronald Reagan as a favorite son at the convention.

Concentrating on foreign affairs, Rockefeller called for closer United States cooperation with Western Europe, including giving the supreme command of NATO to a European instead of an American.

Secret Service agents, New York state troopers and two Los Angeles police department intelligence officers guarded Rockefeller—the first announced presidential candidate to come to California since Robert F. Kennedy was shot to death in Los Angeles last Wednesday.

In a speech prepared for delivery at Town Hall in Los Angeles, Rockefeller referred to the New York Democratic senator's death in a hotel just a few miles away.

"He died here last week because he dared—he was determined—to speak out on the great problems before our people," Rockefeller said.

But most of Rockefeller's attention in the talk before the city's business leaders was directed to building "a new world structure, a new international order."

He called for bringing the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "into line with current realties by encouraging European nations to assume a greater responsibility for their defense.

Asking for "new leadership," Rockefeller said, "We cannot act as the world's policeman."

Rockefeller proposed more trade and scientific and cultural exchanges with the Soviet Union and expansion of "the existing bilateral talks with Communist China in Warsaw into wider ranging explorations."

With California's 86 votes pledged to Reagan until he releases them, Rockefeller's hopes in the state rest mainly with persuading some delegates to back him on the second and third ballots.

The visit was a major stop in his all out appeal to American voters to support his effort to beat Nixon.

The governor also hoped, aides said, to show the men with votes at the convention that he can pick up support from followers of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and thus lead the GOP to victory in November.

His nationwide campaign is designed to prove he can provide the "new leadership" he says the country needs.

"America cries out for a leader," he said in full-page ads which appeared in newspapers from coast to coast and pledged to give, later today in Los Angeles, his answers to "a subject that has tormented us like none other in our recent history: Riot."

Foreshadowing his formal position, Rockefeller said in a CBS telecast Tuesday night that while it was vital to preserve public order, "We can no longer tolerate injustice or bigotry. We must trike at their roots."

He urged viewers: "If we don't like the laws, let's change them."

And, he insisted, "Without progress and justice there can be no order."

The governor opened his telecast speech with a tribute to Kennedy who, he said, "died for his country. His death presents a new challenge to those of us who remain."

Rockefeller said, however, that the assassination would not stop him mingling with the voters during his campaign.

"I have faith in this country, I have faith in people, and consequently I have no fear," he declared.

President Johnson has provided Rockefeller and other major candidates with Secret Service protection and guards are expected to surround the New York governor when he makes a planned walking tour of Watts, the Los Angeles Negro district where rioting raged in 1966.

Agents guarded him during his telecast.

The governor's 10-minute speech was part of a prime-time half-hour paid for by the Rockefeller-for-President Committee which declined to say how much it cost. The committee also declined to discuss the cost of the newspaper ads.

He denounced men of what he called "the old politics" without mentioning them by name and claimed that "new leadership can recapture control of events. "It is to offer this new leadership that I seek the presidency of the United States."

Rockefeller Says Nation Needs New Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller stressed a theme of "new leadership for a new America" today as he launched an intensive campaign to overtake Richard M. Nixon, the apparent front-runner for the Republican presidential nomination.

In a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon, Rockefeller said Americans "want nothing short of a new government, a new party in power, and a new leader at the head of that party."

The New York governor said "there is around us a new national mood and a new national resolve—to find a new leadership toward a new America. The Old Politics no longer suffices."

"The men of the Old Politics do not understand change," Rockefeller said. "They do not appreciate the significance of the emerging forces. And they do not seem to care."

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy died, the governor said, "because he dared to speak out on the issues before the American people."

Rockefeller said his candidacy was based on "my deep conviction" that he could "carry forward the great unfinished mission of building a better America."

The governor charged that "The Old Politics talks about its concern for the poor, the jobless, the urban decay—but dismisses concrete plans for action as 'pie in the sky'."

A new leadership," Rockefeller continued, "can recapture control of events, master them rather than let them master us, restore direction, and assert meaning and purpose in all our national life. It is to offer this new leadership that I am seeking the presidency of the United States."

Rockefeller begins an intensive television and newspaper advertising campaign in an effort to sway public opinion and Republican delegates from Nixon tonight with a nationwide television address.

One aide indicated the campaign will concentrate on Rockefeller's differences with Nixon on the issues—and the governor's theme that he is a winner and Nixon is not.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy has scheduled a meeting with advisers, reportedly on strategy to win away Democratic National Convention delegates now favoring Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

McCarthy had already set a pattern of meetings with state delegates with a trip to Phoenix, Ariz., last Tuesday before Kennedy was shot and campaigning was suspended.

The Minnesota senator plans to resume formal campaigning Thursday with a speech to the New York Fellowship of Reconciliation.

Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace resumes his third party presidential campaign today with a 12-day swing through Southern states, beginning with a stop at Memphis, Tenn.

It is his first campaigning since the death of his wife, Gov. Lurleen Wallace, May 7.

Other political activity today includes primaries in Illinois and South Carolina and party conventions in Texas.

Illinois Democrats select 48 of their 118 national convention delegates and Republicans name 48 of their 58 delegates.

The organization Democratic slate—headed by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley who has not said which candidate he favors—expects to win heavily despite challenges by McCarthy backers in 13 to 24 districts. Nixon is expected to win considerable support among GOP delegates.

In Texas, Gov. John Connally is expected to get control as a favorite son of the state's 104 Democratic convention votes. Speculation has been that in a showdown Connally would back Humphrey for the nomination.

Texas Sen. John G. Tower is expected to hold control as a favorite son of 56 Republican votes, at least for the first ballot at the national convention.

In the South Carolina Democratic primary, incumbent Sen. Ernest Hollings is challenged by John Bolt Culbertson, a Greenville lawyer.

In other political developments:

—Two of Chicago's four newspapers have urged editorially that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy be offered the Democratic vice presidential nomination at the national convention in Chicago. The editorials were in the Chicago Daily News and the Chicago Sun-Times.

Dr. Gilbert Mason of Biloxi Miss., has become the first Negro ever to be chosen a Mississippi delegate to the Democratic National Convention. He was one of four delegates chosen Monday night.

Thriving Popcorn Business Began as Boyhood Project

TRENTON, Mo. (AP) — Popcorn, eaten before a television set in a living room in the Midwest or in a theater in Japan, could have been raised in Missouri's Grundy County and processed in Trenton.

The Whitley Popcorn Co. of Trenton, which is nearing its 30th birthday, processes popcorn for both domestic and foreign markets.

In 1939, R. S. Whitley, an oil company agent, decided the best way to keep two boys out of trouble was to keep them busy.

"I can't remember getting in that much trouble," Bob Whitley, the younger of the two sons joked in reporting how the company came into being.

Whitley's father rented a 480-acre farm in northwest Grundy County and started Bob, a fifth grader, and Jim, a ninth grader, out with a six-acre plot of popcorn.

Whitley had purchased a five-pound bag for 25 cents from a dor-to-door salesman, popped it and bought two bags next time around — one to eat and the other (open pollinated) for seed.

The six acres produced a good yield. That first popcorn was shelled in the basement on a hand crank machine, one ear at a time, and cleaned of chaff by pouring from one bucket to another through the air stream of an electric fan.

The brothers, acting as salesmen, soon found markets and sold some of their product as far away as Oberlin, Kan.

After farming north of Trenton four years, Whitley began selling popcorn to theaters in 1943.

"Processing seemed like a good idea," Whitley said, "so in 1945 we built a processing plant in Trenton and the next year processed 800,000 pounds.

"Truck routes to theaters in Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Arkansas and Kansas were established. The routes continued for 15 years until 1960 when theaters began buying from jobbers. The first and last theater sales were made in Trenton.

"Our first processing of 800,000 pounds in 1946 seemed pretty big," Whitley said, "but last year we processed 10 million pounds."

Locally processed corn is sold in Missouri and adjoining states and shipped to Mexico, Japan, Germany, Venezuela and Peru.

The firm raises 600 acres of popcorn and contracts an additional 3,300 acres.

Yields of popcorn are about two-thirds as great as field corn. The Whitleys have had yields as high as 93 bushels per acre.

"Many folks drive along and are unaware that they looking at fields of popcorn," Whitley pointed out. "It's easy to tell popcorn from regular field corn—the popcorn leaves twist counterclockwise while the field corn leaves twist clockwise and the popcorn ear is one joint higher on the stalk."

Whitley's two sons, Jim and Bob, are still active in the business with their father. Jim Whitley, head of water quality control for the Missouri Conservation Commission, will supervise the company's 50 test plots this summer. Bob Whitley, who began flying in 1962, uses his single engine plane extensively in the business.

Looking forward to the big holiday next month — you don't have to have a fifth to enjoy the 4th.

Turn-in-Your-Guns Movement Spreads

NEW YORK (AP) - A turn-in-your-guns movement has started in the nation in the wake of the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

And there have been calls from public officials, groups and individuals - for stronger gun-control legislation at federal, state and city levels.

"I don't feel like killing anything any more," said Alan E. Schoening as he turned in two hunting guns to police in Lancaster, Pa. "Enough people have been shot now," he said.

"I want to give you these guns so you can destroy them. I hope this genture will encourage others to do the same."

A chain of discount stores in Columbus, Ohio, said it would stop selling guns and turned over its stock of small arms, hand guns, ammunition and related items to the police department. J-Mart president Marty Rosen said he took the action "to remove the possibility of supplying anyone with the means to cause bodily harm, inadvertently or intentionally, not only to our dedicated public leaders, but to anyone . . . "

An Indiana - based chain, Wonderland stores, discontinued the sale of ammunition. It stopped the sale of guns two years ago. The store president, Sanford Friedman, said the ammunition sale was being stopped "to help preserve public safety and sanity."

In Dallas, store owner E. O. Crawford discontinued the sale of toy guns the day Robert Kennedy died. "We teach our children love of a gun and love of killing by giving them a toy gun as soon as they are able to walk," he said.

John E. Fletcher of Denver urged gun owners to take "all firearms in your possession to the steps of the state capitol next Sunday (Father's Day) to be destroyed and disposed of."

He said the gesture would be "a sign of our intention to kill no more . . . and as a fitting remembrance to a fallen martyr - Robert F. Kennedy."

Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts said he will tell his colleagues in the New England Conference that strong gun controls are long overdue. The conference will meet in Stowe, Vt., June 27, and the issue is expected to come up then.

Volpe, chairman of the National Governor's Conference, plans to propose tighter gun laws when that group meets next month in Cincinnati.

A Gallup Poll report, released Sunday in Princeton, N.J., said that a special survey conducted on the day that Sen. Kennedy was shot found that the public advocates registration of all firearms as the best way to curb such violence.

A letter appeared in the Miami Herald, signed by a man who called himself "an avid owner and user of guns," and urging a 90-day jail sentence for possession of any firearm. "I know this means ending the sport of hunting," he wrote, "but our first obligation must be to mankind and the perpetuation of society."

Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco proclaimed the seven days beginning July 4 an "Amnesty Week," and asked all citizens to turn in their guns - with no questions asked. Last Friday, Alioto had urged a city gun control law "with teeth in it."

Not all the action came from adults.

A group of junior high and high school students in University City, Mo., formed an organization called Students for Action Committee to work to eliminate gun sales.

"The adults don't do anything" said Sharon Liebermann, a member of the group. "They mourn and say they'll do something and then they seem to forget."

Circuit Judge Max Raskin of Milwaukee urged passage of a law under which firearms would have to be drawn out of a local arsenal, somewhat like books out of a library. Raskin said the borrower would sign out the weapon, state his purpose for needing it and sign out the weapon, state his purpose for needing it and sign it back in after a specified time.

The crime - control bill which the U.S. House of Representatives passed Thursday includes a ban on mail-order sales of handguns, but President Johnson has asked for even stronger curbs. He urged the legislators to reinstate an original provision of the bill- banning the mail-order sale of rifles and shotguns as well-and to insert a new provision prohibiting the sale of rifles, shotguns and handguns to anyone under 18.

Panel Starts Study of Violence

WASHINGTON (AP)—A presidential commission has formally embarked on a study of violence in America and President Johnson wants the panel to consider whether campaigning candidates should be limited in their physical contact with voters.

Johnson met with the 10-member group at the White House for the first time Monday, signed the executive order creating it for one year and said he was asking Congress to give it subpoena powers.

He also gave it what he called a simple and direct charge in which he expressed the hope it would find "understanding and insight into the kinds of violent aberrations which have struck down public figures and private citizens alike."

Besides this, Johnson told the commission he hoped it would uncover the causes of disrespect for law and order, violent disruptions by groups and individuals and offer ways to control or prevent such outbreaks.

Among the many facets of violence touched upon, was the safety of campaigning.

"Does the democratic process which stresses exchanges of ideas permit less physical contact with masses of people—as a matter of security against the deranged individual and obsessed fanatic?" Johnson asked.

The commission was named by Johnson last Wednesday, the same day Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was felled by an assassin's bullet after a political victory speech in California.

Johnson told the commission, headed by Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, educator and brother of the former president, that it faced a difficult task.

He suggested among other things that it look into the possibility the seeds of violence are "nurtured through the public's airwaves, the screens of neighborhood theaters, the news media, and other forms of communication that reach the family and our children."

He said he was asking the heads of the major radio-television networks and the Federal Communications Commission to cooperate with the violence study.

In New York, NBC and CBS both said they would cooperate with the commission. ABC was said to be studying the situation.

Johnson announced he was asking Congress for special subpoena powers for the commission and that Lloyd Cutler, a Washington lawyer, would be the unpaid executive director.

Although the commission is set up for a year, presidential aides said Johnson hoped it would have its report ready in much shorter time.

Wallace Resumes Campaign

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Bolstered by reports of enough signatures to gain ballot space in Illinois and North Carolina, George Wallace swings into an 11-city Southern tour today—his first public appearances since his wife's death.

Wallace leaves for Memphis, Tenn., where a fund-raising dinner and a rally are on his schedule.

Not since Gov. Lurleen Wallace died of cancer May 7 has Wallace made a public appearance on behalf of his third party presidential bid.

State Sen. W.G. McCarley of Autauga County, Ala., reported from Springfield, Ill., Monday that Wallace supporters there have gathered more than 40,000 signatures, 15,000 more than the necessary number.

McCarley said he will file the petitions between July 29 and Aug. 5 to complete the legal requirements for Wallace to appear on the Illinois ballot in November.

Wallace's former news secretary Ed Ewing said in Raleigh, N.C., that the former governor has thousands more signatures than are needed to gain ballot position in that state.

Ewing said he gave North Carolina Elections Board officials petitions containing more than 16,000 signatures, at least 6,000 more than the number a third party candidate needs to quality in North Carolina. He said about 60,000 more signatures are waiting in Montgomery if needed.

Earlier, Wallace told a news conference in Montgomery that "our nation's leadership has failed."

He said he blames the nation's problems on those "who have brought about the breakdown of law and order." Wallace also told the newsmen "those in high places who have encouraged violence, have created a Frankenstein."

Referring to the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Wallace said the nation's streets are no longer safe for presidential candidates or the average citizen.

But Wallace said gun control isn't likely to solve the problem of violence. Such laws "will in the main wind up taking the guns out of the hands of the good citizens. The criminal can always get guns," he said.

The solution to violence, Wallace said, "lies in obedience to the law. We must give our police the authority to enforce the law."

As Wallace spoke, he was ringed by Secret Service agents plus at least two state troopers. The Secret Service detail was provided by President Johnson for major presidential candidates after Kennedy was shot.

Wallace Ballot Drive Underway

CAPE GIRARDEAU Headquarters have been established for the drive to obtain petitions to place the name of George Wallace for President on the Missouri general election ballot. Ken Donica of Cape Girardeau has been appointed coordinator. He will be assisted by Fred Fielder and Herman Lufcy, both of Cape Girardeau.

The area includes Cape Girardeau, Perry, Bollinger and Scott Counties.

Persons seeking information may contact Donica at the headquarters, phone ED 5-6424

ARTIST'S CONCEPTION of major expansion and modernization program for the Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett. The $2,500,000 program became assured with approval of a community mental health center grant by the National Institute for Mental Health in Washington. Hospital officials had been waiting to determine whether Kennett would qualify as the state's third Community mental health center before proceeding with plans for the major expansion program.

Kennett Site for Mental Health Center

KENNETT -- Kennett will become the site of Missouri's third Community mental health center. The review board of the National Institute for Mental Health gave its stamp of approval on a $400,000 federal grant for the three-county medical facility here.

Although the review board's action is still unannounced, Missouri Weekly learned that federal approval has been given the application submitted on behalf of Dunklin County Memorial Hospital by officials of the Missouri division of mental diseases.

Approval by the N.I.M.H. review board means that $400,000 of federal grant money will be matched with $400,000 in local funds to construct a large psychiatrict section at Dunklin County Memorial Hospital to serve the lower portion of the Bootheel, including Dunklin, Pemiscot and New Madrid counties.

Proposed for the psychiatric section will be a 26-bed wing to Dunklin Memorial that will also include treatment units, offices and other psychiatrict personnel.

Approval of Kennett as a Community Mental Health Center also brings an automatic partnership in psychiatrict care with the Missouri division of mental diseases, which will provide a full-time psychiatrist and other psychiathic personnel in a staffing arrangement. The state agency, which is under the direction of Dr. George Ulett, will form a working partnership with Dunklin Memorial in providing trained personnel to man the mental health catchment area clinic. The division will handle assignments to the psychiatrict unit in cooperation with Dunklin Memorial Administrator James Fox.

N.I.M.H. approval of the Kennett application was accomplished by approval of a similar application for Lutheran Hospital at St. Louis.

Church Celebrates 110th Anniversary At Sunday Rites

BLOOMFIELD - The 110th anniversary of the West Pleasant Valley Methodist church was celebrated Sunday during the annual homecoming services.

The Rev. James R. Poe, a native of Stoddary County, now of Warrensburg, Ill., was guest speaker. He graduated from Bloomfield High School in 1953 and received his bachelor of divinity from Butler Christian Theological Seminary at Indianapolis, Ind., in 1962.

The church established in 1858, is five miles northwest of Bloomfield. The first meetings of the church were held in homes and school buildings until 1874, when under the leadership of W. W. Norman, a log cabin was built on the present church site and used as a church building.

In 1867, the Bloomfield Circuit was formed, encompassing an area from Advance to Pleasant Valley.

The REv. W. C. Crowe was pastor when a frame house was erected on the site in 1894.

In 1912, the Acrone Ridge Circuit was formed and Acrone Ridge, Fairview, Pleasant Valley, and Zion formed one charge in order to support a regular pastor.

In 1965, the Acrone Ridge circuit was divided and Pleasant Valley became a substation of the Bloomfield Methodist Church. A cemetery is immediately west of the church, with the land for the cemetery being acquired in 1918.

The land for the cemetery was donated by W. D. Poe, W. O. Chasteen, Terry Poe, Lloyed Terry Poe, Lloyd Street and C. A. Freeman.

Besides the special morning services, the anniversary of the church was celebrated with the traditional basket dinner on the church grounds.

Keating, Reid Mentioned for Senate Seat

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The names of former Sen. Kenneth B. Keating and Rep. Ogden R. Reid have been raised in speculation over whom Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will name as a successor to the late Robert F. Kennedy in the Senate.

While Rockefeller and other political leaders declined to discuss the impending appointment publicly, there was substantial private reflection on the subject Thursday at the Capitol.

Rockefeller's press secretary, Leslie Sloate, said the Republican governor had "given no thought" to a successor to the slain Democratic senator.

Keating's name was among the first mentioned. The suggestion was that Rockefeller might wish to return him to the seat that Kennedy won from him in the 1964 election. Keating later was elected to the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court, but has only two years to serve before reaching the mandatory retirement age of 70.

Reid, who represents a Westchester County district, has been personally close to Rockefeller for years and has occasionally advised him on political matters.

The 43-year-old congressman who was president of the old New York Herald Tribune is known to be interested in attaining higher office.

The person chosen by Rockefeller will serve the remainder of Kennedy's term, which ends Dec. 31, 1970. A senator would be elected for a new, six-year term in November 1970, to take office in January 1971.

Poplar Bluff Area Clinic Dedicated

POPLAR BLUFF - Poplar Bluff's new $400,000 regional diagnostic clinic for Mental Retardation wa on was dedicated Friday with Gov. Warren E. Hearnes officiating.

"The clinic represents physical and mental salvation for those who so desperately need it," the governor said in brief ceremonies at 11:30 a.m. at the highway PP site of the facility.

"It represents spiritual relief for anguished families...and it represents the most priceless intangible gift which society can give to an individual: hope."

Moving on to the high school cafeteria for a joint service club luncheon after the formal clinic dedication, Hearnes delivered a major policy address on his beliefs about current American Society.

"We are continually faced with threats to our flag and our nation. We are told that ours is a sick society and a decaying nation. The prognosis is given that the illness which grips our nation is terminal...that the current upheaval will become final in its destructive force.

"We have witnessed a startling change among the youth of our nation which threatens permanent damage to our society. And we can't blame specific economic, racial or religious classes of people for producing an abnormal share of troublemakers.

"But there is a common denominator which helps pinpoint these troublemakers: They come from homes where the children are equal with the parents."

The governor cited "children who can do anything and have everything" and the trouble that results. He said an overly permissive society has helped raise a generation of lost children, but added he was not indicting all young people.

"The fault has to go back to the parents. They must give their children a basic awareness of s of right and wrong."

The chief executive then quoted J. Edgar Hoover's recent appeal for elementary teachers to instill in pupils a love of country, respect for law, and an understanding of our national heritage.

"If this isn't done, and the growth of permissiveness continues through high school, real problems result in college."

In contrast with lax parental attitudes, the governor implied, the student encounters rather strict and impersonal discipline from college administrations. He also finds strict academic discipline.

"Perhaps this sudden encounter of authority is one reason behind campus violence. Per haps it explains why students who constantly harp about free speech are the same ones who jeer a visiting speaker and run him off the platform.

"We witness student groups which willfully violate one law after another in protesting a single regulation. We see groups protesting war and violence, yet physically attacking police and military officials.

"There is one quick answer to a student, or to a faculty member, who engages in an illegal campus disruption or violent incident...and the answer is instant dismissal" the governor said.

Hearnes critized the "billing of city riots as race riots." He said most of the disturbances actually are struggles between law and order and those who do not believe in law and order.

"Let's not kid ourselves. Following the abolition of slavery, the United States virtually sat still for a century and did nothing to achieve full justice or equality for Negroes. This eventually led to the civil rights movement and it was needed to stir up some action.

"Many people feel that legislation has gone about as far as it can go toward creating equality of justice and opportunity. The next step is social equality, and that comes only with the passage of time and public education," he said.

He also pointed out that the vast majority of persons arrested during the riots had previous s criminal records; and that few middle-aged, hard working Negroes were involved, despite the fact their lives and fortunes were affacted much more by prejudice than the young rioters.

Hearnes insisted that "our current violence in slums and on campuses is basically a matter of disrepect for law and order."

"Most of all," Hearnes said, "we must breed respect for authority in the children of this nation. Whether it's a matter of altering the morals of adults or just a matter of re-asserting the discipline of parents over children, it is a task which must be carried out very soon.

"I do not believe that the current turmoil in our nation is a fatal illness. I fear only the the possibility that we might allow the patient to die through neglect " Hearnes concluded.

Hearnes brought with him a delegation of state officials who participated in the clinic dedication. Jack Stapleton, Jr., Kennett, presided over the ceremonies as a member of the Mental Health Commission.

State Supreme Court Upholds Convictions

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court agreed Monday two penitentiary inmates were properly convicted of killing another inmate and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Eddie Douglas Umfrees and Donald Lee Beishir were convicted of stabbing James Hawkes in the prison yard Nov. 27, 1965 during a recreation period. Testimony indicated that Hawkes backed a card game inside the prison and there had been some dispute about the take.

The defense sought to show another prisoner did the stabbing because of the card game controversy but that testimony was excluded — a fact which caused Judge Robert E. Seiler to dissent from the majority opinion.

In other opinions the high court:

Upheld the conviction and three-year sentence of Rex Peck for escaping from the state penitentiary Sept. 11, 1965 through a tunnel he and another inmate had dug under the walls. Peck, who was serving five years for burglary and stealing, was caught near Jefferson City by bloodhounds.

Found Richard Devoe's rights were not infringed in his trial and conviction of first degree murder in the robbery slaying of William Hemmersmeier, a St. Louis real estate man. Hemmersmeier was killed at his office Feb. 18, 1966. Devoe got a life sentence.

Affirmed the second degree murder conviction and 15-year sentence of Everett Roark, who was charged with shooting his brother, James Roark, in Butler County June 18, 1966. Everett said he was sick and didn't know what he was doing when he pleaded guilty to the charge.

Upheld the 20-year prison sentence imposed on Jessie Theodore Cook for assault with intent to kill. Cook shot Olen Neal Lafferty Dec. 11, 1966 in a fight at the Little Reno Club in Springfield.

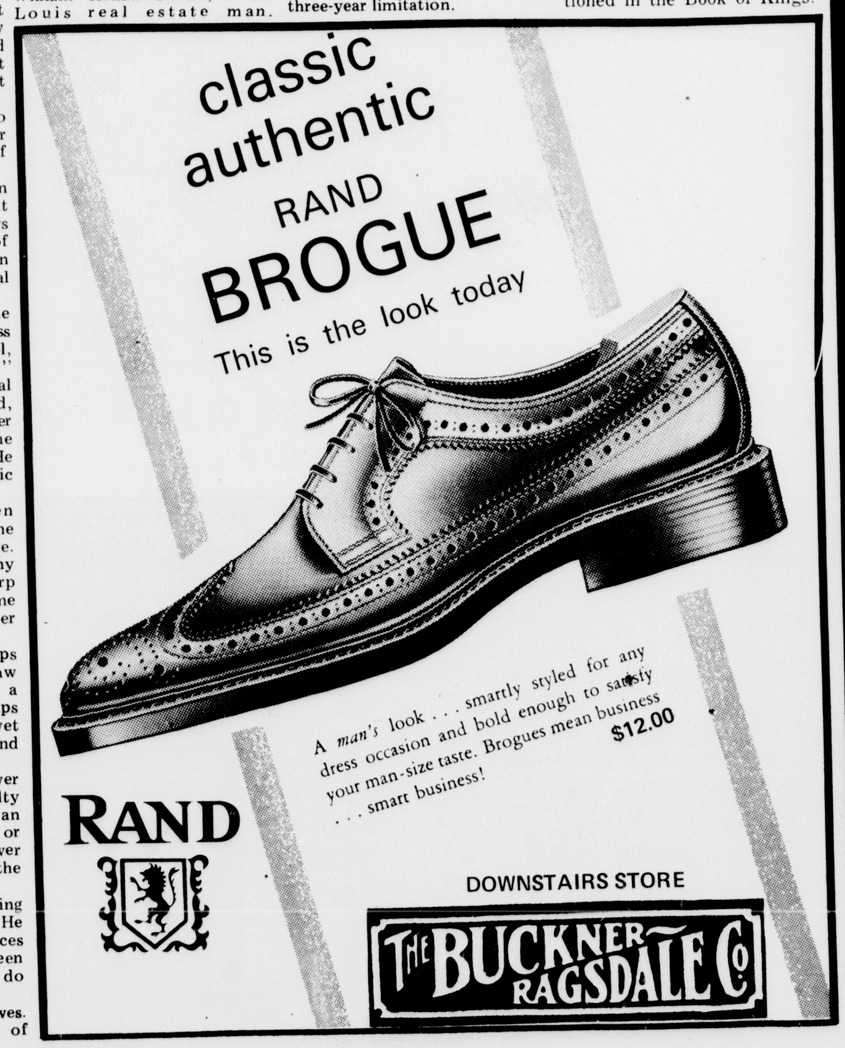

The Supreme Court dismissed the state's appeal of an adverse decision in the case of Joseph A. Perou, former administrator of Callaway Memorial Hospital in Fulton.

Perou was indicted by a grand jury on 20 charges of forgery but Circuit Judge John M. Cave dismissed the charges as having been barred by the three-year statute of limitations.

In an unusual appeal by the state it was alleged that Perou's actions constituted corruption in office and so the indictment was within the fiveyear statute of limitations for that charge.

The high court said Judge Cave acted properly in dismissing the charges on the three-year limitation.

The sundial was used in Babylon as early as 2000 B.C. and the Dial of Ahaz is mentioned in the Book of Kings.

Following the G.A' recessional, guests attended a reception in the church dining room honoring the G.A. organization.

Sihanouk Frees Pair in Homage To Kennedy

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) – Prince Norodom Sihanouk has released two American soldiers as a gesture of homage to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The two soldiers, Jerry A. Tester and Ronald J. Lehrmann of the 560th Military Police Company, were aboard a Philippine tug that strayed into Cambodian waters in the Mekong Delta.

They were turned over to the Australian Embassy, which has represented the United States in Cambodia since Sihanouk broke relations with Washington.

There was no immediate indication when or how the men would leave Cambodia.

In a message of sympathy to Sen. Kennedy's widow, Cambodia's ruling prince said:

"The royal government, the Cambodian people and I want to express our admiration and our respect to the Kennedy family whose sacrifices for the cause of peace, justice and liberty for the oppressed must not be vain for the honor of the American people and the future of humanity."

Sihanouk's announcement made no mention of releasing the tug or its eight-man Filipino crew. Phnom Penh newspapers had reported they would be treated leniently and would be released.

The U.S. government had protested the detention of the men and said the tug intruded inadvertently into Cambodian waters due to a navigational error.

The Cambodian government rejected the protest, saying the boat passed a "clearly visible" Cambodian border post on the river bank and ignored signals ordering it to turn back.

Earlier the Cambodian government had offered to release the two men in exchange for two bulldozers. Washington made no reply to that offer.

Case Against Jim Brown Dropped

HOLLYWOOD (AP) – Authorities have dropped an assault case against former pro football star Jimmy Brown in connection with a high-fashion model found injured beneath his second-floor balcony. But he still may face a charge of battery against a police officer.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Phillips Mueller said his office would not issue a complaint because of insufficient evidence. After his arrest Brown had been booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

"There was not sufficient evidence to convict," Mueller said Monday. "This is aside from the fact that the woman would not sign the complaint." He added, however, that a complaint could be issued if "some evidence turns up in the future."

The German-born model, Eva Marie Bohn-Chin, 22, hospitalized in fair condition, wasn't available for comment.

Mueller said his office will file a complaint charging Brown with battery against a police officer, a felony.

Brown was arrested Sunday night after neighbors in his West Hollywood apartment reported a fight.

Deputies discovered Miss Bohn-Chin semiconscious on the concrete patio about 20 feet below Brown's balcony.

Brown was freed Monday on $12,500 bond.

Doctors said Miss Bohn-Chin had a dislocated shoulder and bruises on her head, mouth and cheeks.

Deputy John Texeria, 165 pounds, said the 228-pound Brown knocked him seven feet with a swing of his left arm when the officer attempted to enter the apartment.

Officiers would not comment on the progress of their investigation to determine what happened in the apartment.

They did report finding blood on the bed, the rug, the walls and a towell in the apartment.

Miss Bohn-Chin is the daughter of a Jamaican diplomat and a German woman. She is described by her agents as looking "like a Negro with an oriental strain."

During his nine-year National Football League career, Brown carried the ball 2,359 times for 12,312 yards before retiring in 1966 to become an actor.

Brown was acquitted in Cleveland in 1965 of a charge of assault and battery filed by Brenda Ayres, 18. He has a wife and three children in Cleveland.

Cervantes Proposes Hotel-Amusement Center Be Built

ST. LOUIS (AP) - A $25 million convention and amusement complex to lure visitors to St. Louis was proposed Sunday night by Mayor A. J. Cervantes.

The Mayor said the center along with the Gateway Arch and Busch Memorial Stadium, would make St. Louis "the" place to visit in the midwest.

He said it would bolster the city economy and could be paid off through leasing arrangments. A study by a Los Angeles firm indicated the best place for the hotel-amusement-recreation center would be a 39-acre tract south of St. Louis 40 and west of Union Station. It is owned by the Terminal Railroad Association.

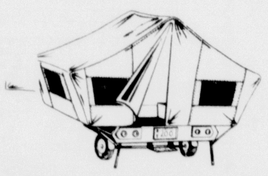

DOESN'T ADD UP

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) – A local observer believes that the "new math" has been incorporated in the latest radio weather reports. How else can you explain the recent report: "Today's high will be between 30 and 35. The present temperature is 37."

Dear Colonel Blanton:

We have many tourist who visit with us in the Spring and Summer and I am enclosing a snap shot of a pick-up truck belonging to one of them. There is only one Colonel and that's you so I guess you will have to have this other fellow arrested.

Mom:

The stretch of years is now long past since I was your baby girl.

The years when you mended a broken toy or smoothed a straying curl.

I've come since to a woman's place to my graduation day.

I'm a nurse-and the dream of my childhood hours stands achieved-and my heart is gay.

But mother I know I could never have won if your love hadn't helped me alone.

I who was always so weak on the way, you who were ever so strong.

Your love and your help, and your kindly praise, these followed me through the years, a million thanks well up from my heart.

God bless you-your joy and your tears.

Your are my model -you are my ideal-your love that was true.

God couldn't be with me all the time so he gave me a mother like you.

And mother; if ever around my neck the arms of a baby twine,

I only ask God to be like you-little mother of mine.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Perhaps you would be interested in publishing in your paper a poem written by one of my students here at the Indiana School for the Blind. I feel that it is very vital.

My parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hodges of Route 3, and I formerly taught in Southeast Missouri schools and for three years I taught at the Missouri School for the Blind. I have just completed my third year here at the Indiana School for the Blind as high school English teacher, and this fall I will take the position of elementary supervisor here in our school. I have received a federal grant to complete my master's degree at Michigan State University this summer.

I personally still enjoy receiving your fine paper because it keeps me up to date on old friends.

Sincerely yours,

LETTER FROM A SOLDIER

I write to you, my dearest Mom,

A serious note from Viet Nam.

We hear distressing news today

Of things that are not the American way.

A draft card burning, a demonstration,

What's wrong with the people in our nation?

We hear anti-war slogans and a protest song

And of sending supplies to the Viet Cong.

Do we want Communism to spread?

Do they want our flag to be only red?

Don't they appreciate our flag?

Why does their patriotism lag?

We all must take a stronger stand

And erase this evil from this land.

Now I have no more time to write.

We go to battle again tonight.

And if I return not any more,

Mom, tell them what we're fighting for.

----Joe Money

Note: Joe is one of this year's graduates, is totally blind, and has been accepted to attend Indiana State.

SUBJECT: Letter of Appreciation

THRU: Mayor
City of Sikeston
Sikeston, Missouri 63801

On behalf of all citizens of the City of Morehouse, I wish to express our appreciation to all members of the Sikeston Fire Department, who attended and assisted in fighting the major fire on May 23, 1968, which destroyed the Morehouse Oil Company (Simpson station) and cafe, owned by Mr. O. D. Henning.

I also wish to express our appreciation, to the citizens of the City of Sikeston and to the City Officials, for allowing your Fire Department to come to our assistance.

Although, our own Volunteer Fire Department were on the scene and putting up a gallant fight, it is fully realized th Knowledge of fire fighting, training, courage and efficiency of all personnel was very evident and can oly be commendable of the entire Sikeston Fire Department. It is most gratifying to know that our good neighboring City can and does come to our assistance in fire emergencies such as this one.

Again, I wish to express our appreciation for your outstanding assistance and to offer to you the help of this City at anytime in anyway that we may.

Very truly yours,
L. B. McNew, Sr.
Mayor

June 4, 1968

Mr. Arthur Bruce, Chief
Sikeston Police Department
Sikeston, Missouri 63801

Dear Mr. Bruce:

I sincerely appreciate the assistance you and your police force gave to me and my staff during my recent visit to Sikeston. Your assistance helped make my visit to Sikeston a very pleasant experience.

Sincerely,

To the Editor
DAILY SIKESTON STANDARD

The most vicous enemy of the church is the atheist. The active atheist insists that God be dethroned and supplanted by the all-powerful State. All forms of dictatorship, bad or benign, must maintain the all- powerful State. Some persons previously indoctrinated with a tolerance of communism may decide communism is dangerous, but that a little socialism is harmless. Socialism is equally atheistic and must lead to dictatorship and demoting God. Church demoninations are highly organized and if the enemy has them prepared, are the handiest avenue through which the communist, socialist and, therefore, the atheists, will choose to work. All believers in God must work fearlessly to detect and defeat the evil decisions of the atheists who may be attempting to work within some highly organized church entities.

Spock Says Viet War Illegal

BOSTON (AP) – The war in Vietnam "has no shred of legality and will blacken the reputations of my country for decades and centuries to come," says Dr. Benjamin Spock.

The pediatrician called U.S. involvement in the war "outrageous and abominable" as he testified Monday in defense against federal charges that he and four other men conspired to violate draft laws.

He said American forces have killed "hundreds of thousands" of civilians while fighting in Vietnam and that thousands of U.S. troops have been killed needlessly.

"What's the use of a physician like myself in helping to bring up children to be killed in a cause which is ignoble?" he said about American war dead.

He told the all-male jury that America is participating in a war which is "totally illegal, immoral, unwinnable and detrimental to the best interests of the United States."

Spock said he believed the United States violated the Geneva accords of 1954 which were drawn up to partition Indochina into North and South Vietnam after the forces of Ho Chi Minh defeated the French.

The accords called for elections in 1956. Instead, Spock charged the United States introduced "a puppet leader named Diem" to the South Vietnamese government and supplied him with money and guns.

On trial with the 65-year-old Spock are Yale Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43; Mitchell Goodman, 44, a writer and teacher from Temple, Maine; Marcus Raskin, 34, a Washington research director; and Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student.

If convicted, they face maximum penalties of five years in prison and $10,000 fines.

The trial is in its fourth week.

Washington, Jefferson and Franklin once proposed an east-west highway to unite the nation. The Lincoln Highway is culmination of their proposal.

WINNER OF GUITAR at Falkoff Men's Store in a work clothing contest last week was Derick Sellers 10, 310 Crowe St. Manager David Friedman, places the instrument in the hands of the winner. Second prize, a pair of trousers, went to Darrell Wyatt 16, 225 East Kathleen.

Ban Lowered on Suits Opposing Parochial Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court has knocked down a 45-year-old barrier and cleared the way for taxpayer suits challenging federal aid to parochial schools.

The barrier was imposed by the court in 1923. It found then that individual taxpayers lack the standing to sue the government over big programs because their tax payments are too small to show sufficient personal involvement.

Today's ruling sweeps aside that decision. This means seven New Yorkers who contend federal aid to pupils in church-related schools violates the Constitution will have a chance to try to block the program in courts.

Similarly, the ruling may clear the way for suits against other government programs.

The carefully worded 8-1 decision delivered, by Chief Justice Earl Warren, said there was "no absolute bar" in the Constitution "to suits by federal taxpayers challenging allegedly unconstitutional federal taxing and spending programs."

The federal government spends an estimated $41.9 million a year under the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act to provide special education programs and library services for children attending nonpublic schools in poor areas.

The seven taxpayers claim this is prohibited by the First Amendment's ban on establishment of religion by government. The Justice Department, meanwhile, urged the high court not to disturb the 1923 ruling. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold called it "a modern exemplar of judicial denial-that the court not decide political questions."

Stand-in for Laugh-in Gets Routine Label

NEW YORK (AP) – "The Champions," NBC's British import to replace its "laugh-in" for the summer, had the shape of an old model in its American premiere Monday night.

The program is a cross between superman stuff and "The Man From U.N.C.L.E. style of show.

In "The Champions," three attractive young persons, two men and a girl, are dedicated to Fighting Evil.

They work for some international crime-fighting organization. The gimmick is that all three are possessed of strange powers that permit them to see details at great distances, hear through closed doors, immobilize enemies by staring at them and even transmit signals among themselves by mental telepathy.

NBC chose not to tell us how they got these supernatural powers.

At any rate, the story was routine with evil dope pushers, sinister masterminds and the usual fights.

And fights currently are not popular with the television networks. Neither is any kind of action in that area.

Sight Study Leaves Student Disoriented

DENVER, Colo. (AP) - John Thomas Zimmerman emerged from his dim, topsy-turvy world Monday and promptly got sick.

His world had been topsy-turvy because for three weeks, his only vision had been through strange-looking glasses that made everything he saw appear upside down and backwards.

His world had been dim because the glasses afforded only a narrow, barely light 7-degree field of vision, compared with normal vision of about 180 degrees.

The nausea came when he took off the glasses and found himself dizzy and disoriented at seeing things right side up again.

Despite the discomfort the 19-year-old Zimmerman was pleased because his experiment had been fruitful.

The study, and a 21/2-month stint with right side up, but reversed, glasses before that, were aimed at learning how mind and body reactions adapt when the eyes see things as they are not.

Eventually, he said, it is hoped the pilot studies will learn to help the mind and body—possibly with the aid of hypnosis— conquer vision defects. Zimmerman, freshman at the University of Colorado, has been nearsighted since he was born prematurely, tipping the scales at 30 ounches.

For his latest tests, he wore classes with periscope-like prisms mounted on them.

"It feels like I'm walking upside down," he said. A firsthand view through the odd spectacles—while Zimmerman kept his eyes closed—showed such sensations as watching one's own feet appear to be approaching, and instinctively reaching to meet a proffered handshake with the left hand.

There were some embarrassing moments too. He said a girl friend and another girl were standing beside each other, and with the vision reversed, "I hugged the wrong one. They both gave me heck."

Execution Stay Granted Glenn

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Supreme Court has stayed indefinitely the execution of Eddie Steve Glenn, convicted of killing a St. Louis policeman four years ago.

The court refused to give Glenn a new hearing on its affirmation of the death sentence a month ago. At that time the court set the execution date for June 28.

But the court did accede to a request for a stay of execution "until further order of this court."

That will give his attorneys time to prepare a new appeal based on a U.S. Supreme Court ruling a week ago substantially restricting the questioning of prospective jurors in capital cases.

Glenn was convicted of killing officer Paul McCulloch July 2, 1964 while police were attempting to arrest him. Glenn allegedly robbed Miss Marilyn Morris of $4 and a ring a little earlier. He threatened her with a knife, the evidence showed, and said he needed $16 to get a shot of dope.

1964 Letter Commends Dace

The following are portions of a letter to Capt. Melvin C. Dace now of Gainesville, Fla., who served as commanding officer of the 11th medical detachment, with the Army in Gainesville. He is a son of Melvin Dace of Sikeston. The letter was written Nov. 16, 1964, by Col. Philip W. Mallory.

"It is my pleasure to report that the inspectors who conducted the annual command inspection were highly complimentary, in their closing remarks, about the 11th medical detachment.

"Since your assignment as commanding officer, I have been pleased to observe the leadership you are displaying in obtaining the best efforts from your personnel. The comments of the inspectors concerning the satisfaction of your patients and the high morale, discipline and esprit-de-corps of your personal attest to your fine qualifications as a leader and your judgment as a doctor and commanding officer.

"Your fine continued support is contributing greatly to our well being of the military community and to making this medical service area one of the finest medical commands in the world. The results of this inspection reflect much credit upon you as a leader and officer."

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

Great peace has those who love thy law. —(Psalms 119:165).

Most of us want peace more than everything else in the world. We yearn for peace of mind, heart and home, peace on our jobs, with our friends, in the world. To attain a just and lasting peace we must open up our minds to God's guidance and direction.

Coffee Corner

by Cherie

COFFEE CORNER - It's too dern hot to think, or to cook, but since God made us all with stomachs, let me give you ladies some easy and cool recipes to make life worth living. I sure had lots of excellent comments on that strawberry pie I put in, and her is another equally good dessert that you can make using the seasonable fruits.

This is called plum crunch, but is just as good made with fresh peaches, apples, etc.

Take 3 lb. of fresh plums quarter and pit them approximately 5 cups and mix them with ¼ cup of brown sugar and place in a large baking dish. Sift together.

1 cup flour
1 cup granulated sugar
½ tsp slat
½ tsp. cinammon

Add 1 beaten egg to this mixture and toss lightly. Sprinkle over plums.

Now, melt ½ cup of butter and drizzle over all and bake at 375 for 45 minutes. Serve warm topped with ice or whipped cream.

When the weather gets this hot, we always pull out the ice cream freezer and really get with it. Now this recipe came from Charle's grandmother, and it's going to cost you a little too make, but as far as I'm concerned you can keep your cooked custard ice creams, cause they just aren't the real thing. You try this and see if it isn't well worth the money.

PEACH ICE CREAM

Peel, pit and mash 3 cups of fruit with 2 cups of sugar. Let sit while you prepare the rest.

In your freezer container pour 1 quart of unwhipped, whipping cream, 2 cups of milk, and ½ cup of cup of sugar. Now start freezing, using 1/3 cup of freezer salt to 2/3 cup of ice. When it begins to slightly thicken, pour in your fruit and keep on until mixture freezers.

Without a doubt, this is one of the best salad dressings I've ever eaten. Most men could turn the bowls up and drink what's left in the bottom of the dish. Try it.

1000 ISLAND DRESSING

Mix together:

1 cup of Miracle Whip
1 TBS chopped green pepper
¼ tsp paprika
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
2 TBS chopped onions
1/3 cup of chili sauce
1 TBS chopped pimento (optional)

Keep in a jar in refrigerator, and serve over head lettuce.

Want to do something a little different with pot roast, and fix it on top of the stove to keep from heating up the oven. This is good-good-good!

MUSHROOM POT ROAST

3-4 lbs. of beef pot roast
2 onions, sliced
½ cup water
¼ cup catsup
1/3 cooking sherry
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ tsp. each of dry mustard, marjoram, rosemary, thyme
1 bay leaf
1 6-oz. can broiled sliced mushrooms

Trim off excess fat, and flour. Brown slowly on all sides in a little hot fat. Season generously with salt and pepper. Add onions. Mix and add remaining ingredients, except mush- rooms, liquid and all and heat. Remove meat to a warm platter. Skim fat from stock. Blend 1 TBS. flour and ¼ cup of cold water, gradually stir into stock. Cook and stir till sauce thickens, salt to taste, serve over meat.

O.K., now that you've gotten dinner prepared, just call in a neighbor and sit down and relax with a refreshing wine cooler.

WINE COOLER

Use a red, ruby port (don't waste money on a good one, for this drink go cheap), and a 7-Up. In a tall glass, pour soda 2/3 of way up, and wine 1/3 way up. Fill with ice and slurp, slurp. If you want to serve this at a party, top it with slices of oranges and cherries.

President of Hawaiian School System Honored

HONOLULU, Hawaii - John Fenton Fox, the 14th president of the Punahou school system will be honored to his retirement July 1. He has headed the system 24 years.

Fox, a native of Sikeston, Mo., where he graduate from high school, and is a graduate of the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Thirty years ago he served as superintendent of Bridgewater township, N. J., schools six years before being appointed president of the private school in Hawaii.

A 28-page illustrated bulletin, published by the Punahou school, is devoted to the work of Fox and his family.

The bulletin points out that when he arrived in 1944, the school had an enrollment of 1,200 and 81 teachers. Today the school has 3,500 students and 262 teachers.

A total of 6,362 have graduated since Fox came to the school. About 98 per cent of the graduates go on to college. Many of them merit scholars according to the report from the chairman of the board of trustees, Dudley Pratt.

Fox's wife Helen, three daughters, Mary Bell, Pat and Jean, their husbands and seven grandchildren make up the team added success to the school's achievement.

The school in 1944 had an endowment of $2½ million. The endowment has grown to $13 million. The annual operating budget has advanced during the period ten times to $3,748,000.

George L. Kress

This, Flag Day, is the appropriate time to acknowledge services of Peter H. Wendover a representative in Congress from New York, who was responsible, more than any other, for passage of the Flag Act of 1818.

An individual of commonplace ability, yet dedicated to a cause, his sole claim to fame is his achievement in devellping the flag which has served the nation for a century and a half. This is glory enough for one man, and as long as the Stars and Stripes continue to wave, the name of Peter H. Wendover should be held in grateful remembrance.

All know the facts about Francis Scott Key, aboard a British warship in the Baltimore Harbor, how he composed "The Star-Spangled Banner;" the Betsy Ross legend persists in American folklore; but Wendover's crusade to enact into law the formula of 13 stripes, alternate red and white, to represent the 13 original states, and a white star, on a field of blue, for each state in the Union, is less familiar.

Earlier legislation and practice had allowed a stripe plus a star for every state, which inevitably would make the banner of impossible proportions.

Wendover pointed out that within 13 months after the alteration of 1794, admission of Tennessee to statehood made the flag incongruous since at that time there were 15 stars and 16 stripes; the Volunteer State would have added another of each.

The act Wendover sponsored remains today the legal charter of the flag. It provided for 13 alternate red and white stripes on the horizontal, and 20 stars—one for each state—on a field of blue. It was adopted on April 4, 1818; it had required 41 years for Congress to establish this formula.

Roger Taney, Chief Justice of the United States a brother-in-law of Francis Scott Key, has handed down the best known narrative of how Key wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner" and how it was given to the world. Key made sketchy notes on the back of an envelope, relying on memory for the rest; that night in a Baltimore hotel he wrote out the lyrics as they stand today; the next morning he took it to Judge Joseph H. Nicholson. Judge Nicholson was so pleased with it that he sent it immediately to a printer and ordered copies struck off in handbill form.

On Sept. 20 the lyrics appeared in the Baltimore Patriot, and the American published it the next day, under a 173-word introduction.

There is considerable evidence that Key had in mind a then popular song, "To Anacreon In Heaven," whose melody was a perfect fit for "The Star-Spangled Banner," lyrics.

The flag which Key saw waving over Fort McHenry on the morning of Sept. 14, 1814, is still preserved. For years it remained in possession of the family of Lt. Gen. George Armistead, who as major commanded Fort McHenry in 1814; it bears Armstead's autograph and the date. It went to the Smithsonian Institution on loan in 1907, and the loan was changed to outright gift in 1912.

In 1914, much needed needlework was done on the tattered banner by Mrs. Amelia Fowler and associates, and it was stiched to a linen backing. It measures 32 by 28 feet.

VALUES IN DISARRAY

In these mixed-up, turbulent times that distort truth and real values, the law-abiding and the respectable suffer and the violent and irresponsible receive praise of kind treatment.

An example of this is the pressure successfully applied on the International Olympics Committee to ban South African athletes from the games, even though they had been formally accepted for participation in the summer Olympics at Mexico City. The Olympics, which should stand for good sportsmanship, have had to bend before the winds of politics.

The banning of South African sportsmen is a cruel blow to the South African athletes of all colors and race who would have taken part in the games this summer. They have been discriminated against and denied an opportunity to excel in international competition.

The refusal to let the South Africans compete testifies to the degree to which our world is in disarray. The communist and Afro-Asian nations never miss an opportunity to force South Africa, a constitutional republic, into the pillory of "world opinion."

If nations are to be barred from the Olympics on the basis of their political records, responsible men can easily think of some prime candidates for banning. The first would be the Soviet Union, the country that holds millions of captive people in its grip -- the nation that swallowed up the little states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania and deported millions of men, women and children to Siberia.

Few of the black African nations would be exempt from banning if a strict political behavior rule were applied. Tanzania is a one-party state that gives communists a base for communists a base for terriorist campaigns against its neighbors. Guinea is a communist dictatorship, as is Congo (Brazzaville). The Republic of the Congo (Kinshasa) is a tyranny with mixed elements of force and tribal terror.

Ethiopia is an absolutist monarchy where no one has any rights. Almost everywhere one looks on the African continent one finds cruelty and despotism and backwardness in sub-Sararan Africa. Only in South Africa, Rhodesia and the Portuguese Provinces will one find civilization and the rule of law. These advanced nations and territories are condemned, however, because they will not accept the kind of governmental system that prevails elsewhere in Africa; they will not agree to give up the accept a return of primitivism. That's shy the South Africans are banned from the summer Olympics.

The real tragedy is that some supposedly responsible people in Western countries are delighted that the South Africans are banned. They mistakenly view this vindicative action against a highly modern country, which spends more than any other African country on social services and education of ALL its people, as a victory for human rights. This reaction only indicates the extent to which logic is ignored in our time.

We see the same phenomenon with respect to the law enforcement authority in our town country. For example, when the New York police finally were called in to remove radical students from Columbia University buildings, they didn't get any thanks for a tough and nasty job. On the contrary, Mayor John Lindsay of New York called for an investigation into charges of "police brutality." He apparently didn't find it expedient to order an investigation into the student groups that ran the red flag up over Columbia, who placed the communist hammer and sickle symbol on blackboards, who shouted "Lenin won.; Fidel won; we'll win." No, the radicals were virtually excused; Mr. Lindsay upheld their right to "dissent."

It is a strange world, all right. Apparently academic freedom doesn't include the right of a university to maintain order on campus, hold classes and end student hoodlumism. But, in the view of the prevailing "liberals," academic freedom involves toleration of sit-ins, wrecking college administration buildings, pulling down bookshelves for barricades, and screaming obscenities at police and students who want to study.

Confusion of basic values is one of the worst things that can happen in a free society. It means that society is being undermined. Such confusion take place at the end of the Roman Empire when the Dark Ages began to fall on Europe. Nowadays, it often seems that a new Dark Age is beginning, as the police are condemned, universities are terrorized, riots take place in great cities and anti-communist countries such as South Africa are victimized by political extremists. The outlook is very grim for the forces of civilization.

The Flag Speaks

I placed my hand upon my heart that day:
"I pledge allegiance," I began to say.
But ere another word I could intone,
The flag began some speaking of its own:
"I also make a pledge to you," it said,
"To fly forever here above your head,
And guarantee your right to say and do
Whatever things are good and just and true.
I pledge an equal chance to every man
To do each day the very best he can.
I pledge that hills and cities fields and streams
Be his to bring fulfillment to his dreams.
And here I pledge that in all days to be,

Polly's Pointers®

Seeks Tips on Brightening Her Fiberglass Curtains

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—In my living room I have loosely woven fiberglass window curtains and over draperies of figured cotton. Luckily I can draw the cotton ones at night for then the fiberglass ones look as dingy as if water had not touched them for 40 years. They look the same just after laundering, too. This is ONLY under artificial light but on hot summer nights I do not like to draw the heavy draperies which is now necessary because the inner ones look so bad. There are 40 yards in each set and I cannot afford to scuttle them. I wonder if I could dye or paint them? Hope the readers can help. —MRS. R. H. B.

DEAR POLLY—Guests have always wondered how I fixed a bowl of vegetables with one color neatly in the center and the other around it. I decided to send you my easy hint. Cut both ends off of an clean empty tin can. Stand it on end in the middle of the platter or bowl. Pour one vegetable inside the can and the other around the outside. With vegetables of different colors this makes an attractive-looking dish after the can is carefully removed.—ELLA

DEAR POLLY—Do tell Mrs. M. F. that a braided rug must rest on a flat hard surface while being sewn or laced together. Also other facts such as the tension and knowing how and where to increase the loops on the curves which affect the curvature of the finished rug. If properly made, the rug will lie flat.—THE RUG CRAFTERS GUILD.

DEAR POLLY—My husband has a neat trick for removing and replacing light bulbs in high hard-to-reach sockets in stairwells, porch, entry, etc. He uses the long cardboard tubes on which gift wrappings come, places the tube over the end of the bulb (so it is a close fit) gives it a twist and easily removes the bulb without the need for a stepladder. The new bulb is then placed in the end of the tube and twisted into place.—GLADYS

Dreams May Be Major Factor in Heart Attacks

HOLLYWOOD Fla. - A revealing medical study has shown that dreams may be a major factor in causing fatal heart attacks.

Dr. Melvin C. Dave of the cardiology department of the University of Florida School of Medicine, said a person, especially a heart patient goest through severe stress while dreaming. He is the son of Melvin Dace of 601 North Kingshighway.

Dr. Dace outline the medical study at the 94th annual meeting of the Florida Medical Assn.

Dr. Dace and four other doctors from the cardiology and psychiatry departments of the University of Florida conducted the test for the past year on five patients with coronary artery diseases.

The doctors scould tell when one of the patients was having a dream because he would undergo rapid eye movement.

The accepted medical fact that this occurs when a person is dreaming was discovered in 1955.

By using highly technical equipment, the university research team found that during dreams a patient experiences severe stress on the heart.

Hormones are released into the blood stream, respiration rises and becomes irregular, blood pressure goes up and the pulse becomes rapid, Dr. Dace said.

The patient then usually develops angina pectoris (chest pains), which occur when not enough blood is supplied to the heart, Dr. Dace said. This causes the heart to work harder to botain an adequate blood supply.

Dr. Dace said many years ago it was believed that sleep was a peaceful time during which the blood pressure decreased and people rested.

"Now it is recognized that many people die in their sleep because of heart attacks" Dr. Dace said, "but no one knew why."

Dr. Dace emphasized that the university study is not statistically proved but it is consistent in its results.

"We still are in the early phases of our study," he said.

People dream at various times during the night for periods from five to 30 minutes, according to Dr. Dace.

"Dreams may be the trouble periods for persons with histories of coronary artery diseases," Dr. Dace said.

He pointed out that there are drugs available that can supress dreams for three to four days.

Usually a person is most susceptible to a fatal heart attack within three or four days after his first attack. During this period after the first attack the heart is in a weakened condition and needs as much rest as possible.

Possibly through administration of the dream-suppressing drugs, a patient could go through the post-attack danger period without undergoing the severe stress caused by dreams.

The university study will be continued with emphasis placed on the potential on supressing dreams.

Researchers also will attempt to determine the type of dreams that cause the most stress. Possibly nightmares and not "happy" dreams are stress-provoking dreams.

The researchers from the university psychiatry department will attempt to analyze the dreams.

Counsel for Sirhan to Be Named Soon

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The man accused of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will choose a lawyer soon, says the American Civil Liberties Union.

The announcement came as investigators continued to probe the murder and Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, remained under tight security guard at Los Angeles County jail. An ACLU lawyer talked with Sirhan.

Ed Cray of the ACLU's Southern California chapter said Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer would confer with officials of the county bar association to choose attorneys from "more than a dozen top lawyers" who have volunteered to take Sirhan's case without pay. He wouldn't name the lawyers.

Leonard S. Janofsky, president-elect of the bar association, issued a statement which said his group had no official request yet to help choose counsel for Sirhan but would act promptly if asked.

Sirhan, a native of Jordan admitted to the United States as a permanent resident, has been represented by a deputy public defender, Wilbur Littlefield.

Meanwhile, the bystander most seriously injured when Kennedy was shot early Wednesday said he doesn't know who fired the shots.

Paul Schrade, 43, western regional director of the United Auto Workers Union, was one of five shot. He and another bystander remain hospitalized in good condition.

His head wrapped in bandages, Schrade told a hospital news conference that he was five or six feet from Kennedy when he saw flashes and heard sounds like explosions.

"I did not see him go down," he said of Kennedy.

Schrade, recovering from a shot in the head, said Federal Bureau of Investigation agents questioned him. "I saw nothing in terms of prosecution," Schrade said.

The status of the investigation into the shooting of the New York senator during a celebration of his victory in the state's presidential primary remained secret.

Law enforcement officers, public officials and others connected with the case have been enjoined from discussing details. Superior Court Judge Arthur L. Alarcon's security order came Friday when Sirhan was arraigned on one charge of murder and five counts of assault with intent to commit murder.

Man Sought In Bank Thefts Joins FBI List

WASHINGOTN - Phillip Morris Jones, who allegedly committed lone-wolf bank robberies in California, Florida and Maryland and reportedly abandoned most of the loot to pursuing authorities has been added to the FBI's list of Ten most wanted fugitives.

On Feb. 23, 1968, he allegedly robbed the Ming Wible Branch of the United California Bank, Bakersfield, Calif., of $5,637. all but about $500 of this money was found, along with a toy gun, in a paper sack in an abandoned getaway car.

Six weeks later. on April 8, 1968, Jones allegedly seized $79,874 from the American National Bank in Cypress Gardens, Winter Haven, Florida ocked eight people in a bank vault and fled to a nearby motel where he donned swimming trunks and began relaxing by the pool. Hotly pursuing police, however. abruptly ended his brief leisure, and when he spotted and approaching police car, Jones reportedly stole a car drove to a nearby lake, swam 50 ya the opposite shore, stole a truck and completed his escape still attired in his bathing suit. Found in his motel room were $76,597 and an automatic pistol. Subsequent investigation determined he purchased street clothes near where the stolen truck was found abandoned in Bartow, Florida, a few hours after his flamboyant flight.

On April 30, Jones allegedly robbed the Wheaton Office of the Maryland National Bank of $9,820, menacing employees with a pistol.

Federal warrants charging Jones with bank robbery were issued at Bakersfield, California, on February 24, 1968, at Tampa, Florida, on April 10, 1968, and at Bethesda, Maryland, on May 6, 1968.

Jones is a white American who was born on July 28, 1940, at Jay, Fla. He is six foot one inches tall, weighs 195 to 210 pounds, and has dark brown hair, a medium complexion and a large build. His eyes have been described as blue or gray. He has a scar on his left thumb approximately 1 ½" in length. Jones has been employed as a bartender, laborer, short order cook, farmer, aircraft laborer and ski lift operator. He has previously been convicted of grand theft.

He is reportedly an avid gambler, prone to bet on anthing but particularly fond of blackjack and poker. He has allegedly used marked cards and is also known as a good chess player. Acquaintances report he likes to frequent good restaurants and motels favors warm climates, drinks whiskey and dresses well usually wearing conservative sports clot Jones should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. Anyone with information concerning him is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.

Gaulle Regime Imposes Bans

PARIS (AP) - President Charles de Gaulle's government, cracking down after two nights of student rioting in Paris, today banned all street demonstrations throughout France and ordered seven extreme leftist groups dissolved.

The Cabinet issued the orders about five hours in advance of scheduled student meetings in Paris, Bordeaux, Toulouse and Strasbourg to protest police action against a revived wave of violence in the academic and industrial crisis that De Gaulle once warned could lead to civil war.

Another French worker died from injuries received in battle with the police, raising the death toll in clashes this week to three. Paris disorders overnight left 194 persons injured. More than 150 were hurt in fights between demonstrators and police in St. Nazaire.

Information Minister Yves Guena announced the ban on street demonstrations will last through the election campaign and the voting for a new National Assembly, to be completed June 30.

Banned organizations include the March 22 Movement, a radical student group headed by Daniel Cohn - Bendit, a 23-year-old West German known as "Danny the Red."

Cohn - Bendit, the idol of Sorbonne rioters, was in London today to tape with other student leaders from Europe and the United States a television program called "Students in Revolt." The British Broadcasting Corp., paid for Cohn-Bendit's ticket and got him liberated for the BBC show after he was held three hours at London Airport on arriving unheralded from Frankfurt.

The spark that touched off the new student rioting was the drowning Monday of a high school student. Witnesses said the youth, along with other students, plunged into the Seine to escape a police check.

With three new "martyrs," France appeared to be in for a renewal of continued student and labor unrest after a brief period during which President Charles de Gaulle's government seemed to have mastered the nation's greatest postwar crisis.

The students began their protest in Paris last Tuesday night on the Right Bank but the police drove most of them back across the Seine to the Latin Quarter and Montparnasse. Using new tactics, the police continually broke the students into small groups, hurling tear gas barrages and concussion grenades heard miles away in the suburbs. There were many short, brisk clashes which left an uncounted number injured.

The Communist party newspaper Humanite blamed the death of the worker, Pierre Beylot, on "the Gaullist police."

"The government has decided to provoke the workers," said the paper. "It substitutes police intervention, bloody repression, for negotiation which could end a conflict which continues."

The Communist-led General Confederation of Workers, France's largest, called for a one-hour national strike today to protest the police action.

Beylot was shot through the lungs during clashes at the Peugeot auto works in Sochaux when the police tried to open the strike-bound plant.

Violence also shook four other provincial cities—Lyon, Nantes, St. Nazaire and Toulouse.

The worst was at Toulouse, in southwestern France. Students and other demonstrators surged through the city and at several points threw up barricades with park benches and traffic signs. The gendarmes charged the barricades, swinging clubs and throwing tear gas.

As the new violence swept parts of the nation, the government remained strangely silent, in contrast with frequent statements and warnings during the rioting in May.

But the government gave in to union demands that police move away from the strike-bound auto plats at Sochaux and at Flins, near Paris, another scene of recent sharp fighting. Without any announcement, the police drifted away, and the managers stopped any attempt to resume operations.

Upwards of a million strikers —mostly in the working and auto industries—are still demanding higher wages and other benefits.

Other extremist groups dissolved by government order were the Marxist-Leninist Union of Communist Youth, the Federation of Revolutionary Students, the Liaison Committee of Revolutionary Students, the Communist Revolutionary Youths the Group of the Revolt and the Workers Voice, a Maoist labor group.

The minister said violation of the government decision to abolish the groups would mean prison sentences of six months to two years according to the law.

Guena said election campaign meetings in closed places will not be affected by the ban on demonstrations, but all street demonstrations are illegal.

A new escalation of the crisis appeared in prospect as students rioted in Paris for the second night running, the Communists called a one-hour general strike today, and the Paris students scheduled another demonstration tonight.

Henri Blanchet, a 49-year-old worker at the Peugeot auto plant at Sochaux, in Alsace, died shortly after midnight of a fractured skull received when he fled from a police charge at the strikebound plant Monday.

Blanchet was the second worker to fall since the general strike began in mid-May in response to a student revolt at the University of Paris. Another Peugeot striker died of a bullet during the battle at Sochaux Monday, and a riot policeman was reported in "desperate condition" after being clubbed in the abdomen with an iron bar.

Dexter Votes Bonds

DEXTER -- A $600,000 revenue bond issue for construction of the Fram Corporation building was approved by voters Tuesday, 414-2.

In Ward 1 the vote was 132-1, in Ward 2 it was 244-0 and in Ward 3 it carried 38-1.

Construction of the new factory building is underway but formal approval of the bonds was required. The bonds will be paid off by rental payments from Fram with no increase in taxes.

Fingers, Toe and Heads Injured

Five were admitted to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital Tuesday:

Samuel Brady Camp, Sikeston, caught finger in door; Cheryl Ann Collins, Vicksburg Miss., hit on forehead with rock; Louanne Cope, Charleston, hit on forehead with rock; Debra Lee Wren, Sikeston, cut left big toe on glass and Katherine Lee Riggs, Charleston, cut ring, middle and little fingers on fan.

Harriman Protests Saigon Attacks

PARIS (AP) - The United States protested to North Vietnam in the Paris peace talks today against "particularly vicious rocket attacks" on the heavily populated center of Saigon.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman told the North Vietnamese that the United States had reports that "the current offensive was planned and directed by North Vietnamese generals." He said this information came to the U.S. government from high-ranking defectors.

He met with the North Vietnamese envoy Xuan Thuy for almost four hours. The sessions were adjourned until next Wednesday.

"Today," Harriman said, "I want to be sure you understand that this is a situation which could have the most serious consequences for these talks."

Earlier when asked by newsmen whether the United States would take retaliatory action by renewed bombing of Hanoi or other centers-Harriman said that was not the business of this conference but a question for President Johnson.

Harriman said the bombardments of Saigon have been carried out "using the North Vietnamese rockets and mortars.

"Most importantly, the attacks have relied heavily upon North Vietnamese army troops and they are sustained by a swelling flow of men and materiel from North Vietnam.

"The troops attacking in and around Saigon are under orders to infiltrate into the city, to seize civilian homes and to dig in. Thus, the battlefield has been moved into the densely populated quarters of the capital and suburban areas with resulting heavy civilian casualties.

"The attacking units have been sacrificed. Since the beginning of May, more than 10,000 North Vietnamese soldiers and Viet Cong have been killed in the capital or in its approaches.

The first session of the talks May 13 brought a demand from Thuy for the United States to halt the rest of the bombing of North Vietnam and a counter demand from Harriman for North Vietnam to reciprocate to the limited bombing halt imposed by President Johnson on March 31. That is still the central unresolved issue.

The only basis for encouragement which Harriman and his aides have found is that Thuy, having moved his delegation into a suburban villa, appears prepared to carry on the discussions indefinitely. Neither side has made any move to break off the talks, though both have spoken of the possibility that the talks may fail.

Along with the daily bombardment of Saigon came an "official statement" from the Viet Cong, broadcast by Hanoi Radio Tuesday, predicting a general offensive.

The statement said Viet Cong offensive operations of the last four months - beginning with the Tet assault on South Vietnamese cities in February - and "the general offensive that is coming" are like the battle of Dien Bien Phu which defeated the French in 1954.

U.S. officials took this as support for their theory that North Vietnamese strategy is dominated by a "Dien Bien Phu psychology," that Hanoi's leaders are bent on a decisive victory over U.S. and South Vietnamese forces which would compel the United States to make peace on Communist terms.

Summer Reading for Children Will Begin

A summer reading program will be offered to pre-school age children starting Tuesday and continuing through Aug. 1, Librarian Lenora Norman announced.

The program will be given at the public library in cooperation with the Riverside Regional Library in Jackson.

Two one-hour reading periods each week. Reading material will be illustrated by films. They will start at 1 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Mrs. Jean Weichand, second grade teacher at Matthews elementary school, will supervise the program here and at the Benton, library at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesdays, and at the Illmo library at 10 a.m. on Wednesdays.

Mrs. Joan Gones, a high school teacher in Jackson, will conduct the program at the Jackson Riverside and Aultenburg and Perryville public libraries.

Fire Damages New Madrid Grocery Store

NEW MADRID--The Jones grocery store, 940 Mott St. suffered an estimated $10,000 loss to building and contents in an early morning fire today.

The fire, discovered at 1:30 a.m. by Millard Townsend, apparently started in a storage room in the rear of the building, and spread quickly to the main store building.

The city fire department was able to extinguish the blaze, but not until the building and contents were badly damaged.

Respect for Laws Public Burden, Long Says

A campaign breakfast for U.S. Senator Edward V. Long of Missouri was held this morning at the El Capri restaurant.

About 50 attended.

Senator Long spoke of lack of enforcement and respect for the laws. He said this contributed to the "bad times in our nation."

Long said the major burden of enforcing and respecting laws must fall on people across the nation.

Long is in Southeast Missouri today campaigning for re-election to the senate.

Less Crime in Scott County Than Many Other Regions, Sheriff Dennis Says

By WARREN SOKOLIS

BENTON -- "We have a rather clean county compared to other areas," Sheriff John Dennis said, commenting on crime.

"Prosecution is above average in Scott county, and the crime rate has been low because of vigorous prosecution," he remarked.

"Word gets out to the thugs -- even those in prison-- that it's hard to get away with anything in Scott County."

The sheriff praised Magistrate Judge M. E. Montgomery and Circuit Judge Marshall Craig for their roles in keeping down the crime rate. "They know the law," he said.

But before prosecution can begin and the case comes to trial, the crime must be investigated and the criminal apprehended. This is the duty of law enforcement officers. In a rural county like Scott, much of the law enforcement depends on the sheriff's department.

Sheriff Dennis, a silver-haired man of 50, is in his 16th year as sheriff of Scott county and is a candidate for another four-year term.

The biggest crime problem in the county involves juveniles, who are getting beer and liquor, he continued.

"They get hopped up and get in trouble," he explained.

Usually an adult buys the alcoholic beverages for the teenager, he said. The sheriff's department and the state liquor department keep liquor merchants under close surveillance to reduce teenage drinking.

One of the major factors for the increase of juvenile crime can be traced to teenagers' parents, the sheriff explained. "Parents don't know where their kids are at night or who they run around with.

"Most crimes in the county involve burglary and stealing. Crimes of violence are few; the county has no organized crime."

Sheriff Dennis relies on contacts throughout the county to solve crimes.

"It is pretty well known in a town when the kids are loafing, driving around, spending money and have no source of income," he said. "Someone will tip us off and we start checking them out."

Emphasizing the importance of cooperation of private citizens in solving crimes, the sheriff said:

"If citizens have no confidence in law enforcement officers, they (officers) might as well sit behind a desk and do nothing."

To illustrate the point, he noted that witnesses had heard a burglary in process at Scott City a few weeks ago. "They waited until the next morning to call us. If they would have called us when the thing was taking place, we might have caught the burglar in the act."

One of the major duties of the sheriff's department is providing law enforcement for towns which have no law agency of their own.

These include Vanduser, Crowder, Tanner, Salcedo, Miner, Diehlstadt, Blodgett, Morley, Perkins, Rockview, New Hamburg, Commerce and Kelso. In addition, the sheriff's department assists police departments.

This situation presents its own problems of law enforcement. The smaller towns need to have their own policemen and enforce city ordinances, Sheriff Dennis said, but they have no funds to hire their own law enforcement officers.

To raise the funds, the towns would have to increase taxes, and since many of the communities are not incorporated, they cannot levy taxes.

For example, he noted, Scott City has one part-time policeman. The town's population is about 3,000 and its business district is about one and one-half miles long. "It's more than one guy can handle," he remarked.

Last month the residents defeated a proposed tax increase to employ a full-time policeman. The vote failed, 124-80.

One problem faced by the sheriff's department is a small staff. In addition to Sheriff Dennis, the department has three full-time deputies, Mrs. Sylvester Scherer and Jack Stewart, both of Benton, and Ed Michael, Sikeston.

Mrs. Scherer serves as radio dispatcher, keeps the office records and takes care of woman prisoners.

The department is on call 24 hours a day. Most calls are received at night.

After 5 p.m. all calls go to the Dennis home, across the street from the court house. The department needs someone in the office during the night to supervise the jail and take calls. This would require hiring two more deputies.

"Most of the calls are received from 8 p.m. to 3 a.m. Someone has to go," he said.

But not all the sheriff's duties are concerned with criminal work. The statutory duties of the office include serving of all civil process -- jurors, witnesses, defendants and the like-- transportation of prisoners and mentally ill persons to institutions, attendance at courts, maintenance of the jail and caring for prisoners and acceptance of bond in traffic cases.

Sheriff Dennis said he spends about 15 to 20 days a month attending circuit court, eight to nine days a month in magistrate court and one to two days a month in probate court.

"Of course, court sessions usually don't last the whole day, but whenever a court is in session, I spend about half a day in the courtroom," he pointed out.

Another problem for his department is the jail facilities. There is no jailer at the court house where juveniles are kept, and the county jail only has a part-time jailer, who is also the courthouse custodian.

"We need a cook at the jail or a jailer to do the cooking," the sheriff said. "The jail is outdated. It was built during the early 1930s and they were short of funds when they put up the concrete building."

The jail is dangerous because when an officer goes back to the cell block, he must pass by the other cells. The sheriff and deputies have been attacked by prisoners while walking through the jail.

"I came near as I ever did to getting hurt once as I walked past a jail cell," he recalled. A prisoner had fashioned a knife from a spoon, honing it to a razor sharp edge.

As Sheriff Dennis passed, the prisoner took a swipe with his weapon. It missed the flesh but was close enough to split his shirt, the sheriff recalled.

The sheriff's department has a budget for 1968 of $47,000. These funds must cover the expense of taking care of the jail, criminal investigation, salaries, prisoners' food and criminal mileage.

In 1952 the department budget was $37,000. Since then salaries have increased, there has been more court sessions to attend and criminal and investigation mileage rates have increased.

With the need for more personnel in the department, the current budget isn't enough to meet its requirements, he said.

Sheriff Dennis was born in Patton in 1917. He was reared on a farm and was graduated from Blodgett high school. He served three years in the army during the depression. He served in the marines throughout the South Pacific during World War II.

Following his discharge from the marines in 1946, he moved to New Hamburg, where he operated a confectionary for six years and then worked at Marquette cement plant in Cape Girardeau.

While at New Hamburg he helped organize and manage a softball team. The team made two trips to state softball tournaments.

He and his wife, Myrtle, have three daughters. Mrs. Nancy Hopper, Sikeston, Mrs. Kay Davis, Cape Girardeau, and Mrs. Sharon Stuckey, Benton.

In 1952 he made his bid for election to the office of sheriff. "I had no previous experience but always was interested in police work and was encouraged by several people to run because I had been active working with kids," the sheriff recalled.

His opponent for the Democratic nomination in 1952 was Early Malcolm of Sikeston, who had been sheriff two terms. Dennis defeated him by 357 votes after a heated campaign. The new sheriff took office Jan. 1, 1953.

He has faced opposition in the primary in the three elections since then. Scott County is heavily Democratic. Victory in the primary is tantamount to election.

"One thing I'm real proud of," he remarked, "the last three times I have run for sheriff I have not lost a precinct in the county."

Sheriff John Dennis

Another thing of which he is proud is that there have been two grand jury investigations in the county since he took office, and "there has been no criticism about the lack of law enforcement in the county."

His 16-year tenure makes him the senior sheriff in counties in the immediate area and one of the ranking sheriffs in the state. He has been president of the Missouri Sheriff's association and the Missouri Peace Officers association.

Reminiscing about cases he has investigated Sheriff Dennis recalled "the most difficult I had

June is the month for brides. But what about the lady who was a bride last June, or many Junes ago?

For that lady, a present is in order. Perhaps just from her husband, perhaps from her children, and perhaps -- particularly on a 10th, 25th, or 50th anniversary -- from all her friends and relations.

We all know that silver is proper for a 25th wedding anniversary and gold for a 50th anniversary. But what of other years?

There are several lists and they difer on a few particulars. Here is a list, which has been expanded to include new products on the market.

First anniversary: Paper, plastics.

Second: Cotton.

Third: Leather, or any leatherlike article.

Fourth: Linen, silk, rayon, nylon, or other synthetic silks.

Fifth: Wood and decorative accessories for the home.

Sixth: Iron.

Seventh: Wool cooper or brass.

Eighth: Bronze, or electrical appliances.

Ninth: Pottery, china, glass, or crystal.

Tenth: Tin, or aluminum.

Eleventh: Steel.

Twelfth: Linen, silk, or nylon.

Thirteenth: Lace.

Fourteenth: Ivory, or agate.

Fifteenth: Crystal or glass.

Twentieth: China, or occasional furniture.

Twenty-fifth: Silver

Thirtieth: Pearls, or personal gifts.

Thirty-fifth: Coral or jade.

Fortieth: Rubies, or garnets.

Forty-fifth: Sapphires, or tourmalines.

Fiftieth: Gold.

Fifty-fifth: Emeralds, or turquoise.

Sixtieth: Diamonds, or gold.

Seventy-fifth: Diamonds or gold.

Therefore a large part of the price of food is not for the product itself but for costs involved in getting food from farm to table more rapidly, making foods available all seasons of the year, providing built-in conveniences (TV dinners, etc.), expanding parking facilities at the retail store, and other factors which make possible quicker shopping, less time in the kitchen and a variety of selection which is the envy of the world."

THE QUEEN AT 42

The United Kingdom observes the birthday of Queen Elizabeth III on Saturday, June 8. This is the official b, the Queen was 42 years old on her real natal day of April 21.

Any Commonwealth nation may celebrate the Queen's birthday when it pleases or when it's most convenient The British embassy in Washington is holding its birthday party on June 6. By a proclamation issued 11 years ago, Canada combines the Queen's birthday with Empire Day or Victoria Day, and this is designated as the last Monday before May 25.

Features of the anniversary in the U. K. are the Trooping of the Color and the Queen's garden reception, functions which would not go well with a chilly, rainy April. The Queen also chooses the occasion to announce her honors list. This is a semi-annual event, the other announcement being made traditionally on New Year's Day. Twice a year the British aristocracy gets a transfusion of middle-class blood.

In the remainder of Europe's kingdoms titles are transmitted only by birth, marriage, or adoption. In Britain tha aristocracy remains open. Queen Elizabeth on June 17 will invest her son, Prince Charles, as a Knight in the Order of the Garter, one of the Kingdom's highest honors. Charles will not be invested as Prince of Wales however, until June 1, 1969.

TRUE'S PICTURES AREN'T TRUE

Newspaper advertisements showing U.S. senatorial candidate True Davis with all kinds of important persons have been appearing in Southeast Missouri weeklies and dailies in recent weeks. Showing the St. Joseph candidate with such persons as President Kennedy and Governor Hearnes, the advertisements have prompted a question by some observers: Doesn't True Davis know anyone but Presidents and Governors?

Of course he does, and the truth is, the newspaper advertisements of Candidate Davis and the important political figures prove that he does. He knows an awfully good photo cropper.

For example, the one showing Davis with Governor Hearnes is actually an "adaptation"of one that originally showed Davis, Gov. Hearnes, U.S. Rep. Bill Hull state Sen. and Mrs. John E. Downs of St. Joseph and Sen. Downs' mother, all attending a Down's testimonial dinner in St. Joseph.

In the altered picture, now appearing in advertisements throughout Missouri the Downs family has been cropped from the scene and Rep. Hull has been moved in closer to Gov. Hearnes and candidate Davis.

Which, when you get down to it hardly ties in with Davis' election theme: "For your family's sake, your next Senator should be True."

Perhaps there's nothing wrong with using altered photographs in a campaign, although there is a certain legal question involved, since original photographs are altered and since persons pictured with Davis imply a kind of political support that is not necessarily accurate.

If the trend continues, candidates can "appear" with all kinds of world figures, and we eagerly anticipate the day when some candidate goes all the way and secures an audience with the Diety.

NOISE AND HEALTH

Big-city air is doubly polluted -- by fumes and dirt and by noise. The latter kind of pollution will be the subject of a two-day National Conference on Noise as a Public Health Hazard, opening in Washington on Thursday, June 13. As the name of the conference suggests noise can be injurious as well as merely annoying.

Exposure to certain kinds of noise is said to produce hearing loss, damage to the nervous system, and interference with the depth of sleep. But some individuals are better able to tolerate noise than others perhaps because of differences in experience or temperament. It has been observed that complaints about noise come disproportionately from neurotic people.

Obviously the louder a sound the more likely it is to produce annoyance. Most studies agree that a high-pitched noise is more annoying than an equally loud low-pitched noise. A third feature of noises which is often found to be related to their capacity to annoy is the degree of variability in the noise itself A sound which is modulated in intensity is much more annoying than a steady sound;

Noise can be controlled if not eliminated. Making rooms "quieter" by making them "noisier" is one of the favorite devices used by acoustical planners in an effort to get maximum noise control at minimum cost. The background noise itself must be bland and continuous so that it will be scarcely noticed. Central air conditioning systems provide such a background and at the same time keep windows closed against intrusion of distracting street noises.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

If you have to trust someone, you'll generally do better by putting your faith in a fat man. Fat people are more likely to be honest than skinny people simply because it usually takes too much energy to be crooked.

The more sophisticated the conversation at a Manhattan cocktail party, the less likely it is that half the guests present can give the right answer to a practical question, such as. "How many faucets are there on a milk cow?"

A fellow wouldn't mind the high cost of sending a son through college if it would just send him back home a good quarterback.

A man is still boss in the family if, when they go shopping together in the supermarket, he walks in front of the shopping cart and she pushes it.

The trouble with many rebellions today is that they seem designed to stir echoes rather than achieve goals. Even those who join in them often can't explain clearly what they are for.

Nine out of ten lads and lassies who are wearing the new popular tight-collar Nehru jackets can't spell Nehru's first name without looking it up. But you and I knew all the time it was Jawaharlal—or something like that—didn't we?

Fishing has always seemed to me one of the dullest of all ways for a man to kill time, but it does have one good result: Few of its devotees end up in either police courts or divorce courts.

What makes the outrageous opinions of today's teen-age children even more irritating to parents is the way the kids pop their gum while expressing them.

A hypocrite is a guy who takes a pair of binoculars to a beach strewn with bikini-clad girls and pretends he likes to stare through the glasses at all the sailboats standing out to sea.

Liquor never reveals a man's true character more surely than inheriting money does. So the sternest of all tests of a man's principles must be whether he can inherit a profitable distillery and remain the same sweet guy his friends thought him to be before.

One way to tell a man's age is to toss a penny on the sidewalk in front of him. If he glances at it, then walks on, he's under 35. If he bends down and picks it up, he's between 36 and 49. If he starts to bend down but halts because his back hurts him, he's over 50.

Just when we decide the world has gone altogether to the devil, we see, now and then, an old lady placidly at work in her rose garden, and decide there is some hope for mankind yet.

TWO MEN WALKED up to a health bar and ordered carrot cocktails. Immediately after they were served, one of the men threw down two bottles caps in payment.

"What goes here," said the store owner. "You trying to be funny?"

At that the second man winked at the proprietor and motioned him to step down to the end of the bar. As the two walked away out of earshot of the first, the man siad, "That's my kuncle. After the two men had been there for about an hour the store owner said to the second man, "Well, it's closing time now, time to settle up."

"Okay," said the man, "how many bottle caps do you have?"

"Twenty-six."

"That's right," the man said, "Now do you have change for a manhole cover?"

ON HOODLUM BRUTALITY

The other day we came upon a simple statistic out of Newark, N. J., which made us wonder why there wasn't a riot there last year, with the Newark Police Department doing the rioting. The men in blue certainly had cause.

During 1966, a total of 187 policemen in Newark were victims of hoodlum brutality. That's approximately 14 per cent of the uniformed force. They were victims of "police brutality" in reverse, with hoods and punks providing the brutality. But since it's the police who get beaten and maimed, no one becomes indignant. No groups are organized to march on city hall or stage sitdowns at the state capitol. No one screams for federal fund to improve the lot of the poor persecuted man on the beat, build him a new house or train him for a less hazardous job. No politician even goes through the motions of appointing a commission to study the matter for a year or so, till after the next election.

So the policeman's lot continues to be an unhappy one, with all signs indicating that things are likely to get a lot worse. Not only is the policeman at the mercy of the hoodlums in a community; he is made a patsy by politicians who have no qualms whatever about jeopardizing the lives and property of decent people.

Some of the reports coming out of cities ripped apart by criminal mobs are almost incredible. We learn that police and law enforcement officers were ordered to stand by while hoodlums burned and looted. The reason? Action against this rabble might have "antagonized" them! In many cases the use of weapons was restricted to a point where they ere little more than ornaments. Troops which might have quelled riots in their crucial early stages were kept inactive; guardsmen were told that if they happened to shoot anyone they would be held personally responsible and would have to face civil trial and a court martial. Police were subjected to harrassment-by-law, as so-called "civil rights lawyers" filed suits against them for fantastic amounts.

Who wants to be a policeman in such an atmosphere? Would you?

One of these days the politicos responsible for this are going to wake up and find their communities-and themselves-without any protection whatsoever. Maybe by that time they will realize what they have done.

But it will take some recruiting drive to mobilize a police force on that day.

HOW ABOUT OUR WELFARE KIDS?

What's happening to the "second generation" of welfare recipients?

Are "welfare children" growing up to be "welfare adults"?

Not in Mecklenburg County, North Carolina.

(Mecklenburg's county seat is Charlotte, the state's biggest city with its population of more than 200,000. The area is heavily industrialized.)

The Mecklenburg County Welfare Department has completed a study of 100 families receiveing Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) in January, 1955.

What has happened to the 456 children in those families?

Only 1.9 per cent of those children who are now adults are on public relief as "second generation" welfare dependents.

44 per cent have graduated from high school, and 17 per cent of these have gone on to college.

Half of those who have reached maturity are married and living with their spouses.

71 per cent are now able-bodied adults in the labor market, and only 10 per cent are unemployed.

7 per cent are professional workers (mostly teachers or nurses).

9.7 per cent are clerical workers.

1.9 per cent are officials, managers or proprietors of businesses.

This record is all the more encouraging in view of the family backgrounds of the children.

33 of the families were on welfare because the father had deserted the family.

25 families involved unwed mothers.

19 had disabled fathers.

16 had deceased fathers.

7 had fathers in jail.

Perhaps Mecklenburg County isn't a typical case and doesn't accurately reflect the national welfare picture.

But it does indicate that in our county, at least, it has paid to treat human beings as human beings and to have had faith that welfare children will grow up to prefer independence and responsibility to living on the dole.

UNREST IN CUBA

The people enslaved by Fidel Castro's communist regime in Cuba have begun to display their hostility to that regime more openly. Reports indicate that unrest is high and Castro has sponded by becoming more repressive.

In a March 13 speech, Castro revealed that the Central Committee of the communist party had conducted an investigation of the attitudes of the people. He said that more than 77% of the people of Havana Province were found to be "counter-revolutionaries."

The next day, Castro announced that he had closed 7,407 businesses including 955 bars, banned the Cubans' favorite sport, cockfighting, and reduced the rice ration for many families from twelve to three pounds a month.

The closing of bars and the ban on cockfighting was an attempt to reduce criticism of the government. Since Cubans cannot have social gatherings in their homes without a government permit, they had been meeting in the bars and at sporting events to give vent to their anti- Castro sentiments. Castro apparently believes that if the people are not able to discuss their discontent, they will not have any.

Castro has increased pro-government propaganda. Every day, the radio stations cry: "Down with the pessimists! Report all counter-revolutionaries!" Castro militants have been ordered to "shut the mouths of those who talk against the revolution in buses, ration lines and places of work."

Communism's miserable failure in Cuba is becoming more obvious every day to the Cuban people. Castro's increasing oppression has failed to still the love of freedom in the hearts of many Cubans. HLH

ACCOMPLICES IN CRIME

Public Condones Mass Murders, Corruption Among Highest National Officials

NEW YORK — All right let's talk about violence. Let's talk about murder. Let's talk about those million people among whom I walked outside the Cathedral.

Some were sobbing. Some were stolid. All were bitter, angry, though they've lived amid violence, murder, mass killings, torture all their lives—as have their fellow citizens in a hundred cities.

Let's not just talk of a lone assassin. Let's talk of the organized, methodical killing the people tolerate and raise not a protesting voice unless the blood splatters on them.

In Chicago, alone, the anticrime commission has tallied more than a thousand underworld killings in recent decades.

In Boston during the past several years, more than 40 men have been shot down with bullets in the gut or back of the neck. Hundreds have been executed by the Cosa Nostra's enforcers in New York City.

Hundreds more have been gunned down in Kansas City, St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Northern New Jersey. Scores have been bombed to bits in Youngstown, Ohio, Detroit, and any other metropolis you can stick with a pin on a schoolroom map.

Even to this day, there are shoot-outs on big city streets. We've lived with it for decades on the labor front.

Just 20 years ago, auto union leader Walter Reuther was almost cut in half in his kitchen by a shotgun blast. A year later his brother Victor was hit in the face by another gun blast.

The next year, the Detroit police told another of this union's officials he was on the Mafia's death list, and to this day he is under bodyguard. There is no such thing as yesterday's security. It always is now.

Some Mafia millionaires have their own police force, air fleet, radio stations and mini-armies.

Those who weep today for a fallen man, yawned yesterday when they read of other killings and corruption which corrde the nation, develop a permissiveness and a cynicism which move good folk to skip right past the crime news to the sports pages.

There are some great police forces—and some which stink. There is the force in one Mississippi city which refused to permit the police of a Northern city to investigate a powerful Mafia chief. The visiting probers had to go to the U.S. armed forces to get equipment for the search.

There are mayors who have been bought and sold by mobs. Bob Kennedy chuckled once as he told this writer of a mob which, when it needed sudden money, sold a half interest in a mayor to another syndicate.

There is a mayor in one Midwest city who, to the knowledge of federal authorities took $1,000 a day in cash from the mob—but this was a local violation and neither the FBI nor the IRS could do anything about it.

There have been Congressmen who have sat with Cosa Nostra "torpedoes." There was a governor who met regularly each week in a Pennsylvania hotel dining room with the local Mafia don. There are governors who have unwittingly conferred with Mafia front men. And judges too. And some, not so unwittingly.

Thus, a second government has developed. It is so arrogant that I have heard some of its people say they can reach into the Supreme Court. I doubt it. But they say it.

Those people who sob today, cry for a man with whom I've disagreed quite often. But on one front we were united.

Bob Kennedy knew the menace of the Mafia. We talked often of the Cosa Nostra's conditioning the citizenry to the all-pervading underworld which was shaken down the Army's quartermaster division, the Navy, the Air Force, and even Atomic Energy Commission's prime contractors.

He was amazed when there was little shuddering or public anger when he reported that the Mafia had disposed of one of its people by cutting the goon up into little bits in Connecticut.

Those Mafia men become legendary untouchables. Television and movie cameras, which recorded Bob Kennedy's last hours from the bullet to the grave, also give the public its kicks by romanticizing killers, bank robbers, sadists, racketeers and public men whom we all know as comrades of comrades of the Cosa Nostra.

Two years ago the Mafia's national commissione met in a Queens, N.Y., restaurant. They were pulled in by an overambitious district attorney before they could be fully wired for sound.

The Mafia's high command had just about finished its biscuit tortoni when the cops came. The public loved it. The New York Times dispatched its food critic to the eatery. And now you just can't get a table in the joint unless you know somebody.

So we load the guns against us. This country defies violence and then is startled when a national leader gets cut down.

And that new philosophical star, longshoreman Eric Hoffer, member of the President's new violence inquiry commission, says tafter the assassination: "Basically we are the most gentle, generous, law-abiding and cooperative people on earth . . . We are not violent."

This longshoreman philosopher, who seems to have made such an impression on President Johnson these days, ought to stop character acting and go back to dock walloping. He's the opiate of the people.

What this country needs is a shot in the arm, a kick in the conscience, and a jolt into reality.

Otherwise there will be many more mass funerals.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Profits zoom from crime on television; TV serves as babysitter for working mothers; LBJ has new FCC commissioner to appoint.

WASHINGTON -- Most people have forgotten it, but former Sen. Clarence Dill of Washington is the chief author of the 1934 communications act regulating the thousands of TV and radio programs which the American public hears and sees daily.

"When we wrote the act," said Sen. Dill recently, "Senator White of Maine and I considered whether we should put a ceiling on profits. After all, the act provided for the use of air channels belong to the public and the public had a right to be paid for them out of profits.

"However, we decided there wouldn't be any profits. That's why there is no requirement in the law for any rental or benefit to the public. "If we had it to do over again, the law would have been different," said former Sen. Dill, now retired and living in Spokane.

His words are significant in view of the stinging report issued by two members of the fFederal Communications Commission, Kenneth Cox and Nicholas Johnson, pointing to the profits of the TV- Radio industry.

CRIME ON TV

Coupled with their report comes the tragic death of Sen. Robert Kennedy and the reaction of at least one member of the President's newly appointed commission on violence, former Ambassador Patricia Harris, who says that when life is so cheap on television it becomes cheap also in reality.

Since 1960, the nation's population has grown by 10 per cent. But since 1960, the nation's crime rate has gone up 88 per cent.

Significantly, the rate of crime more nearly matches the growth of the TV industry than it does the growth of the nation. Further more, the rate of crime is highest among the youth who have grown up glued to the TV sets.

American industry appropriates billions each year for the TV commercials which sell its products, and tells its stockholders the money spent is a good investment. But if the TV commercial sells its product then the TV program must also sell its no. 1 product -- crime. You can't sell one without selling the other. When a child sees men shot, week in and week out, he comes to believe that shooting a man is as easy and as common as washing one's hair with a glamor rinse.

Forty per cent of the working force today is women -- many of them mothers -- and with around 30 million mothers working, the TV set has become the baby sitter at home. This may be worse than no mother at all.

With crimes of violence deluging the networks daily, it's time we asked whether TV murder brought into our homes is not the cause of actual murder in our streets.

The commission on violence should ask -- if three minutes on TV will sell millions of tubes of toothpaste, how much crime in the street will 27 minutes of TV crime sell?

It is a miracle of distribution that TV can reach tens of millions of people at the same time. It is a miracle of distribution that a water system can distribute fresh water to every home in a city.

Today we select the products we use and the people to govern us by means of TV. We are also showing young minds -- too young to select -- a selection of crimes.

TV BONANZA PROFITS

The FCC survey by commissioners Cox and Johnson did not deal specifically with TV crime but rather with the huge profits derived from this kind of programming and the manner in which the FCC renews licenses almost automatically.

"The television industry averages about 100 per cent return on depreciated tangible investment and about 40 per cent on gross revenues," the two commissioners reported.

They found that only one of ten stations in Oklahoma with around $16,000,000 a year gross devotes as much as two hours a week to local public affairs programs.

"There is not in the entire state (of Oklahoma) a single regularly scheduled crime time program devoted to presentation, analysis, or discussion of controversial issues of public importance in the state or in the community," reported commissioners Cox and Johnson.

Yet the FCC renewed their licenses automatically.

Cox and Johnson could have gone further if they had scrutinized the national TV-radio scene. If so, they would have discovered that network profits were among the highest in the nation, chiefly from rearing children on crime programs. For the first half of 1967 the three networks racked up a total profit of $718,700,000.

CBS has made so much money in recent years that it has difficulty investing its profits and has branched out into baseball, theatrics, educational book publishing and even guitar manufacturing. Among other things, it owns the New York Yankees and "My Fair Lady."

All this presents a problem for President Johnson. He has an FCC commissioner to appoint this month. The FCC has been criticized in the past for enhancing Ladybird's stations in Texas. So the country will be watching to see whether LBJ appoints a forthright commissioner who watches the public interest or another patsy who promotes private profits through violence, sex and crime.

Ules Pressons Married Fifty Years

EAST PRAIRIE -- Mr. and Mrs. Ules Presson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary June 2, at a reception given in their honor at their home on South Center Street by their children. Guests called from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Presson were married on May 29, 1918 in the home of Mrs. Presson's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George LaPlant at Barnes Ridge. Their attendants were Mrs. Verlon Braden and Herbert Poe. Mrs. Braden, who now lives in Flint, Michigan, was unable to attend the reception because of ill health. Poe is deceased.

Mrs. Presson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Tanner. Presson now retired, has been a businessman in East Prairie for many years, having owned and operated the Presson Motor Co., with his son, L. B., prior to his retirement.

Mr. and Mrs. Presson are the parents of three children, Mrs. Scott Mainord; Mrs. Howard Schneider and L. B. Presson, all living in the vicinity of East Prairie. They have seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The home was decorated in a white and gold decor. Floral gifts from their friends and relatives were in abundance throughout the home.

The reception table, covered with white organdy, was centered with a five branch gold candelabra surrounded by white chrysanthemums and white roses. A cut glass punch bowl and a silver coffee serve graced either end of the table. Petite fours, nuts, mints and golden punch were served by the couple's granddaughters, Miss Cherie Schneider and Mrs. Robert Botkin. Miss Martha Sue Mainord, another granddaughter, presided at the guest book.

Relatives and friends of the Pressons from Belleville, Ill. Memphis, Tenn., Johnson City, Tenn., New Madrid, Sikeston, Charleston and East Prairie called throughout the afternoon.

Following the reception, a buffet supper was served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Presson for members of the family and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hawkins and daughter from Memphis, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford LaPlant of Sikeston and Mr. and Mrs. James Scott.

Marriage of Candace Catherine Reed, Robert Pell Gillespie Solemnized

COLUMBIA -- In the presence of their families and close friends, the marriage of Candace Catherine Reed and Robert Pell Gillespie was solemnized by the Rev. Maurie C. Kaser at 11 a.m. June 4 in A. P. Green Memorial Chapel.

Miss Reed is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Reed, Higbee, Gillespie is the son of Mrs. Jane B. Gillespie, Sikeston, and William L. Gillespie, Cairo, Ill. June 4 is the wedding anniversary of the groom's parents and also his maternal grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Bartmess.

One large, fan-shaped arrangement of white snapdragons and small white chrysanthemums was centered behind the opened Bible and tall cathedral candles. Seven-branched candelabra on each side of the chancel were lighted by Bradford J. Reed, brother of the bride. Family pews were marked with white satin ribbon and clusters of white snapdragons and chrysanthemums.

Mrs. E. B. Poage, organist of Sikeston, played appropriate wedding music preceding the ceremony, and accompanied Mrs. M. L. Canedy, soloist, of Sikeston, as she sang "I Love Thee," preceding the entrance of the groom's mother, "At Dawning," preceding the entrance of the bride's mother, and "The Wedding Prayer during the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, wore a white dotted Swiss wedding gown of her own design and creation. The controlled skirt consisted of five square neckline accented at the center by a lace modesty piece, and long fitted sleeves with lace at the wrists falling over her hands. Her finger-tip length veil of imported illusion, and her modesty veil, were secured by an open crown of pearls and crystals. She wore a single strand of graduated cultured pearls and dainty matching earrings, a gift from the groom. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis. Her blue garter was handmade by the groom's late maternal grandmother, and she borrowed the British sixpence she wore in her shoe.

Attending their older sister were Miss Roxanne Reed, maid of honor, and Miss Penny Reed, bridesmaid. Their identical dresses were of dotted swiss. The floor-length A-line skirts were accented at the Empire waistlines by matching velvet ribbon. A broad band of lace was inset at the top of the deep hem and the three-fourths length bell sleeves featured matching bands of the lace inset. Their stiffened lace tiaras were held in place by circlets of velvet and secured their short veils. The maid of honor, wearing pale yellow, carried a bouquet of light blue daisies with long blue velvet streamers. The bridesmaid wore light blue and carried a similar bouquet of yellow daisies with long yellow velvet streamers.

The groom wore a sprig of the flowers from his bride's bouquet on his lapel. He chose as best man his only brother, Air Force Lt. William B. Gillespie, Fairborn, Ohio. Bradford J. Reed, brother of the bride, served as groomsman and Michael Wertz, of Columbia, served as usher. The groom's attendants' boutonnieres were white rosebuds.

Mrs. Reed wore a jacket dress of pale gray, shadow-etched in red. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of Garnet roses. In her arms she carried the youngest member of the family, five-month old Stacy Ann.

Mrs. Jane B. Gillespie was escorted to her appointed place by her older son, Lt. William B. Gillespie. She wore a coin dotted white sheath, topped by a fll length Navy blue organza coat, and a matching pillbox hat of organza petals. A large fresh American Beauty cabbage rose was pinned to her small velvet clutch purse.

Immediately following the ceremony, the wedding couple greeted their families and friends at The Hathman House, where Miss Gay Forsee, was in charge of the guest book. Arrangements of blue and yellow daisies centered the three long tables. The bride placed her bouquet on the bride's table beside the three-tiered wedding cake. The bouquets of her attendants were placed at either end of the wedding couple's table. Following a Polynesian luncheon, the bride and groom cut their wedding cake, which was then served to the guests, as were the groom's cake bon bons.

As the bride ascended the spiral staircase to change into her traveling costume, she tossed her wedding bouquet, which was caught by Susan Johnmeyer. The groom tossed his bride's blue garter over his shoulder, and it was caught by his brother, Lt. Gillespie.

For traveling, the new Mrs. Gillespie wore a sleeveless sheath of light blue ottoman, also of her own creation, as was her matching small hat. She wore a gardenia encircled with stephanotis pinned at her shoulder.

Later in the evening, after their arrival in Sikeston, a number of their friends surprised the newlyweds at an old-fashioned charivari, which lasted well into the early morning hours.

Upon returning from their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie will be at home for the summer in Sikeston, where both are employed. In September they will return to Columbia, where they are students at the university.

Mrs. Gillespie, a graduate of the Fayette high school, will be a senior in the school of nursing at the University of Missouri. Gillespie, a graduate and post-graduate of Columbia Military Academy, Columbia, Tenn., received his bachelor of science degree from Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau. He was awarded the master of science degree in animal husbandry at the University of Missouri, where he is working toward a doctorate in that field.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. E. O. DeField, and Miss Ina Pemberton, all of Sikeston, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Bartmess, Kennett; Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Gillespie, Lexington, Ky.; Wm. L. Gillespie, Cairo, Ill. Mrs. Robert W. Sauer, Mrs. N. W. Pemberton, and Mrs. Geo. B. Munroe, all of St. Louis, and Mrs. M. P. Clark, Plant City, Fla.

REHEARSAL DINNER

June 3, following the rehearsal, Mrs. Jane B. Gillespie and her son, Lt. William B. Gillespie, entertained the members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests at dinner at The Hathman House. Two long tables were decorated with arrangements of blue and yellow daisies. Gillespie, as toastmaster, recounted amusing anecdotes in the lives of the honored couple and offered the first toast.

The annual tryout camp of the Minnesota Twins baseball club will be held at Blanchett Park in St. Charles Monday through Wednesday.

Bill Messmann of Chesterfield, midwest Scouting supervisor, will be in charge. Workouts begin each day at 9:30 a.m.

All players should bring uniform, glove and shoes.

S. H. Sparks of Morehouse won both first class in the 13-inch and the 15-inch at the Central American championship dog trials at Cape Girardeau. A record for the Southeast Missouri Beagle Club.

The Dogs name were Cossett's Pinkey and Whayne's Dan.

Do Rite's Old Bonus took third in the 13 inch class, Jack Tisher of New Madrid is owner. Do Rite's Old Hatchet, another dog owned by Tisher placed fourth in the 15 inch class.

Fishing is reported excellent at all of the area private fishing lakes, with channel cat hitting good and a number of catches of bass reported.

Twenty players were named to the NCAA college division All-America teams by the American Association of College Baseball Coaches.

Tom Stabile of Slippery Rock had the top batting average of .478 and each of the 16 regulars hit at least .314 during the regular season.

The two first-team pitchers Charles Cappello of Long Island University, and Don Richards Chapman, Calif., met in the first game of the college division tournament Wednesday. But both succumbed to the heat and humidity and were not involved in the final decision.

The first team:

PITCHERS - Don Richards, Chapman, 12-4; Charles Cappello, Long Island University, 9-0.

Catcher - Brian Hansen, Buffalo University .477.

First base - Pat Cluney, Trinity University, Tex. .371.

Second base - Tom Heintzelman, Parsons Iowa .437.

Shortstop - Vic Ambrose, Albuquerque University .420.

Third base - Reggie Treadway, Sul Ross State, Tex. .373.

Outfield - Tony Delbane, Youngstown, Ohio, State, .436; Wayne Pitcock, Arkansas State, .314; Jim Whitehurst, Delta State, Miss., .341.

Second team:

Pitchers - Jeff Pryor, Florida Southern, 10-2; Dennis Jones, Southern Colorado, 8-1.

Catcher - Bob Bonacci Albion, Mich. .451.

First base - John Lawing, Belmonte Abbey, N.C., .356.

Second base - John Davide, Buffalo State .473.

Shortstop-John Lowestein, University of California - Riverside .393.

Third base - Gus Bell Jacksonville, Fla. .347.

Outfield - Jim Milas, Coast Guard Academy .368; Alex Rowell, Luther, Iowa .348; Tom Stabile, Slippery Rock .478.

Area fans will continue to . . . see good baseball played at VFW stadium.

But . . . one can't help but think what a game could be staged on the VFW diamond if the 1968 edition of the Sikeston Connie Mack team . . . would meet a Connie Mack team composed of former area Connie Mackers.

One might see Dick Bethune on the mound or Mike Zaricor. Rudy Manley, Richard Montgomery, Ken Davis or George Hale in the lineup. Others who could possibly be in the All-Star lineup . . . are Mike Sherry at catcher, Bill Reid, John Heacox in the infield along with Tim Garner, Sonny Jones. Ronnie Plummer and Don Metz.

The 1967 edition of the Potlatch Connie Mack team is favored to win the Black River conference and I personally think such a game could benefit the '68 Potlatchers and the area fans . . . WHAT A GAME . . .

AP - Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert did not leave it up to the individaul clubs whether to play their weekend games and did not consult with the owners before making his decision, a spokesman said Monday night.

Joseph L. Reichler, director of public relations for the commissioner's office, said Eckert ordered that all weekend games be played but that no Saturday contests start until after the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, which originally was scheduled for 5:30 p.m., EDT, but de layed more than five hours.

The commissioner consented to postponements in Washington, New York and San Francisco on Saturday and in Boston and Baltimore on Sunday at the request of those teams, Reichler said. Any other home team that wanted to call off a game also would have needed such consent, he added.

Gibson Ends Personal Jinx

ATLANTA (AP) — St. Louis hurler Bob Gibson, who beat the Atlanta Braves Tuesday night for the first time in two years, calls the five-hit victory "the best I've pitched all year."

Gibson raised his record to 6-5 with his 6-0 rout of the Braves.

"I felt really loose," the hero of last year's World Series said. "The fast ball was my best pitch, but the curve ball was very good. I was getting the curve over."

Gibson struck out four, walked two, hit one and allowed only one Atlanta runner past first base.

"Gibson looked great," rejoiced Cardinals Manager Red Schoendienst. "It was the best he's pitched. He was throwing with a nice and easy motion, no strain. I think he's over the little arm trouble he's had."

It was Gibson's second consecutive shutout and the end of a personal jinx against Atlanta.

Braves Manager Luman Harris said he wasn't particularly discouraged about the loss.

"We're still playing well" he said. "I'm not going to get disturbed about this.

"You can't get five runs down," he added. "It takes the game out of the manager's hands. I can't hit and run. I have to just sit there and watch it."

Five of St. Louis' runs came in the first three innings, to knock out Braves pitcher Dick Kelley, 2-4.

Lou Brock opened the game with a walk and scored on Julian Javier's double. Javier scored on outfielder Mike Lum's wild throw home.

With two out in the third, Curt Flood singled, Orlando Cepeda and Mike Shannon walked and Tim McCarver singled in two runs. Shannon scored when McCarver's hit got by Lum. Flood's double and Shannon's single completed the scoring in the eighth.

All Atlanta's hits were singles, most of them widely spaced.

It was the Cardinals' 13th win in 15 games and their 10th straight over Atlanta.

The two teams meet again tonight. St. Louis will send Nelson Briles, 7-4, against the Braves' Pat Jarvis, 5-4. s

All local golfers planning to enter the tournament are asked to play their first 18 holes on Friday in order to leave the course open for visiting golfers on Saturday.

SIU Holds On

OMAHA, Neb. AP - A pair of old pro coaches in college baseball, Rod Dedeaux of Southern California and Chet Bryan of Oklahoma State, are headed for an early showdown in the College World Series tonight.

Both opened with first-round victories Tuesday night. USC needed only two hits to defeat Brigham Young 5-3 behind Bill Lee, while OSU sprayed 17 hits and got a no-hit, no-run relief job the last eight innings from Bob Richardson in an 8-5 victory over Texas.

Dedeaux is after his fourth NCAA baseball title and USC's fifth.

"USC won its in 1948 and 1958, so maybe 1968 is our year," he said.

This is Bryan's third straight trip to Omaha and he has the best hitting club of the three. The 1966 team was runner-up to Ohio State.

"We don't have a stopper, but this club has a good attitude," Bryan said. "These boys listen and respond when I tell them something."

St. John's of New York, 24-8, and North Carolina State, 24-7, both first-round winners, will play at 5:30 p.m., CDT, followed by Southern Cal., 46-14, and OSU, 21-7, at 8. In the loser's bracket at 2, Texas meets BYU. Southern Illinois, given a reprieve when Harvard dropped a game-ending pop fly, eliminated Harvard 2-1 on Jerry Bond's leadoff home run in the 11th inning Tuesday. The victory moved SIU, ranked No. 2 in the final national coaches' poll, into Thursday' third round.

St. John's will start right-hannder Rich Napolitano, 7-2 with a 0.97 earned run average on a staff with a fantastic 1.01 season ERA. NC State will start Joe Frye, 8-2, a freshman right- hander with a .379 batting average and the club leader with four home runs in just 29 trips.

USC will start right-hander Jim Southworth, 2-1 and 2.84, while Bryan will choose between a pair of right-handers, Mike Camp 1.76 and Bill Maxwell 2.11.

BYU will send right-hander Brad Meyring, 5-3 and 2.59, against Texas right-hander Larry Hardy, 4-2 and 2.48.

Wayne Weatherly's three-run homer started the OSU comeback from a 5-0 deficit and inept fielding by Texas helped in a four-run fourth which knocked out Jim Street.

BYU's Ken Crosby seemed to have a hex on USC until his own wildness and BYU errors proved his undoing in a four-run seventh. Larry Romney, the NCAA home run, hit No. 13 in the eighth with a man on.

Foresters Record 7th

A home run by Charlie Dye and the three hit pitching of Rick Wilson enabled the Sikeston Potlatch Forest Connie Mack baseball team to post its seventh win of the season against one loss yesterday as it shut out Jackson.

Potlatch swept a twin bill Saturday from Blytheville Legion, 2-1 and 19-1.

Wilson, a new resident to Sikeston from Iowa, struck out 15 in his debut for the Foresters.

Dye was the big hitter for the Foresters, collecting two hits in four trips to the plate.

Coach N.P. McDaniel's squad faces Dexter in SEMO Connie Mack league play at VFW park tonight with Tim Halter slated for mound duty. The Foresters are at home Thursday, entertaining Poplar Bluff.

Oran H.S. Opens Summer League Play With Win

Scott Anderson pitched and hit Oran past Delta in the opening game of the high school summer baseball league last night, hurling a two-hitter and blanking the Bobcats, 5-0.

Anderson whacked a double, triple and home run as the Eagles opened defense of their title.

VOTE FOR

EDWARD V. LONG

FOR U. S. SENATOR

WHAT HAVE HIS OPPONENTS PROMISED THEY WILL DO FOR AGRI-BUSINESS AND AGRICULTURE.

HERE IS PART OF LONG'S RECORD SINCE HE HAS BEEN IN THE SENATE.

Sponsored legislation to establish Medicare back in the 87th Congress.

Senator Long, a farmer himself, helped pass the Food and Agricultural Act of 1965 which extended Federal Farm programs through 1969.
Sponsored legislation to enable Farmers Home Administration to provide disaster relief for losses suffered by farmers on their homes and buildings.
Sponsored legislation to increase loans for rural electric and rural telephone service.
Strong supporter of School Lunch and School Milk programs.
Supported Fair Packaging and Labeling Act.
Supporter of legislation to assist our local law enforcement agencies to obtain modern equipment and developing effective techniques in training personnel.
In the 87th Congress he supported a measure establishing a matching grant program for re-education, training and recruitment of State and local police forces.
Senator Long is currently a sponsor of two bills providing Federal assistance for education and equipment for law enforcement officers.
He has helped many Missouri counties, towns, and communities with water, sewer highway, housing and other development projects.
Senator Long has testified before Senate committees on numerous occasions in support of flood control projects in Missouri.
Senator Long was a sponsor of the GI Benefits act of 1966.
Supported legislation to increase Social Security benefits.
Senator Long has always fought and voted against proposals which would hurt Missouri's cotton, dairy, grain and livestock farmers. He is today strongly opposed to those who call for an end to all farm programs. This is a small part of the legislation he has sponsored and fought for in our behalf.
Senator Long has always been a Missouri Senator for Missourians. He has the seniority that it takes to be heard in the Senate.
We are losing Congressman Paul Jones, who has always been a friend to Agriculture.
Most Senators and Congressmen are non rural and non rural minded.
Our Local people have been to Washington, on many occasions, on Flood Control and Farm Legislation, and have always found Senator Long on our side and ready to put his shoulder to the wheel.
Think about our losing rural Senators all over the United States and picture what it will do to agriculture and agri-business.
Vote for the man we have tried and has proven himself

VOTE FOR EDWARD V. LONG, AND RETURN HIM TO WASHINGTON.

to handle":

In 1957 a boy from Charleston and his girl friend from Sikeston were parked in a car north of Sikeston. Two assailants came up to the car, killed the boy and raped the girl.

"I worked on the case for a year," he said.

One problem in solving it was that the girl said the two assailants were Negroes. It was later learned, they were Caucasians and had worn cotton socks over their heads.

One of the assailants, Bill Slayton, was picked up on another charge and sentenced to prison at Boonville, but at the time it was not known that he was one of the assailants since officers were looking for two Negroes.

While at Boonville Slayton told another inmate about the slaying-rape incident. Word got back to the sheriff, who made three trips to Boonville to interview the prisoner.

The sheriff got a warrant for the other assailant's arrest and went to St. Louis to pick the boy up.

The other boy, Lynn Wayne Hester, re-enacted the crime for Sheriff Dennis and Sikeston Police Chief Arthur Bruce. Hester, who was the killer, was given life imprisonment, and Slayton, the rapist, was given 15 years.

The pair had been picked up by the sheriff's department two weeks after the crime had been committed. "We found the cotton masks in their car but couldn't tie it in with the case because the girl had said the assailants were Negroes."

The case from which the sheriff got the most satisfaction occurred in 1954.

A Sikeston woman was hit on the head with an iron pipe and then raped. "The first I heard about it was when I read it in the Sikeston paper," he recalled.

Bob Dempster, then prosecuting attorney, called the sheriff and asked him to help on the case. The sheriff requested and was given a plain clothes highway patrolman to help in the case because he felt the investigation would include more than Scott County.

A canvass of the neighborhood revealed that a man had been visiting his grandparents the night of the crime. He was traced to New Madrid, from where a car had been stolen that night. The car matched the description of one seen in the neighborhood.

The sheriff obtained all available pictures of the suspect from relatives telling the relatives he was a missing person. The pictures were then sent to law enforcement agencies in the areas where the suspect had relatives.

The sheriff and the trooper traced the man to the Belmont ferry and received word that he had been picked up in Clinton, Ky., where one of the pictures had been sent.

This was on a Saturday, one day after the sheriff had entered the case.

The suspect refused to waive extradition on a charge of car theft, so Sheriff Dennis flew to Jefferson City to obtain extradition papers from the attorney general and lieutenant governor.

The sheriff then flew to Frankfort, Ky., to obtain signatures of authorities so the suspect could be returned to Benton.

The suspect was returned to Missouri, and the woman who had been attacked was brought in to identify him. When she faced him, she broke down and couldn't control her emotions.

The suspect was then taken to Jefferson City, where he failed to pass a polygraph test. Still he did not confess to the crime. Sheriff Dennis pointed out that there was no conclusive evidence against the man for the rape, indicating that only by a confession could a conviction be obtained.

The sheriff had the prisoner in his home and by applying a bit of psychology, he obtained the confession.

Sheriff Dennis had arranged for the grandparents to talk to the suspect, knowing that he was fond of them. Rather than experience the shame of facing his grandparents, the man made a confession.

He waived his preliminary hearing, went before Circuit Judge D. W. Gilmore, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

After passing sentence, the judge gave the man a chance to change his plea, but he declined.

On Friday, one week after the sheriff had entered the case, he transported the man to the penitentiary to begin serving a life sentence.

Nine days after the crime was committed, the case had been solved, the man was arrested, tried, convicted and had begun serving his sentence.

This case points out the importance of the confession in solving crimes, the sheriff said. Recent United States supreme court rulings have made it difficult to make confessions stand up in a court room.

In most cases the suspect is willing to cooperate and make a confession, he said.

"Ninety-five per cent of the people you come into contact with who have violated the law will cooperate with you," he explained. "The majority of them have had unhappy backgrounds and don't have any friends. If you show them you want to help them, they will cooperate."

The supreme court has ruled that the suspect must be told that he has a right to remain silent, that anything said can be used against him as evidence in court, that he has a right to talk to a lawyer and have him present while being questioned, and that if the suspect cannot afford to pay for a lawyer, one will be appointed for him free of charge.

Even before the court ruling, the county never let a defendant go before the court without a lawyer, Sheriff Dennis said. The ruling hampers police work and causes policemen to spend a lot more time on a case than was necessary before the ruling, he said.

Before the ruling there was little police brutality used in obtaining confessions, Dennis said, and whenever there was it usually was reported to the public by communications media.

Progress Related by Secretary of State

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the text of a speech made by Missouri Secretary of State James J. Kirkpatrick at a dinner for State Sen. Nelson Tinnin and Rep. R.B' King.

MALDEN - I would like to talk to you about state government progress, and the Democratic administration that has kept its promises and continued to move Missouri forward.

This is a broad topic. I cannot cover it all in one talk. But let us review some highlights of a proud record, and how all your state elective officials have contributed to it.

Governor Hearnes. of course, has been the leader. He has shown himself to be a man of courage and action. He has established the principal policies and provided the power to make them meaningful.

Governor Hearnes' record is widely known and understood.

I would merely point out the areas in which he has been the proposer and the achiever, to the betterment of all Missourians.

These would have to include:

Mental Health and its expanding program of professionalism. This includes the three new intensive treatment centers, the nine mental retardation centers (an area in which Missouri took national leadership) and the new alchoholism program. In simplest terms, this means the Missourian who becomes mentally ill now has a better chance of being cured, and quickly. And it means that the chronic drunk will get hospital care instead of repeated and unhelpful jail sentences.

Industrail Development - Missouri last year (1967) had 322 new and expanding industrail plants, far surpassing any previous year's record. (In 1966, there were 302). During the first three years of the present administration, 58,297 new industrial jobs were announced. This is far above any previous three-year period. Total manufacturing employment in 1967 reached 455,300 jobs-the highest ever. Unemployment has declined to only 3.3 per cent. These are achievements that relate to the energetic efforts of local chambers of commerce, the professional guidance given by the state department of commerce and industrial development, and to the good business climate created for Missouri under Democratic administration of state government.

Education - New colleges at Joplin and St. Joseph; increases in junior college support, so that $2 millions in state aid in 1965 for 9,000 junior college students will become $7 millions for 25,000 students in 1969; greatly enlarged appropriations for the four-campus university system and the state colleges, and more than $30 millions in annual increases to the school foundation program. This adds up to better education for young Missourians whose lives will be entirely lives in the age of space and technology. There are some who like to portray Missouri as a laggard in higher education. They always fail to point out that between 1965 and 1967, our state increased its contribution to the operating funds for public higher education by 59 per cent. This compared to the national average of 42 per cent for that period. Missouri ranks fifth among the states in this index of accomplishment. In the same period, while enrollments grew by 47 per cent, state appropriations were up 103 per cent, and the state appropriated $77 millions to capital improvements on the various campuses. Does that sound like a state standing still?

Tourism - Visitors to Missouri are precious. They spend money for food, rest, recreation, entertainment. They pay gasoline and sales taxes into our treasury. When you add it all up, it amounts to an awful lot of money each year - at least three-quarters of a billion in "primary" dollars. The new tourism commission, organized to put more energy into our efforts to expand Missouri hospitality, represents an investment, not an expense. The average tourist spends $14.16 a day while in Missouri. The more we attract - or, if we can persuade the 21 million who come now to stay just one day more--Missouri's economy will be enormously benfited. The tourism commission expects 25 million out-of-state visitors to spend a billion dollars in Missouri in 1970. Isn't that something!

Highways--The forthcoming era of new four-lane highways will be paid for by user tolls rather than tax revenues. This expansion in useful highways has been prepared for by new legislation now awaiting court approval.

Additionally, there have been such achievements as the department of community affairs, the council on the arts, bettering the correctional system, conflict of interest and civil rights legislation and improvement in the kind and quality of welfare assistance increased.

Missouri certainly has a proud ecord in a most sensitive area-finances. The state treasury has been thrifty, efficient and prosperous.

Today, Missouri gets more interest from its money, nearly $12 millions per year, than ever before. This is more money than any other state gets on idle state funds. In the first year of receiving interest on state funds, Missouri collected only about one-quarter million dollars from this source. As recently as 1962, interest totaled only $1 ¾ millions.

Today, Missouri is in sound fiscal position. More than $300 millions cash is in the treasury. State deposits of funds are scattered in banks throughout the state bettering the economy of many communities. Prudent management at all levels by the Democratic team is paying off in many ways -- low tax rates, ample funds in the treasury, vital programs better funded than ever before.

Another big plus is the state consumer protection law.

This statute, enacted last year, makes it unlawful to advertise or engage in false, fraudulent, deceptive or misleading merchandising practices. It is a civil law, and its aim is not only to suppress such practices but to secure for the bilked customer a return of his money. A similar law in Illinois has returned more than $12 millions to customers in the last six years.

In Missouri, the Attorney General's consumer protection offices in Kansas City, St. Louis and Jefferson City have already managed to bring back $10,000 to deceived customers in four months.

For example, there was the Missouri man who ordered $850 in painting supplies and sent cash with his order. The merchandiser persistently failed to deliver the merchandise, after repeated attempts to get it. But the merchandise was sent within five days after the Attorney General's office got the complaint.

This new statute is indeed saving money for Missourians, who need only to apply to consumer protective division offices whenever they think they have been tricked.

The state auditor's office has moved steadily and quietly forward. County audits, which at one time were at seven-year intervals, are now at the statutory period of four years, and moving toward a goal of two years. Institutional audits -- colleges, hospitals, schools, etc. -- now cover 110 agencies, an increase of 25 in the last decade.

Body of 1967 Drowning Victim Found, Rites Held

OWENSBORO, Ky. - Services for Albert Brannum, 33, a former Cardwell, Mo. resident who drowned in a boating accident in the Ohio River New Owensboro Feb. 5, 1967-along with his brother, Charles 23 were conducted at 10:30 a.m. in the chapel of Haley McGinnis Funeral Home.

The Rev. Samuel P. Gish officiated and burial was at Elmwood cemetery.

The son of Thomas and Ellen Brannum of Cardwell, and his brother had gone to the river on the afternoon of the accident, to try out a new motor in a boat. Apparently the boat capsized in the swift water and both men drowned. An extensive searchfailed to locate their bodies and they were given up as missing and dead.

Sunday, a group was cleaning up a campsite, 25 miles downstream from where the drowning occurred which had been covered with high water and found a clothed skeleton in about 12 inches of mud. A billfold in a pocket of the clothing was well preserved and a social security card showed the name of Albert Brannum. The search was renewed for the body of Charles Brannum but no trace has been found.

Albert Brannum is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brannum of Cardwell and four children. A son, Larry, lives at Cardwell and a daughter, Jacqueline, is married and living in Rives. His wife, Charlotte, has since remarried. They has two children - a daughter, Latrina, 2, and a son, Albert, Jr., 1.

He is also survived by five brothers: Bobby Brannum of Owensboro, Ky., William of Owensboro, Ky., William of Cardwell, Jomack of Chicago, Ill. and James and Johnny of the home at Cardwell; and four sisters: Shirley Ashley, Betty Miller and Barabara Miller, all of Chicago, and Mary Dees of Yazoo City, Miss.

Hosmer Calls for Insurance Probe

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) - John E. Hosmer a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state attorney general, has called for an investigation of what he calls "the fraudulent insurance companies incorporated in the state."

Speaking at a Pettis County Farm Bureau picnic Saturday, Hosmer, a Springfield attorney, issued a challenge to his two opponents, Russell Millin and incumbent Norman Anderson.

Hosmer accused Millin of "laxity in office," when Millin was U.S. district attorney for western Missouri. He also claimed Anderson was "so deeply involved in the Presidential Investment Co. Scandal in St. Louis" that Anderson "did not feel that it was in his realm to prosecute any other insurance scandal."

Romney Revises Thinking

LANSING, Mich. (AP) - Gov. George Romney, who urged for months that Republican governors unite early behind one presidential candidate, is doing precisely the opposite now by keeping Michigan's delegation uncommitted.

"What we're doing is realistic now," Romney said in an interview. "I'm not going to bat my head against a wall.

The wall to which he referred is the gubernatorial indecision that helped crush his own campaign for the nomination.

Romney is determined to hold the bulk of the state's 48 votes away from either Richard M. Nixon or Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the present.

The object, he says, is to await developments, candidate statements on major issues and preconvention polls.

Romney, who controls the delegation as a favorite son, insists that no consideration of any job he may get in a national Republican administration has entered into what the Michigan delegation eventually does.

Would he consider running for vice president?

"I don't know," the governor replied. "I'm not going to even deal with the problems of this country effectively (in that job) and make as much of a contribution as you'd like to make."

Thus far Romney has won general endorsement from party leaders and delegates for an uncommitted delegation. However, the state's lieutenant governor and the majority leader of the state Senate are spearheading a move to win support for Rockefeller and Nixon, respectively, when Romney abandons his favorite-son candidacy.

The key question is how much of the delegation Romney will be able to deliver when he makes his own decision.

Loyalty to the three-term governor is strong among most of the Republican organization and the national convention delegation is almost completely an organization slate.

On the first ballot, as a favorite son, Romney is almost sure to get 44 or more votes. Up to four, from two conservative anti-Romney congressional districts, could go to Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Rockefeller now seems to have the upper hand in private leanings among the delegates, and he's all but one vote short of the majority needed to nominate.

Romney won't say who he leans toward, but other party leaders think he will finally go to Rockefeller if Nixon hasn't clearly sewed up the nomination.

Rockefeller was among the first backers of Romney's short-lived candidacy. Republican leaders, however, think the governor is now unlikely to be swayed by Rockefeller's past involvement with urban affairs. Those leaders also indicated they think Romney will contend that Nixon can't make a dent in Detroit's Negro vote.

The nation's 200,000 tons of low-cost uranium reserves will be exhausted by the mid-1970s. Half a million tons must be found by late 1980 to supply proposed power plants.

RAY CROMLEY

Laos Going Gets Rougher For the North Vietnamese

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

VIENTIANE, LAOS (NEA) - All U.S. presidential candidates should be required to visit Laos before making speeches on Vietnam.

I might give them new perspectives, eliminate some of the unrealistic theories some are expounding.

Despite their current military victories in Laos, here, at least, Ho Chi Minh's North Vietnamese Communists seem to be their own worst enemies.

By sabotaging the coalition government of which they were a part, the Communists have won the enmity of left-leaning Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma and have forced him to turn more and more to the United States for support. Originally suspicious of U.S. intentions, Souvanna Phouma's confidence in and respect for this country has been growing steadily. He no longer trusts the Reds.

The North Vietnamese armies now barely make a pretense that there's a civil war in Laos. It is an open, cynical, colonial invasion.

The fighting is done with North Vietnamese troops. The quality and morale of the Pathet Lao army units has sunk so low both the North Vietnamese and the Laos people regard them with disdain. North Vietnamese openly give orders to the Pathet Laos puppet administrators.

The native people in the Red-occupied areas of Laos have been moving out by the tens of thousands.

North Vietnamese annual forays to seize the free Lao rice harvests have alienated thousands of Lao farmers.

The Communists for years have promised schools and medical stations. They haven't come through.

Though Ho's invading North Vietnamese armies are overwhelmingly superior in military strength, though they've been fighting here much longer than the Lao army can remember them and though the Lao government is so short of troops that men must be thrown into battle with pitifully inadequate training, there's a new spirit growing among Lao armies and Lao leaders.

Six years ago, the Lao were defeatists. Lao armies ran from the battlefield - or turned over the North Vietnamese were coming even when none were in the neighborhood.

Today, some Lao troops still run. Others don't fight too well. But in some areas, where Lao generals have taken command and where the Lao troops are fighting in their ancestral neighborhoods, the North Vietnamese are not having an easy time of it. Some of the battles have been bloody.

Talk to the young colonels and you feel this new spirit. What Laos needs, they say, is to get rid of incompetent senior officers - and juniors as well - and get the arms they need to fight with. It's not exotic weapons they want. The arms they're talking about are M-16 rifles. The Lao don't have the modern small arms to match the AK-47 automatic rifles the North Vietnamese now carry.

This doesn't mean the Lao are going to be a match for the North Vietnamese regulars in the months ahead. It does mean that Ho has failed psychologically in a country where six years ago he controlled most of the high cards.

MALDEN The Malden board of public works met last night to consider employe - management differences that resulted in eight or 10 employes leaving their jobs without notice last week.

It is understood the men failed to show up for work and costs and given 60 days in jail. Sentence was stayed and Friday. Included are employes of the water and sewer departments, the municipal power plant and line maintenance department.

More than half of the regular work force has remained on the job and services of the department are continuing without interruption.

Details of the nature of the differences were not available today. It is understood the action of the workers who have walked off their jobs is unauthorized.

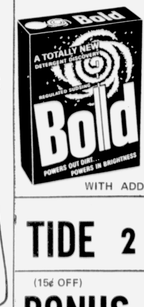

Electrical power for the City of Malden is supplied by municipally-owned generating plant, a modern dual fuel diesel electric generating plant with a 6200 kilowatt hour capacity.

Southpaw golfer Bob Charles finished 26th in the American Classic.

Seven New Directors Named to Delmo Board

LILBOURN -Seven new directors were named for three-year terms at the annual meeting of the Delmo Housing Corporation at South Lilbourn Saturday.

The new directors are Mrs. William Bullington, Essex; Harold C. Hanke, St. Louis Dr. Ralph Pumphrey, Washington University, St. Louis; the Rev. Paul Y. Harlan, Presbyterian minister of Kennett; A. E. S. Schmid, St. Louis, and Mrs. Frank L. Wright, St. Louis.

Richard K. Morse of St. Louis was elected to the unexpired two-year term of the Rev. Robert McCoy.

Henry Putzel of St. Louis, a long time member of the corporation, was declared an emeritus member of the board.

High school scholarships, representing $2,025, were awarded 30 students of the five-county area of Mississippi, Stoddard, New Madrid, Dunklin and Pemiscot.

Five students of the area were awarded college scholarships of $400 each. Migrant health project coordinator Francis James of Lilbourn announced the U. S. Public Health Service had made a grant of $63,000 to be used for family health services for agricultural migrant families. The services will include eye glasses, dental work, doctor fees and medicine for these families.

Charles Fleer, director of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation at Portageville, outlined the various programs for which application for funds have been made. He stressed interest in the present and future programs which would make citizens self-sustaining.

Reports were given by ten representatives from the counties of Mississippi, Stoddard, New Madrid, Pemiscot and Dunklin.

Approximately 150 attended the dinner meeting in the community building.

East German Restrictions Challenged

BONN (AP) — Representatives of the United States, West Germany, Britain and France are seeking ways to counter new restrictions placed by Communist East Germany on West Germans traveling to Berlin.

Some West German commentators called the East German action the most serious threat to access to West Berlin since the 11-month Berlin Blockade by the Russians in 1948-49.

East Germany announced Tuesday night it will require West Germans for the first time to have passports and visas for train, road and water travel between West Germany and Communist-surrounded West Berlin.

The regulations appeared to be a new assertion of East German sovereignty and of the Communist regime's defiance of the Bonn government's claim that it is the only representative German government.

The East Germans also announced hikes in overland transit fees and freight taxes.

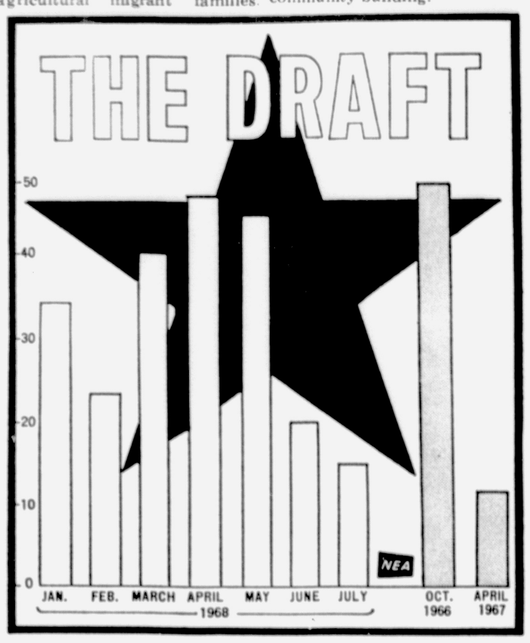

There was no indication of interference with official traffic of the three Western allies, which is controlled by the Russians as the other occupation power, or with air traffic to West Berlin, which is controlled by the occupation powers.

A meeting of U.S., West German, British and Frence representatives in the American Embassy lasted until 1 a.m. today. An anticipated joint allied protest to the Soviet Union was not announced.

Up to now, West Germans going to West Berlin by surface routes have traveled on their West German identity cards. ADN, the official East German news agency, said the West Germans would have until July 15 to get passports.

Increases in transit fees become effective June 20 and freight taxes on July 1, ADN said.

Visiting U.S. Undersecretary of State Eugene Rostow called the East German action "a serious situation" and said such a change from the present pattern cannot be tolerated.

Draft calls show a sharp drop for June and July and are expected to continue relatively low for the rest of 1968, due largely to a high re-enlistment rate. The July call is the lowest since April of last year. The peak call was in October, 1966.

Missouri University Issues Population Projection Report For State Highway Commission

Where will Missourians be living and working in 1990? A soon to be released report by the University of Missouri at Columbia attempts to answer the question.

The report was prepared for the Missouri State Highway Commission, which financed it in cooperation with Missouri University and the United States Bureau of Public Roads.

The State Highway Commission initiated the study because it needed population projections on which it could base its estimates of future travel patterns on a statewide basis. These projected travel patterns are basic both in the making of estimates of future usage of existing highways and in evaluating the needs for proposed highways.

"When the researchers at the University completed their report," said State Highway Department Chief Engineer M. J. Snider recently, "it was apparent that the report would be highly useful not only in Missouri highway planning but in a wide variety of other planning efforts which will be undertaken by private and governmental agencies within Missouri."

The report gathers into one package a variety of population projections which have never before been collected in one study. It includes figures for urgan and total population; transportation, wholesaling, retailing, manufacturing, and service employment; total employment; school enrollment; and automobile registrations. Included in the report are statistical break-downs of date for geographic units ranging in size from single cities to combinations of neighboring states. Projections are included for the years 1967, 1975, and 1990.

A summary of the full report, which contains most of the data which would be of value to the average user, is being prepared by the State Highway Department and will be available for distribution within 60 days. The full report should be released by the University within 60 days also. But distribution of the full report will be limited.

Sirhan Seems To Approve Treatment

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, seems satisfied with his treatment in custody, says an American Civil Liberties Union attorney.

A.L. Wirin, counsel for the ACLU's Southern California chapter, commented on Sirhan's condition at a news conference Tuesday. Wirin has visited the Jordanian immigrant in his 12-by-9 foot jail cell several times since his arrest June 5.

Meanwhile, Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, who was criticized after he disclosed information about Sirhan's background, defended his actions as being in the public interest.

He said he acted only to "get the facts to the public to prevent rumors and violence" such as that which occurred after the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Memphis, Tenn., April 4.

Sirhan is denied radio and television and says he doesn't want to read newspapers, Wirin said. The attorney said the defendant is allowed a few minutes of exercise each day in the corridor outside his cell and spends his time reading books on occultism.

Security for Sirhan remains strong, Wirin added. He said he was searched each time he visited the prisoner and the deputy accompanying him to Sirhan's cell in the jail's infirmary wing was given the same treatment.

Despite Sirhan's asking Wirin three times to defend him, the attorney said he would not take the case. His role, Wirin said, was to safeguard Sirhan's rights and to help find a lawyer to represent him.

Since his first court appearance June 5, hours after Kennedy was shot at a celebration in honor of his victory in the California presidential primary, Sirhan has been represented by a public defender, Wilbur Littlefield, who was named Tuesday to take charge of the case.

At another news conference, Yorty said initial reports of the shooting described the gunman as possibly a Cuban or Mexican-American. "I think it was a public service to identify the suspect as not coming from those groups," Yorty said.

Military Troubles in Japan Grow

TOKYO (AP) — Troubles increased for the U.S. military in Japan Tuesday. A special committee of Japanese cabinet members urged that the United States be asked to relocate an air base. The Tokyo city council demanded a ban on visits by nuclear warships and student demonstrators blocked a gunpowder shipment.

Sentiment against American bases in Japan, which is constantly fanned by the Socialists in their campaign to scrap the U.S.-Japan security treaty, increased markedly this month after an American jet based at Itazuke Air Base crashed on the Kyushu University campus.

Despite a U.S. promise to curtail night flights, the cabinet committee recommended that Prime Minister Eisaku Sato ask the United States to move the air base to another site.

Chief Cabinet Secretary Toshio Kimura said even if the full cabinet agrees, no formal request will be made to U.S. authorities until a number of alternate locations can be offered.

Sources said the Japanese are considering asking the United States to share the Japanese air bases, at Tsuiki or Miyazaki, which like Itazuki are on Kyushu, Japan's southern island.

At Kitakyushu, meanwhile, about 100 leftist students charged into a railway station and snake-danced on its track to prevent the arrical of 1,800 tons of gunpowder for the U.S. ammunition depot on the city's outskirts.

A freight car containing the gunpowder was switched to a spur line and left standing. No attempt was made to run the student blockade.

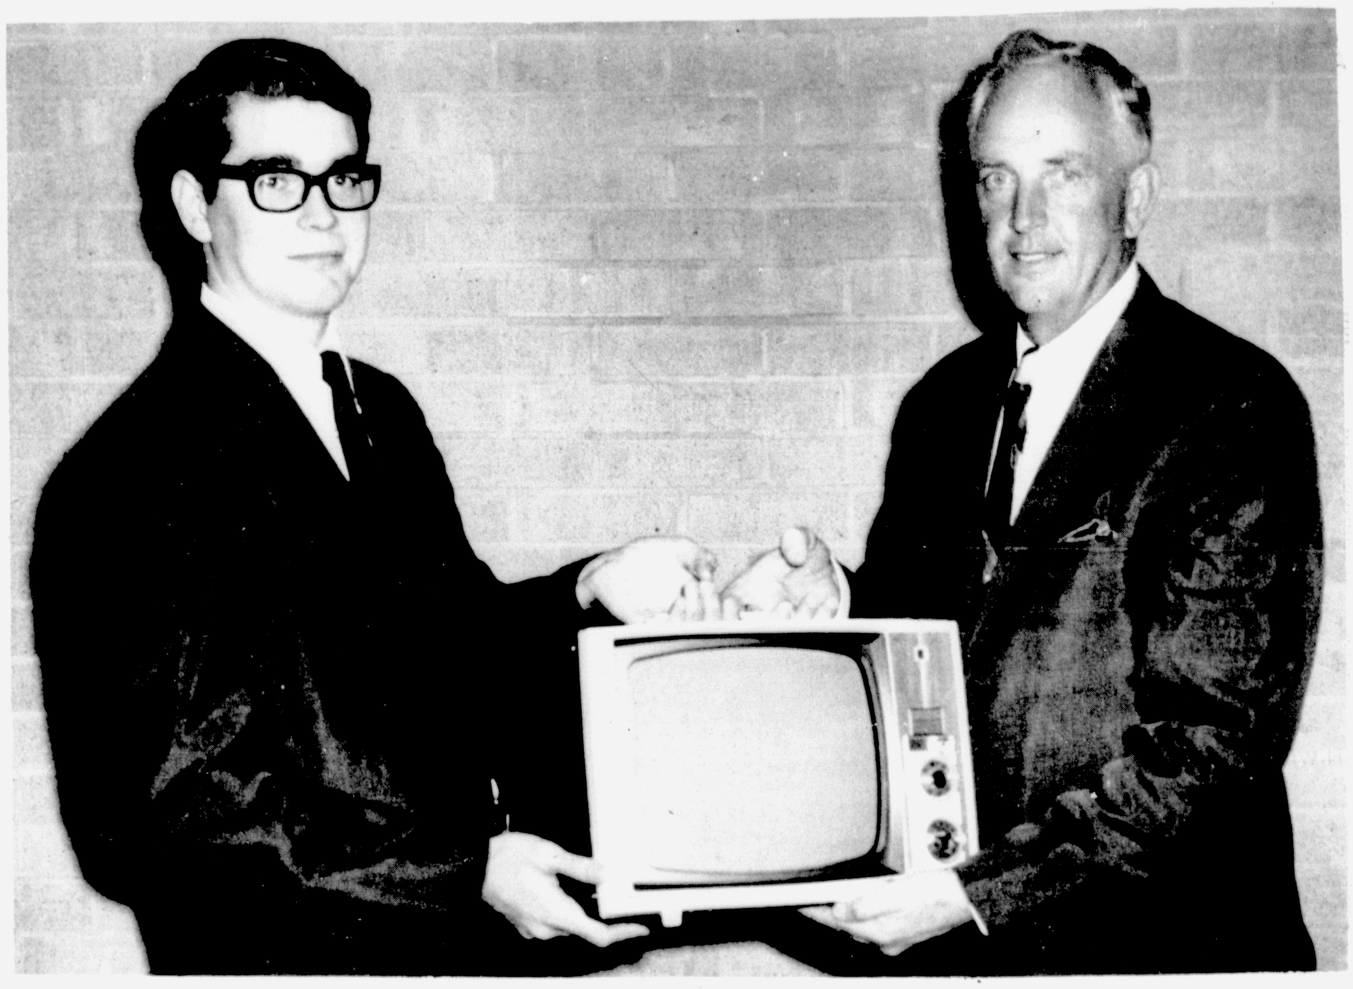

The city assembly of Kitakyushu has adopted a resolution demanding removal of the ammunition depot because of local opposition. Last month, a U.S. freighter was unable to unload part of a 3,500-ton ammunition shipment because of a boycott by the local longshoremen's union.

The Tokyo Metropolitan Assembly unanimously adopted a written opinion opposing the entry of U.S. nuclear-powered vessels into Yokosuka the port of Tokyo and one of the two Japanese ports at which U.S. Navy ships regularly call.

The opinion asked the Japanese government to ban U.S. nuclear ships from Japanese waters. It cited the increase in the radioactivity level reported in Sasebo harbor during the recent visit there of the U.S. nuclear submarine Swordfish.

U.S. authorities denied the Swordfish was responsible for the contamination, but could not prove it to the satisfaction of Japanese officials. A series of city councils have called for a ban on the nuclear ships, and the United States has suspended their visits.

Wage Decision May Cost State Up to $500,000

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A U.S. Supreme Court decision Monday extending the federal minimum wage law to state institutional employes could cost Missouri up to a half million dollars a year.

The estimate came Tuesday from John C. Vaughn, state comptroller and budget director, on the basis of a preliminary check. He said detailed figures would be available later.

The decision could raise a new problem for the special legislative session which starts June 20.

The new law requires institutional employes to be paid a minimum of $1.40 an hour starting July 1. Vaughn said he was not so much concerned about that provision because most state employes now receive at least that much.

But overtime pay requirements of the new federal law might increase Missouri's salary costs by thousands of dollars. A special problem is posed, Vaughn explained, by "house parents" who are required to live with inmates at some institutions and theoretically are on duty around the clock.

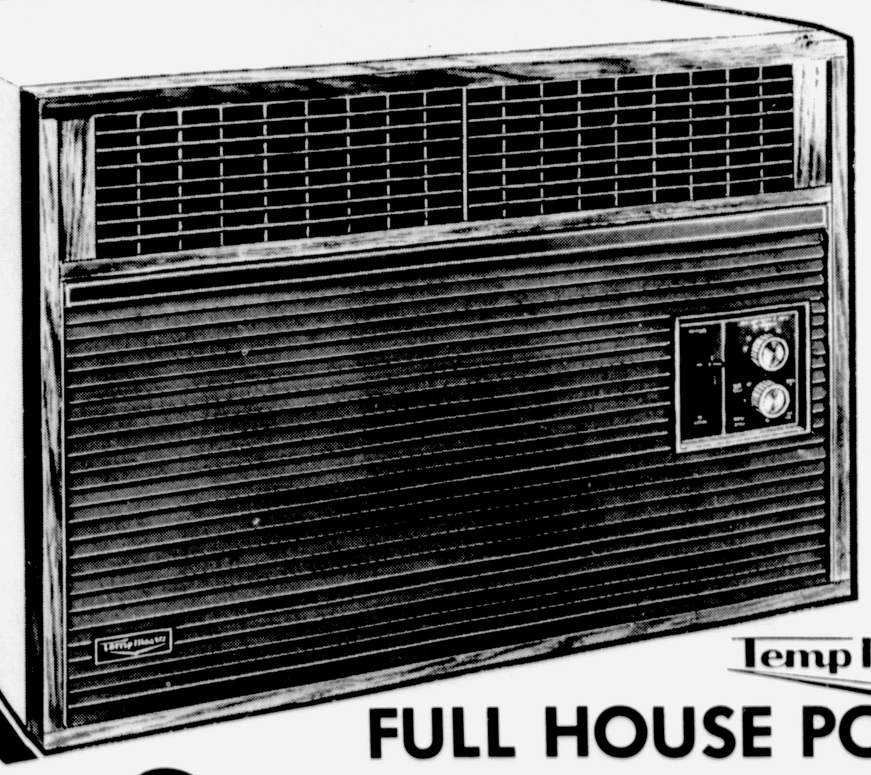

Vaughn said state departments are checking to determine what their potential costs might be.

Austria, Germany Meld in Walsertal

IN WINTER—This is a wintertime photograph of the village of Hirschegg in Klein Walsertal (Little Walser Valley) with the Widderstein (Ramstone) in the rear.

SUMMERTIME IN THE MOUNTAINS—This is a summertime shot of the village of Hirschegg/Klein Walsertal with the Barenkopf (bear head) left and the Widderstein (Ramstone) at rear right.

By KEITH WOOLHOUSE
Associated Press Writer

RIEZLERN, Austria (AP)— This alpine resort lies in one of Europe's strangest valleys, a [illegible] paradise which you have to enter by the back door.

The valley, Klein Walsertal, is in Austria. But, unless you are a mountain climber, you can only get to it from West Germany.

It s a place of peaks and paradoxes.

The peaks are a range of U-shape mountains which cut the valley off from Austria. The only way in is through the small town of Oberstdorf in West Germany.

The paradoxes are many. Klein Walsertal—it means Little Walser Valley—is politically a part of Austria. Its 4,000 inhabitants are ruled by Austrian law, vote in Austrian elections and pay Austrian taxes.

But Austrian goods are subject to import duties while West German goods move in free. That's because economically it is part of West Germany.

Citizens from the "Austrian mainland" who visit the valley find that West German marks and not Austrian schillings are the official currency.

Though they are still on Austrian soil they have to change their schillings for marks at a bank to make purchases.

Here's another curiosity. All the vehicles carry Austrian licence plates —bought in German marks and paid to West German authorities. But the plates are issued by Austria.

The postal trucks which serve "Austria's only colony" come in from West Germany. But the stamps on the letters are Austrian, payable in West German marks. The three valley towns have both West German and Austrian postal zip code numbers.

Law and order in the valley is maintained by Austrian police. But German custom officers have the responsibility of controlling the frontier.

Ludwig Leitner, the Olympic alpine combination champion in 1964, also got [illegible]ht up in the double nationalities of the Walsertal. Leitner, who runs a hotel in the valley, is an Austrian. But he won his Olympic title at Innsbruck for the West German Ski Federation.

His brother who lives next door raced for the Austrian Ski Federation and was unplaced.

Other sports don't go unaffected. Local soccer clubs belong to West German leagues. Otherwise they'd have to travel more than 50 miles to their nearest away game.

For tourists there is little difficulty in getting here provided you don't start out in Austria. The valley is about 100 miles southwest of Munich and 60 miles from the West German shore of Lake Constance.

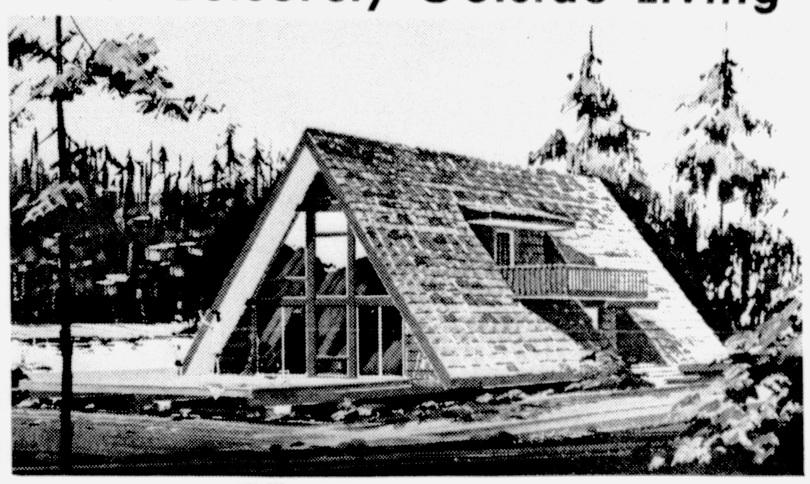

Klein Walsertal isn't listed on many maps. It's only 15 miles long and, at the most, four miles wide. But it's fast becoming one of the most popular winter and summer resorts in the region.

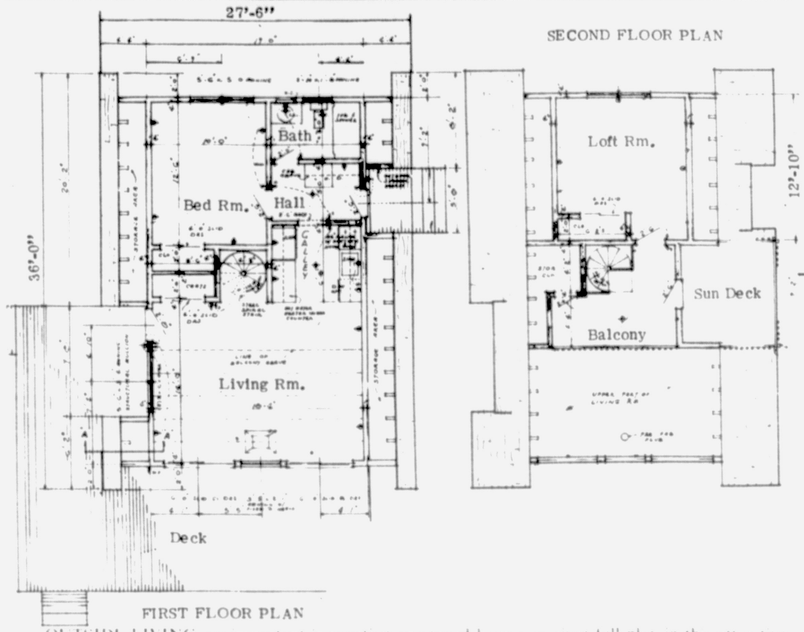

Sharing the valley with Riezlern are Hirschegg and Mittelberg. Between them they have 80 hotels and nearly 400 boarding houses. Almost everyone who lives in the valley and has a spare bedroom is in the tourist business.

Samuel H. Gottscho is 93 years of age and still active in the field of photographing gardens for which he has long been noted.

Starting in 1898 when he was 23 years old, he became engrossed with plants, gardens and landscapes. It remained an absorbing hobby until he was 50. Then, in 1925, he decided to become a professional photographer specializing in architecture and gardens.

His photographs were delicate, elegant and factual. They revealed a natural aesthetic arrangement which transmitted the quiet restful nature of the subject matter to the viewer of the pictures. He became the photo-biographer of the country's foremost formal gardens. A selection of his photos will soon be published in a book entitled "Famous American Gardens."

For this interesting bit of Americana, I am indebted to Modernage Custom Labs which is displaying a retrospective exhibition of Gottscho's garden pictures on the walls of its new Manhattan office. They held an informal press preview to meet the spry old man whose enthusiasm for photography has endured for so long.

In the 70 years since Gottscho took his first pictures on 4x5 glass plates with a 'Premier' box camera made by the Rochester Optical Co., photography has developed and been catapulted into the present electronic age. But one constant is important and has never changed: the zeal and emotional interest of the photographer.

"At 93," says Gottscho, "I find myself still in love with photography and excited by every step — from the image on the ground glass to the final print."

The exact technical data for each picture is unimportant in his viewpoint. He thinks it is more helpful to explain when and why he uses filters and the results he expects to achieve. "The fundamental factors are composition and lighting," he emphasizes. "The type of apparatus used and other technical data are secondary."

Despite his age, Gottscho plans to continue to spend his vacations and spare time in studying and photographing the country's wildflowers and weeds. "Although I have been privileged to photograph the finest gardens," he said, "the greatest beauty, it seems to me, is still to be found in the ever-changing forgotten corners of the natural scene."

It is a pursuit in which he can be joined by every photographer amateur or professional.

Glamorous Underworld Minis

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Underpinnings have undergone a remarkable change since the advent of mini outerwear.

Pantyhose has become a best seller and slips, of necessity, have crept up to just a few inches below the waistline.

But where mini outerwear is frequently toughened through the use of stiff fabrics, even the briefest underwear remains soft, pretty and completely feminine in design.

Tricot provides the smoothness and drapability that have made possible a new mini image—one of dreamy softness, with touches of silky satin, taffeta and crepe.

The shortest, flirtiest minislips and the most romantic lace-trimmed nighties vie for the attention of the young set which takes to the mini look as enthusiastically as a kitten eyes a ball of wool.

Colorful sets of tiny tricot bras and bikinis show up in new junior lingerie departments which have been set up in many stores throughout the country. Statistics show that 65 per cent of lingerie customers are under 25 and want ,young, chic, short lingerie.

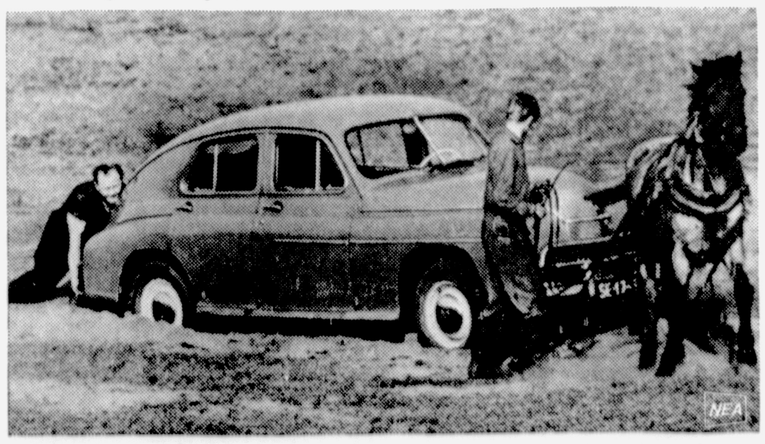

Many new lingerie garments have been invented for the mini-minded and often these designs perform double duty. There is a petti-and-panty girdle all in one, on a single waistband. It's made of nylon crepe tricot over a matching spandex panty girdle. Another current bit is a chemise-length minigown in nylon tricot featuring a softly shaped lace sleep brassiere.

There's no end to the list of glamorous newcomers to the mini underworld scene. There's no end to the enchantment of new colors to be found in today's lingerie departments where counters look like the palettes of painters. Bursts of brilliant greens, rose pinks, bright marigolds and soft lilac are a sharp contrast to the washed-out pastels of former years.

Keeping in step with spring's silhouettes and hem - length lingerie has become a fashion category in itself. Like hosiery, it has been lifted out of fashion limbo and it's fun to buy, fun to co-ordinate and fun to match with the skirt it may peek out from under when you drop your gloves.

TYPICAL of feminine minifashions in sleepwear is this chemise - length gown in Antron nylon tricot by Olga. It is modern in length and romantic in mood.

Ky Yields More Ground To Thieu

SAIGON (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky quit today as head of South Vietnam's People's Self Defense Committee, giving further evidence of President Nguyen Van Thieu's gains in the long power struggle between the two men.

Ky's letter of resignation to Thieu came after a week in which Ky has not participated in any government activities and has remained almost entirely in seclusion at the seaside town of Nha Trang.

The committee is an attempt by the government to arm and give rudimentary training to neighborhood and village groups for self defense against the Viet Cong. Ky was appointed to head it on May 3.

In the past week, Thieu has steadily increased his own control of the government at the expense of Ky. One after another, Thieu has replaced high officials loyal to Ky with men loyal to himself.

Among the Ky men replaced or about to be replaced are Maj. Gen. Nguyen Ngo Loan, director of the national police; Lt. Gen. Le Nguyen Khang, commander of the 3rd Military Corps Area; and Van Van Cua, the mayor of Saigon.

Several other high-ranking Ky supporters were killed last week by a rocket from a U.S. helicopter which the U.S. mission said misfired.

Ky has only those duties assigned to the vice president by the constitution. They are largely ceremonial.

Ky in his letter of resignation said: "In consideration of the fact that we have a new government which is capable of commanding a people's self-defense committee more reasonably, I have found it necessary for me to hand over the power to command the committee to the government from today on."

Last Sunday, A. W. Husk, Dan Reed, W. A. Garner and Mr. McGee spent the day at Wahite, fishing. About two o'clock while Mr. Reed had gone to the club house to get a drink of water the remaining three heard a noise overhead and on looking up saw an aeroplane. It was very high, as they said it would go behind the clouds, which obstructed their view, then come into sight again.

Mrs. A. A. Cervantes Says Enjoying Family Important

EDITOR'S NOTE: This it the 91st in a series of articles about the home life of Sikeston area families.

By RUTH DILLENDER

CHARLESTON -- Enjoying your family and what you have are important says Mrs. Marjorie Cervantes, 15 Willow Dr.

She and her husband, A. A. "Bud" Cervantes, have a son, Al, two years old, and a daughter, Karen, four years old.

Cervantes is a farmer, livestock dealer and owner of Cervantes Equipment Company at East Prairie.

Mrs. Cervantes' hobbies are singing and horseback riding.

Cervantes breeds quarterhorses and shoots skeet. He has won skeet and Western pleasure horse show trophies.

Mrs. Cervantes a past president of the Junior Study club, is vice president of Chapter CV of the PEO Sisterhood, and was a delegate to the PEO state convention in St. Louis in May.

Her husband is a Shriner and a candidate for president of the Missouri Young Democrats.

The family attends the Methodist church, where she sings in the choir, leads music in Bible school and belongs to the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Mrs. Cervantes says she likes to cook, a talent she learned in home economics classes in high school and college.

A treasure in the home is an antique rocker in which three generations of infants of Mrs. Cervantes' family have been rocked.

Recipes she suggests are:

FROZEN RED RASPBERRY SALAD

1 package raspberry Jello
1 ½ cups very hot water
1 package frozen raspberries, partially thawed
1 small can of crushed pineapple
1 large banana, diced
½ cup chopped nuts

Dissolve Jello in hot water and add partially thawed berries until completely separated. Chill until it is the consistency of an unbeaten egg white. Stir in pineapple, banana and nuts.

Dressing:

Mix together in bowl.
1 cup thick sour cream
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 tablespoon sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice.

Mix thoroughly and chill over night.

CHARCOAL BEEF LOIN

Start fire in brazier. Let it burn down to about 325 degrees.

Place beef loin on spit of rotisserie and spiral wrap with bacon. Secure with tooth picks. Cook slowly so as not to dry out meat. Do not overcook.

Mrs. Cervantes says this cut of meat does not have any waste and she finds a small amount serves many.

She says serve with Dawn Fresh mushroom steak sauce with sliced mushrooms.

RAW CAULIFLOWER DIP

1 cup Hellman's mayonnaise
2 teaspoons curry powder, or to taste
1 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons catsup
½ teaspoon grated onion
Garlic to taste

Mix ingredients. Refrigerate.

Wash and cut woody base of cauliflower. Break into flowerets. Serve on tray around dip.

Mrs. Cervantes says the cauliflower may be prepared the day before serving and kept in a plastic sack in the refrigerator

PIZZA DIP

1 pound ground lean beef
½ medium onion, chopped

Brown together in skillet.

Add:

1 can tomato soup
1 pound Velveeta cheese

Melt. Serve in chafing dish. Use Frito corn chips with dip.

BUTTER BEAN AND CORN CASSEROLE

¼ cup butter
¼ cup flour
1½ cups milk
¼ cup grated cheese
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Make cream sauce from above ingredients. Add vegetables:

¼ cup chopped pimentos
¼ cup green onion tops, cut ½ inch long
1 package frozen lima beans cooked as directed
1 package frozen corn, cooked as directed

Pour into greased casserole. Top with three tablespoons melted butter mixed with two cups bread crumbs.

Devices to Catch Robbers Updated by Electronics

NEW YORK (AP) — The holdup man aimed his gun at the cashier and the cashier threw up his hands. This activated a radio transmitter hidden in a special belt the cashier was wearing.

Instantly a little computer, attached to a telephone elsewhere in the store, dialed the police. Seconds later a tape message related to the police the name and address of the store being robbed.

Next the computer dialed the telephones of nearby stores and told their proprietors—again by activating a tape recording—to jot down a description of the robber and his vehicle as he left the store.

In this instance the thief was caught before reaching his automobile. Even if he had escaped immediate apprehension the police still could have had a description, a license plate number and other identifying information.

Should the thief—or perhaps a dishonest employe—have slipped in while the store was closed he might have been picked up by radar waves that also would have activated the computer.

In fact, the devices that flooded the room with radar waves might also have activated a camera that would have recorded every move of the intruder for playback later by security officers.

You'll seldom hear very much about these ingenious devices, mainly because too much publicity about a security product is guaranteed to reduce its effectiveness. But as crime and violence increase, so do the number and type of products to combat them.

Some of these items were shown to the trade recently at the International Security Conference, a gathering that impressed on the uninformed layman not so much the security he could find in these items but, instead, the elaborate extremes that man must use today to protect himself from other men.

A records storage firm sought business for its complex of vaults drilled into a Utah mountain, with the reminder, that on Aug. 14, 1814, the British burned Washington, destroying the public records.

It indicated that such chaos could be avoided no matter what the devastation, presumably even by an atomic bomb, because "the overburden of granite—200 feet of solid rock—will withstand any force known to man."

A manufacturer of "unbreakable" glass invited anyone to swing a baseball bat at a huge pane of its product.

Another firm promoted "Chemical Mace," suggesting to law enforcement officers "its incapacitating formulation can be projected directly into a crowd or, if necessary, can be 'rained' on their hands."

But the trend in security products now seems to be evolving away from those that meet force with force. Fortress-like strength, such as in old banks, loud alarms, violent weapons are giving way to silent, unseen electronic devices.

It might be said, in fact, that the business is growing up, maturing, becoming more sophisticated. More than one company in the field of security has had applied to it by securities analysts the tag of "glamor stock."

Ann Landers

Fat Woman Sheds Both Her Pounds and Friends

Dear Ann Landers: I got tired of hearing people say, "You have such a pretty face--if you lost some weight you'd be beautiful." So I went to my family doctor and asked him to put me on a strict diet. I shed 40 pounds in seven months.

So what am I writing about? Well, since I've lost weight I've also lost my fat girl friends. I shared my diet with them and kept urging them to stick with it but they didn't have the willpower.

At first they seemed thrilled about my weight loss but as I began to look better they became cooler and cooler. The real break came when I started to date some very attractive men. It's hard for me to believe that my friends are jealous yet I don't know how else to figure it. Do you? --- THE NEW ME

Dear New: Success can be awfully hard to take -- particularly somebody else's. Those dames were not friends. They were merely acquaintances with whom you once shared a common misery. you've lost nothing of value.

Dear Ann Landers: I am employed in a large office. The man who clears all down payments has been helping himself to money. He confided that he started by taking small amounts for a day or two to tide him over a personal "crisis." Now he takes larger amounts for longer periods.

I have access to the books but have never had any reason to check them. I'm afraid one day he will be discovered before he has a chance to set the books right. This has caused me sleepless nights because now that I'm aware of what's going on I have what is known as "guilty knowledge." I don't know why he cut me in on his maneuverings and I wish he hadn't. Should I go to the boss, or to his wife, or keep my trap shut and hope for the best? --- TOO MUCH INFO

Dear Too Much: Your co-worker is committing the crime of embezzlement and the fact that so far he has made restitution periodically doesn't change the situation. It's your duty to tell the boss what's going on and leave it to him to decide whether to give Mr. Sticky Fingers another chance.

Dear Ann Landers: If you don't want to print my letter please put a check in either of the boxes I have drawn at the bottom of the page and return it to me in the enclosed envelope. One box is marked SHE PAYS. The other box is marked YOU PAY AND FORGET.

I have a cleaning woman who is unbelievable. If she had one more brain she would be an idiot. This dumbbell has worked for me for six years. Don't ask me how I have stood it.

Yesterday she tried to do me a favor and save 15 cents worth of soap powder. She over loaded my washing machine and burned out the motor. The repair bill is going to be out of this world.

Should the woman pay for the damage or not? Please check the square and I will do as you say. ---EMPLOYER OF A NUMBSKULL

Dear Employer: I am checking "YOU PAY AND FORGET IT." Everyone who has domestic help must expect some breakage over a period of time.

Even smart and careful housewives have been known to break things once in awhile so don't be so hard on your cleaning woman.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You -- for Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Washington Report

By Senator Symington

Washington Report - In the death of Senator Robert F. Kennedy -- a moving force in the democratic processes of America -- I have lost a long and close friend and could not be more sorry for his noble family and our country.

If we are to survive as a nation, it is becoming increasingly clear that love for our country and our fellow man must replace the hatreds that have been building up in the hearts and minds of so many of our people.

In the aftermath of this tragic and senseless shooting of Senator Kennedy and five other Americans, many Missourians have telegraphed urging stronger Federal gun laws.

We will continue to support measures to strengthen Federal laws on interstate traffic in guns as well as other measures to help prevent crime and strengthen Federal gun laws.

We will continue to support measures to strengthen Federal laws on interstate traffic in guns as well as other measures to help prevent crime and strengthen law enforcement.

Although not completely satisified with the gun control and some other provisions of the Omnibus Crime Control and Law Enforcement Assistance Act as passed by the Senate on May 23 and by the House on June 6, on the whole I believe it could be helpful.

When the bill was before the Senate last month, I supported every key amendment proposed to strengthen the provisions on interstate traffic in guns. Regrettably, the amendments to ban the interstate mail order purchase of rifles and shotguns were defeated by substantial margins. Now that the President has called again for enactment of these rejected provisions, the Congress should reconsider the need for strengthened gun laws.

The principal weapon of a criminal is a gun. According to the FBI, in the four-year period 1962-65, of all murders in the United States, 57 per cent were committed with firearms. in Missouri, 65 per cent.

The essential purpose of federal legislation in this area is to assist. state and local governments enforce their own gun laws if they have or desire to enact such laws.

As example, Missouri State law requires a permit to purchase a concealable weapon. Nevertheless in 1966, 5,000 persons who gave a residence address in the city or county of St. Louis purchased firearms mainly handguns, in Illinois, where no permit is required. About 200 of these purchasers were found to have been convicted of felonies.

The fact that the long range solution to this critical problem may lie in improved social and economic conditions does not negate the need and importance of strengthened law enforcement in the effort to control crime. The causes as well as the instruments of violence merit our attention and

If America is to succeed stemming this violence violence which has struck all too often at both the least known and the well known among its efforts must be made at every level of government, in recognition also of the changes in communications, transportation and population growth.

Space Program Budget Slashed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prodded by reminders it was demanding over-all budget reductions, the Senate has cut more than $357 million from the administration's space proposals.

The action Monday left an authorized total of $4.01 billion for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

A move to slash $1 billion from President Johnson's request for $4.37 billion was rejected 38 to 33.

But Congress has been taking a much closer look at space spending of late, mainly because of astronaut deaths, domestic difficulties, including riots, and questions about what should follow a manned landing on the moon.

After final action in both houses on an identical authorization measure, which sets spending ceilings and policy, the amount of new funds to be made available to the program will be set through separate appropriation legislation.

"Can I put it in layaway until after the baseball season?"

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, June 12, the 164th day of 1968. There are 202 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1665, the city of New York was incorporated under English law. A mayor five aldermen and a sheriff were appointed.

On this date:

In 1630, the first governor of the Massachusetts Bay Company, John Winthrop, sailed into the harbor of Salem.

In 1776, a Declaration of Rights was adopted in Virginia.

In 1838, the territory of Iowa was organized.

Family Loses All But Clothes In Home Fire

KENNETT - The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hays, two-and-one-half miles west of White Oak, was destroyed Sunday morning by fire.

The family saved only the clothes they were wearing.

The family was at church when the fire broke out in the five - room frame house. When they returned, the home was burned to the ground. It is believed to have started from wiring.

Clifton Hays, a brother to J. R. Hays said that the family is in need of household items and clothes.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Hays, there are five children in the family, three girls ages 11, 9, and 7 and two boys, ages 4 and 5.

Hays works on the farm of Glen and Charles Fuller.

Rockefeller Pledges Closer European Ties

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller pledged today to call a summit meeting of Western heads of state to create "a true Atlantic partnership," if elected president.

Looking for support to overcome the Republican delegate lead of Richard M. Nixon, the New Yorker offered sweeping foreign policy proposals in the opening of two days of public speeches and private talks in California.

He planned private meetings with a few top Republicans who are pleged to vote for California Gov. Ronald Reagan as a favorite son at the convention.

Concentrating on foreign affairs, Rockefeller called for closer United States cooperation with Western Europe, including giving the supreme command of NATO to a European instead of an American.

Secret Service agents, New York state troopers and two Los Angeles police department intelligence officers guarded Rockefeller—the first announced presidential candidate to come to California since Robert F. Kennedy was shot to death in Los Angeles last Wednesday.

In a speech prepared for delivery at Town Hall in Los Angeles, Rockefeller referred to the New York Democratic senator's death in a hotel just a few miles away.

"He died here last week because he dared—he was determined—to speak out on the great problems before our people," Rockefeller said.

But most of Rockefeller's attention in the talk before the city's business leaders was directed to building "a new world structure, a new international order."

He called for bringing the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "into line with current realties by encouraging European nations to assume a greater responsibility for their defense.

Asking for "new leadership," Rockefeller said, "We cannot act as the world's policeman."

Rockefeller proposed more trade and scientific and cultural exchanges with the Soviet Union and expansion of "the existing bilateral talks with Communist China in Warsaw into wider ranging explorations."

With California's 86 votes pledged to Reagan until he releases them, Rockefeller's hopes in the state rest mainly with persuading some delegates to back him on the second and third ballots.

The visit was a major stop in his all out appeal to American voters to support his effort to beat Nixon.

The governor also hoped, aides said, to show the men with votes at the convention that he can pick up support from followers of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and thus lead the GOP to victory in November.

His nationwide campaign is designed to prove he can provide the "new leadership" he says the country needs.

"America cries out for a leader," he said in full-page ads which appeared in newspapers from coast to coast and pledged to give, later today in Los Angeles, his answers to "a subject that has tormented us like none other in our recent history: Riot."

Foreshadowing his formal position, Rockefeller said in a CBS telecast Tuesday night that while it was vital to preserve public order, "We can no longer tolerate injustice or bigotry. We must trike at their roots."

He urged viewers: "If we don't like the laws, let's change them."

And, he insisted, "Without progress and justice there can be no order."

The governor opened his telecast speech with a tribute to Kennedy who, he said, "died for his country. His death presents a new challenge to those of us who remain."

Rockefeller said, however, that the assassination would not stop him mingling with the voters during his campaign.

"I have faith in this country, I have faith in people, and consequently I have no fear," he declared.

President Johnson has provided Rockefeller and other major candidates with Secret Service protection and guards are expected to surround the New York governor when he makes a planned walking tour of Watts, the Los Angeles Negro district where rioting raged in 1966.

Agents guarded him during his telecast.

The governor's 10-minute speech was part of a prime-time half-hour paid for by the Rockefeller-for-President Committee which declined to say how much it cost. The committee also declined to discuss the cost of the newspaper ads.

He denounced men of what he called "the old politics" without mentioning them by name and claimed that "new leadership can recapture control of events. "It is to offer this new leadership that I seek the presidency of the United States."

Rockefeller Says Nation Needs New Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller stressed a theme of "new leadership for a new America" today as he launched an intensive campaign to overtake Richard M. Nixon, the apparent front-runner for the Republican presidential nomination.

In a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon, Rockefeller said Americans "want nothing short of a new government, a new party in power, and a new leader at the head of that party."

The New York governor said "there is around us a new national mood and a new national resolve—to find a new leadership toward a new America. The Old Politics no longer suffices."

"The men of the Old Politics do not understand change," Rockefeller said. "They do not appreciate the significance of the emerging forces. And they do not seem to care."

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy died, the governor said, "because he dared to speak out on the issues before the American people."

Rockefeller said his candidacy was based on "my deep conviction" that he could "carry forward the great unfinished mission of building a better America."

The governor charged that "The Old Politics talks about its concern for the poor, the jobless, the urban decay—but dismisses concrete plans for action as 'pie in the sky'."

A new leadership," Rockefeller continued, "can recapture control of events, master them rather than let them master us, restore direction, and assert meaning and purpose in all our national life. It is to offer this new leadership that I am seeking the presidency of the United States."

Rockefeller begins an intensive television and newspaper advertising campaign in an effort to sway public opinion and Republican delegates from Nixon tonight with a nationwide television address.

One aide indicated the campaign will concentrate on Rockefeller's differences with Nixon on the issues—and the governor's theme that he is a winner and Nixon is not.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy has scheduled a meeting with advisers, reportedly on strategy to win away Democratic National Convention delegates now favoring Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

McCarthy had already set a pattern of meetings with state delegates with a trip to Phoenix, Ariz., last Tuesday before Kennedy was shot and campaigning was suspended.

The Minnesota senator plans to resume formal campaigning Thursday with a speech to the New York Fellowship of Reconciliation.

Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace resumes his third party presidential campaign today with a 12-day swing through Southern states, beginning with a stop at Memphis, Tenn.

It is his first campaigning since the death of his wife, Gov. Lurleen Wallace, May 7.

Other political activity today includes primaries in Illinois and South Carolina and party conventions in Texas.

Illinois Democrats select 48 of their 118 national convention delegates and Republicans name 48 of their 58 delegates.

The organization Democratic slate—headed by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley who has not said which candidate he favors —expects to win heavily despite challenges by McCarthy backers in 13 to 24 districts. Nixon is expected to win considerable support among GOP delegates.

In Texas, Gov. John Connally is expected to get control as a favorite son of the state's 104 Democratic convention votes. Speculation has been that in a showdown Connally would back Humphrey for the nomination.

Texas Sen. John G. Tower is expected to hold control as a favorite son of 56 Republican votes, at least for the first ballot at the national convention.

In the South Carolina Democratic primary, incumbent Sen. Ernest Hollings is challenged by John Bolt Culbertson, a Greenville lawyer.

In other political developments:

—Two of Chicago's four newspapers have urged editorially that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy be offered the Democratic vice presidential nomination at the national convention in Chicago. The editorials were in the Chicago Daily News and the Chicago Sun-Times.

Dr. Gilbert Mason of Biloxi Miss., has become the first Negro ever to be chosen a Mississippi delegate to the Democratic National Convention. He was one of four delegates chosen Monday night.

Thriving Popcorn Business Began as Boyhood Project

TRENTON, Mo. (AP) — Popcorn, eaten before a television set in a living room in the Midwest or in a theater in Japan, could have been raised in Missouri's Grundy County and processed in Trenton.

The Whitley Popcorn Co. of Trenton, which is nearing its 30th birthday, processes popcorn for both domestic and foreign markets.

In 1939, R. S. Whitley, an oil company agent, decided the best way to keep two boys out of trouble was to keep them busy.

"I can't remember getting in that much trouble," Bob Whitley, the younger of the two sons joked in reporting how the company came into being.

Whitley's father rented a 480-acre farm in northwest Grundy County and started Bob, a fifth grader, and Jim, a ninth grader, out with a six-acre plot of popcorn.

Whitley had purchased a five-pound bag for 25 cents from a dor-to-door salesman, popped it and bought two bags next time around — one to eat and the other (open pollinated) for seed.

The six acres produced a good yield. That first popcorn was shelled in the basement on a hand crank machine, one ear at a time, and cleaned of chaff by pouring from one bucket to another through the air stream of an electric fan.

The brothers, acting as salesmen, soon found markets and sold some of their product as far away as Oberlin, Kan.

After farming north of Trenton four years, Whitley began selling popcorn to theaters in 1943.

"Processing seemed like a good idea," Whitley said, "so in 1945 we built a processing plant in Trenton and the next year processed 800,000 pounds.

"Truck routes to theaters in Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Arkansas and Kansas were established. The routes continued for 15 years until 1960 when theaters began buying from jobbers. The first and last theater sales were made in Trenton.

"Our first processing of 800,000 pounds in 1946 seemed pretty big," Whitley said, "but last year we processed 10 million pounds."

Locally processed corn is sold in Missouri and adjoining states and shipped to Mexico, Japan, Germany, Venezuela and Peru.

The firm raises 600 acres of popcorn and contracts an additional 3,300 acres.

Yields of popcorn are about two-thirds as great as field corn. The Whitleys have had yields as high as 93 bushels per acre.

"Many folks drive along and are unaware that they looking at fields of popcorn," Whitley pointed out. "It's easy to tell popcorn from regular field corn —the popcorn leaves twist counterclockwise while the field corn leaves twist clockwise and the popcorn ear is one joint higher on the stalk."

Whitley's two sons, Jim and Bob, are still active in the business with their father. Jim Whitley, head of water quality control for the Missouri Conservation Commission, will supervise the company's 50 test plots this summer. Bob Whitley, who began flying in 1962, uses his single engine plane extensively in the business.

Looking forward to the big holiday next month — you don't have to have a fifth to enjoy the 4th.

Turn-in-Your-Guns Movement Spreads

NEW YORK (AP) - A turn-in-your-guns movement has started in the nation in the wake of the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

And there have been calls from public officials, groups and individuals - for stronger gun-control legislation at federal, state and city levels.

"I don't feel like killing anything any more," said Alan E. Schoening as he turned in two hunting guns to police in Lancaster, Pa. "Enough people have been shot now," he said.

"I want to give you these guns so you can destroy them. I hope this genture wul encourage others to do the same."

A chain of discount stores in Columbus, Ohio, said it would stop selling guns and turned over its stock of small arms, hand guns, ammunition and related items to the police department. J-Mart president Marty Rosen said he took the action "to remove the possibility of supplying anyone with the means to cause bodily harm, inadvertently or intentionally, not only to our dedicated public leaders, but to anyone . . . ."

An Indiana - based chain, Wonderland stores, discontinued the sale of ammunition. It stopped the sale of guns two years ago. The store president, Sanford Friedman, said the ammunition sale was being stopped "to help preserve public safety and sanity."

In Dallas, store owner E. O. Crawford discontinued the sale of toy guns the day Robert Kennedy died. "We teach our children love of a gun and love of killing by giving them a toy gun as soon as they are able to walk," he said.

John E. Fletcher of Denver urged gun owners to take "all firearms in your possession to the steps of the state capitol next Sunday (Father's Day) to be destroyed and disposed of."

He said the gesture would be "a sign of our intention to kill no more . . . and as a fitting remembrance to a fallen martyr - Robert F. Kennedy."

Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts said he will tell his colleagues in the New England Conference that strong gun controls are long overdue. The conference will meet in Stowe, Vt., June 27, and the issue is expected to come up then.

Volpe, chairman of the National Governor's Conference, plans to propose tighter gun laws when that group meets next month in Cincinnati.

A Gallup Poll report, released Sunday in Princeton, N.J., said that a special survey conducted on the day that Sen. Kennedy was shot found that the public advocates registration of all firearms as the best way to curb such violence.

A letter appeared in the Miami Herald, signed by a man who called himself "an avid owner and user of guns," and urging a 90-day jail sentence for possession of any firearm. "I know this means ending the sport of hunting," he wrote, "but our first obligation must be to mankind and the perpetuation of society."

Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco proclaimed the seven days beginning July 4 an "Amnesty Week," and asked all citizens to turn in their guns - with no questions asked. Last Friday, Alioto had urged a city gun control law "with teeth in it."

Not all the action came from adults.

A group of junior high and high school students in University City, Mo., formed an organization called Students for Action Committee to work to eliminate gun sales.

"The adults don't do anything" said Sharon Liebermann, a member of the group. "They mourn and say they'll do something and then they seem to forget."

Circuit Judge Max Raskin of Milwaukee urged passage of a law under which firearms would have to be drawn out of a local arsenal, somewhat like books out of a library. Raskin said the borrower would sign out the weapon, state his purpose for needing it and sign out the weapon, state his purpose for needing it and sign it back in after a specified time.

The crime - control bill which the U.S. House of Representatives passed Thursday includes a ban on mail-order sales of handguns, but President Johnson has asked for even stronger curbs. He urged the legislators to reinstate an original provision of the bill- banning the mail-order sale of rifles and shotguns as well-and to insert a new provision prohibiting the sale of rifles, shotguns and handguns to anyone under 18.

Panel Starts Study of Violence

WASHINGTON (AP)—A presidential commission has formally embarked on a study of violence in America and President Johnson wants the panel to consider whether campaigning candidates should be limited in their physical contact with voters.

Johnson met with the 10-member group at the White House for the first time Monday, signed the executive order creating it for one year and said he was asking Congress to give it subpoena powers.

He also gave it what he called a simple and direct charge in which he expressed the hope it would find "understanding and insight into the kinds of violent aberrations which have struck down public figures and private citizens alike."

Besides this, Johnson told the commission he hoped it would uncover the causes of disrespect for law and order, violent disruptions by groups and individuals and offer ways to control or prevent such outbreaks.

Among the many facets of violence touched upon, was the safety of campaigning.

"Does the democratic process which stresses exchanges of ideas permit less physical contact with masses of people—as a matter of security against the deranged individual and obsessed fanatic?" Johnson asked.

The commission was named by Johnson last Wednesday, the same day Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was felled by an assassin's bullet after a political victory speech in California.

Johnson told the commission, headed by Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, educator and brother of the former president, that it faced a difficult task.

He suggested among other things that it look into the possibility the seeds of violence are "nurtured through the public's airwaves, the screens of neighborhood theaters, the news media, and other forms of communication that reach the family and our children."

He said he was asking the heads of the major radio-television networks and the Federal Communications Commission to cooperate with the violence study.

In New York, NBC and CBS both said they would cooperate with the commission. ABC was said to be studying the situation.

Johnson announced he was asking Congress for special subpoena powers for the commission and that Lloyd Cutler, a Washington lawyer, would be the unpaid executive director.

Although the commission is set up for a year, presidential aides said Johnson hoped it would have its report ready in much shorter time.

Wallace Resumes Campaign

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Bolstered by reports of enough signatures to gain ballot space in Illinois and North Carolina, George Wallace swings into an 11-city Southern tour today—his first public appearances since his wife's death.

Wallace leaves for Memphis, Tenn., where a fund-raising dinner and a rally are on his schedule.

Not since Gov. Lurleen Wallace died of cancer May 7 has Wallace made a public appearance on behalf of his third party presidential bid.

State Sen. W.G. McCarley of Autauga County, Ala., reported from Springfield, Ill., Monday that Wallace supporters there have gathered more than 40,000 signatures, 15,000 more than the necessary number.

McCarley said he will file the petitions between July 29 and Aug. 5 to complete the legal requirements for Wallace to appear on the Illinois ballot in November.

Wallace's former news secretary Ed Ewing said in Raleigh, N.C., that the former governor has thousands more signatures than are needed to gain ballot position in that state.

Ewing said he gave North Carolina Elections Board officials petitions containing more than 16,000 signatures, at least 6,000 more than the number a third party candidate needs to quality in North Carolina. He said about 60,000 more signatures are waiting in Montgomery if needed.

Earlier, Wallace told a news conference in Montgomery that "our nation's leadership has failed."

He said he blames the nation's problems on those "who have brought about the breakdown of law and order." Wallace also told the newsmen "those in high places who have encouraged violence, have created a Frankenstein."

Referring to the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Wallace said the nation's streets are no longer safe for presidential candidates or the average citizen.

But Wallace said gun control isn't likely to solve the problem of violence. Such laws "will in the main wind up taking the guns out of the hands of the good citizens. The criminal can always get guns," he said.

The solution to violence, Wallace said, "lies in obedience to the law. We must give our police the authority to enforce the law."

As Wallace spoke, he was ringed by Secret Service agents plus at least two state troopers. The Secret Service detail was provided by President Johnson for major presidential candidates after Kennedy was shot.

Wallace Ballot Drive Underway

CAPE GIRARDEAU Headquarters have been established for the drive to obtain petitions to place the name of George Wallace for President on the Missouri general election ballot. ARTIST'S CONCEPTION of major expansion and modernization program for the Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett. The $2,500,000 program became assured with approval of a community mental health center grant by the National Institute for Mental Health in Washington. Hospital officials had been waiting to determine whether Kennett would qualify as the state's third Community mental health center before proceeding with plans for the major expansion program.

Kennett Site for Mental Health Center

KENNETT -- Kennett will become the site of Missouri's third Community mental health center. The review board of the National Institute for Mental Health gave its stamp of approval on a $400,000 federal grant for the three-county medical facility here.

Although the review board's action is still unannounced, Missouri Weekly learned that federal approval has been given the application submitted on behalf of Dunklin County Memorial Hospital by officials of the Missouri division of mental diseases.

Approval by the N.I.M.H. review board means that $400,000 of federal grant money will be matched with $400,000 in local funds to construct a large psychiatrict section at Dunklin County Memorial Hospital to serve the lower portion of the Bootheel, including Dunklin, Pemiscot and New Madrid counties.

Proposed for the psychiatric section will be a 26-bed wing to Dunklin Memorial that will also include treatment units, offices and other psychiatrict personnel.

Approval of Kennett as a Community Mental Health Center also brings an automatic partnership in psychiatrict care with the Missouri division of mental diseases, which will provide a full-time psychiatrist and other psychiathic personnel in a staffing arrangement. The state agency, which is under the direction of Dr. George Ulett, will form a working partnership with Dunklin Memorial in providing trained personnel to man the mental health catchment area clinic. The division will handle assignments to the psychiatrict unit in cooperation with Dunklin Memorial Administrator James Fox.

N.I.M.H. approval of the Kennett application was accomplished by approval of a similar application for Lutheran Hospital at St. Louis.

Church Celebrates 110th Anniversary At Sunday Rites

BLOOMFIELD - The 110th anniversary of the West Pleasant Valley Methodist church was celebrated Sunday during the annual homecoming services.

The Rev. James R. Poe, a native of Stoddary County, now of Warrensburg, Ill., was guest speaker. He graduated from Bloomfield High School in 1953 and received his bachelor of divinity from Butler Christian Theological Seminary at Indianapolis, Ind., in 1962.

The church established in 1858, is five miles northwest of Bloomfield. The first meetings of the church were held in homes and school buildings until 1874, when under the leadership of W. W. Norman, a log cabin was built on the present church site and used as a church building.

In 1867, the Bloomfield Circuit was formed, encompassing an area from Advance to Pleasant Valley.

The REv. W. C. Crowe was pastor when a frame house was erected on the site in 1894.

In 1912, the Acrone Ridge Circuit was formed and Acrone Ridge, Fairview, Pleasant Valley, and Zion formed one charge in order to support a regular pastor.

In 1965, the Acrone Ridge circuit was divided and Pleasant Valley became a substation of the Bloomfield Methodist Church. A cemetery is immediately west of the church, with the land for the cemetery being acquired in 1918.

The land for the cemetery was donated by W. D. Poe, W. O. Chasteen, Terry Poe, Lloyed Terry Poe, Lloyd Street and C. A. Freeman.

Besides the special morning services, the anniversary of the church was celebrated with the traditional basket dinner on the church grounds.

Keating, Reid Mentioned for Senate Seat

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The names of former Sen. Kenneth B. Keating and Rep. Ogden R. Reid have been raised in speculation over whom Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will name as a successor to the late Robert F. Kennedy in the Senate.

While Rockefeller and other political leaders declined to discuss the impending appointment publicly, there was substantial private reflection on the subject Thursday at the Capitol.

Rockefeller's press secretary, Leslie Sloate, said the Republican governor had "given no thought" to a successor to the slain Democratic senator.

Keating's name was among the first mentioned. The suggestion was that Rockefeller might wish to return him to the seat that Kennedy won from him in the 1964 election. Keating later was elected to the Court of Appeals, the state's highest court, but has only two years to serve before reaching the mandatory retirement age of 70.

Reid, who represents a Westchester County district, has been personally close to Rockefeller for years and has occasionally advised him on political matters.

The 43-year-old congressman who was president of the old New York Herald Tribune is known to be interested in attaining higher office.

The person chosen by Rockefeller will serve the remainder of Kennedy's term, which ends Dec. 31, 1970. A senator would be elected for a new, six-year term in November 1970, to take office in January 1971.

The past district President, Mrs. Minnie Paar of Jackson, gave a resume of the department convention on St. Louis in May. Mrs. Elizabeth Gilbert of Poplar Bluff, senior-vice president of the district, spoke on Legislation, Volunteer work at the VAVS Hospital in Poplar Bluff, and the care and welfare of the Veterans wives and widows.

The next district meeting will be held in Fredericktwon Sept 14.

BEBAN HAS CREDENTIALS

LOS ANGELES (AP) Here are four reasons why UCLA's Gary Beban is being mentioned in preseason stories as college football's star of 1967:

He led the Bruins in scoring last season with 64 points.

He rushed for 454 yards for a 3.68 average.

He passed for 1245 yards on 78 completions.

His total offense yardage was 1,699.

Poplar Bluff Area Clinic Dedicated

POPLAR BLUFF - Poplar Bluff's new $400,000 regional diagnostic clinic for Mental Retardation wa on was dedicated Friday with Gov. Warren E. Hearnes officiating.

"The clinic represents physical and mental salvation for those who so desperately need it," the governor said in brief ceremonies at 11:30 a.m. at the highway PP site of the facility.

"It represents spiritual relief for anguished families...and it represents the most priceless intangible gift which society can give to an individual: hope."

Moving on to the high school cafeteria for a joint service club luncheon after the formal clinic dedication, Hearnes delivered a major policy address on his beliefs about current American Society.

"We are continually faced with threats to our flag and our nation. We are told that ours is a sick society and a decaying nation. The prognosis is given that the illness which grips our nation is terminal...that the current upheaval will become final in its destructive force.

"We have witnessed a startling change among the youth of our nation which threatens permanent damage to our society. And we can't blame specific economic, racial or religious classes of people for producing an abnormal share of troublemakers.

"But there is a common denominator which helps pinpoint these troublemakers: They come from homes where the children are equal with the parents."

The governor cited "children who can do anything and have everything" and the trouble that results. He said an overly permissive society has helped raise a generation of lost children, but added he was not indicting all young people.

"The fault has to go back to the parents. They must give their children a basic awareness of s of right and wrong."

The chief executive then quoted J. Edgar Hoover's recent appeal for elementary teachers to instill in pupils a love of country, respect for law, and an understanding of our national heritage.

"If this isn't done, and the growth of permissiveness continues through high school, real problems result in college."

In contrast with lax parental attitudes, the governor implied, the student encounters rather strict and impersonal discipline from college administrations. He also finds strict academic discipline.

"Perhaps this sudden encounter of authority is one reason behind campus violence. Per haps it explains why students who constantly harp about free speech are the same ones who jeer a visiting speaker and run him off the platform.

"We witness student groups which willfully violate one law after another in protesting a single regulation. We see groups protesting war and violence, yet physically attacking police and military officials.

"There is one quick answer to a student, or to a faculty member, who engages in an illegal campus disruption or violent incident...and the answer is instant dismissal" the governor said.

Hearnes critized the "billing of city riots as race riots." He said most of the disturbances actually are struggles between law and order and those who do not believe in law and order.

"Let's not kid ourselves. Following the abolition of slavery, the United States virtually sat still for a century and did nothing to achieve full justice or equality for Negroes. This eventually led to the civil rights movement and it was needed to stir up some action.

"Many people feel that legislation has gone about as far as it can go toward creating equality of justice and opportunity. The next step is social equality, and that comes only with the passage of time and public education," he said.

He also pointed out that the vast majority of persons arrested during the riots had previous s criminal records; and that few middle-aged, hard working Negroes were involved, despite the fact their lives and fortunes were affacted much more by prejudice than the young rioters.

Hearnes insisted that "our current violence in slums and on campuses is basically a matter of disrepect for law and order."

"Most of all," Hearnes said, "we must breed respect for authority in the children of this nation. Whether it's a matter of altering the morals of adults or just a matter of re-asserting the discipline of parents over children, it is a task which must be carried out very soon.

"I do not believe that the current turmoil in our nation is a fatal illness. I fear only the the possibility that we might allow the patient to die through neglect " Hearnes concluded.

Hearnes brought with him a delegation of state officials who participated in the clinic dedication. Jack Stapleton, Jr., Kennett, presided over the ceremonies as a member of the Mental Health Commission.

State Supreme Court Upholds Convictions

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court agreed Monday two penitentiary inmates were properly convicted of killing another inmate and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Eddie Douglas Umfrees and Donald Lee Beishir were convicted of stabbing James Hawkes in the prison yard Nov. 27, 1965 during a recreation period. Testimony indicated that Hawkes backed a card game inside the prison and there had been some dispute about the take.

The defense sought to show another prisoner did the stabbing because of the card game controversy but that testimony was excluded — a fact which caused Judge Robert E. Seiler to dissent from the majority opinion.

In other opinions the high court:

Upheld the conviction and three-year sentence of Rex Peck for escaping from the state penitentiary Sept. 11, 1965 through a tunnel he and another inmate had dug under the walls. Peck, who was serving five years for burglary and stealing, was caught near Jefferson City by bloodhounds.

Found Richard Devoe's rights were not infringed in his trial and conviction of first degree murder in the robbery slaying of William Hemmersmeier, a St. Louis real estate man. Hemmersmeier was killed at his office Feb. 18, 1966. Devoe got a life sentence.

Affirmed the second degree murder conviction and 15-year sentence of Everett Roark, who was charged with shooting his brother, James Roark, in Butler County June 18, 1965. Everett said he was sick and didn't know what he was doing when he pleaded guilty to the charge.

Upheld the 20-year prison sentence imposed on Jessie Theodore Cook for assault with intent to kill. Cook shot Olen Neal Lafferty Dec. 11, 1966 in a fight at the Little Reno Club in Springfield.

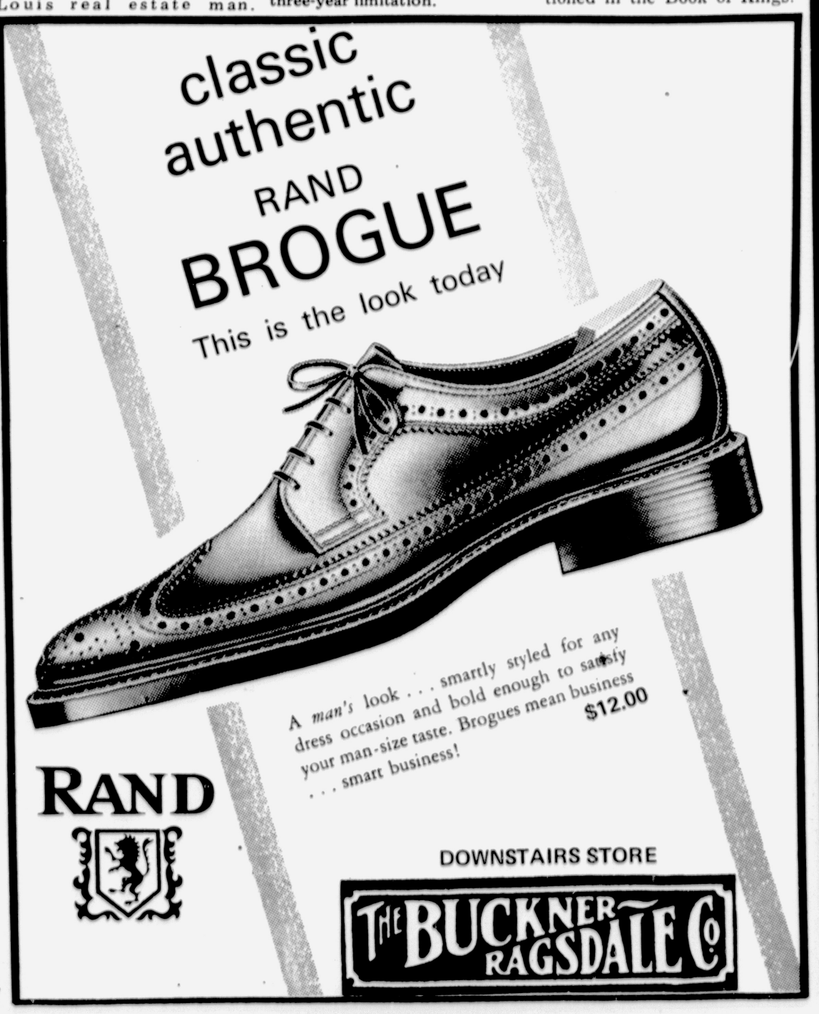

The Supreme Court dismissed the state's appeal of an adverse decision in the case of Joseph A. Perou, former administrator of Callaway Memorial Hospital in Fulton.

Perou was indicted by a grand jury on 20 charges of forgery but Circuit Judge John M. Cave dismissed the charges as having been barred by the three-year statute of limitations.

In an unusual appeal by the state it was alleged that Perou's actions constituted corruption in office and so the indictment was within the fiveyear statute of limitations for that charge.

The high court said Judge Cave acted properly in dismissing the charges on the three-year limitation.

The sundial was used in Babylon as early as 2000 B.C. and the Dial of Ahaz is mentioned in the Book of Kings.

Following the G.A' recessional, guests attended a reception in the church dining room honoring the G.A. organization.

Sihanouk Frees Pair in Homage To Kennedy

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) – Prince Norodom Sihanouk has released two American soldiers as a gesture of homage to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The two soldiers, Jerry A. Tester and Ronald J. Lehrmann of the 560th Military Police Company, were aboard a Philippine tug that strayed into Cambodian waters in the Mekong Delta.

They were turned over to the Australian Embassy, which has represented the United States in Cambodia since Sihanouk broke relations with Washington.

There was no immediate indication when or how the men would leave Cambodia.

In a message of sympathy to Sen. Kennedy's widow, Cambodia's ruling prince said:

"The royal government, the Cambodian people and I want to express our admiration and our respect to the Kennedy family whose sacrifices for the cause of peace, justice and liberty for the oppressed must not be vain for the honor of the American people and the future of humanity."

Sihanouk's announcement made no mention of releasing the tug or its eight-man Filipino crew. Phnom Penh newspapers had reported they would be treated leniently and would be released.

The U.S. government had protested the detention of the men and said the tug intruded inadvertently into Cambodian waters due to a navigational error.

The Cambodian government rejected the protest, saying the boat passed a "clearly visible" Cambodian border post on the river bank and ignored signals ordering it to turn back.

Earlier the Cambodian government had offered to release the two men in exchange for two bulldozers. Washington made no reply to that offer.

Case Against Jim Brown Dropped

HOLLYWOOD (AP) – Authorities have dropped an assault case against former pro football star Jimmy Brown in connection with a high-fashion model found injured beneath his second-floor balcony. But he still may face a charge of battery against a police officer.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Phillips Mueller said his office would not issue a complaint because of insufficient evidence. After his arrest Brown had been booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

"There was not sufficient evidence to convict," Mueller said Monday. "This is aside from the fact that the woman would not sign the complaint." He added, however, that a complaint could be issued if "some evidence turns up in the future."

The German-born model, Eva Marie Bohn-Chin, 22, hospitalized in fair condition, wasn't available for comment.

Mueller said his office will file a complaint charging Brown with battery against a police officer, a felony.

Brown was arrested Sunday night after neighbors in his West Hollywood apartment reported a fight.

Deputies discovered Miss Bohn-Chin semiconscious on the concrete patio about 20 feet below Brown's balcony.

Brown was freed Monday on $12,500 bond.

Doctors said Miss Bohn-Chin had a dislocated shoulder and bruises on her head, mouth and cheeks.

Deputy John Texeria, 165 pounds, said the 228-pound Brown knocked him seven feet with a swing of his left arm when the officer attempted to enter the apartment.

Officiers would not comment on the progress of their investigation to determine what happened in the apartment.

They did report finding blood on the bed, the rug, the walls and a towell in the apartment.

Miss Bohn-Chin is the daughter of a Jamaican diplomat and a German woman. She is described by her agents as looking "like a Negro with an oriental strain."

During his nine-year National Football League career, Brown carried the ball 2,359 times for 12,312 yards before retiring in 1966 to become an actor.

Brown was acquitted in Cleveland in 1965 of a charge of assault and battery filed by Brenda Ayres, 18. He has a wife and three children in Cleveland.

Cervantes Proposes Hotel-Amusement Center Be Built

ST. LOUIS (AP) - A $25 million convention and amusement complex to lure visitors to St. Louis was proposed Sunday night by Mayor A. J. Cervantes.

The Mayor said the center, along with the Gateway Arch and Busch Memorial Stadium, would make St. Louis "the" place to visit in the midwest.

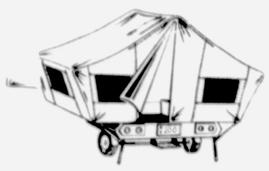

He said it would bolster the city economy and could be paid off through leasing arrangments. A study by a Los Angeles firm indicated the best place for the hotel-amusement-recreation center would be a 39-acre tract south of St. Louis 40 and west of Union Station. It is owned by the Terminal Railroad Association.

DOESN'T ADD UP

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) A local observer believes that the "new math" has been incorporated in the latest radio weather reports. How else can you explain the recent report: "Today's high will be between 30 and 35. The present temperature is 37."

Mom:

The stretch of years is now long past since I was your baby girl.

The years when you mended a broken toy or smoothed a straying curl.

I've come since to a woman's place to my graduation day.

I'm a nurse-and the dream of my childhood hours stands achieved-and my heart is gay.

But mother I know I could never have won if your love hadn't helped me alone.

I who was always so weak on the way, you who were ever so strong.

Your love and your help, and your kindly praise, these followed me through the years, a million thanks well up from my heart.

God bless you-your joy and your tears.

Your are my model -you are my ideal-your love that was true.

God couldn't be with me all the time so he gave me a mother like you.

And mother; if ever around my neck the arms of a baby twine,

I only ask God to be like you-little mother of mine.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Perhaps you would be interested in publishing in your paper a poem written by one of my students here at the Indiana School for the Blind. I feel that it is very vital.

My parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hodges of Route 3, and I formerly taught in Southeast Missouri schools and for three years I taught at the Missouri School for the Blind. I have just completed my third year here at the Indiana School for the Blind as high school English teacher, jand this fall I will take the position of elementary supervisor here in our school. I have received a federal grant to complete my master's degree at Michigan State University this summer.

I personally still enjoy receiving your fine paper because it keeps me up to date on old friends.

Sincerely yours,

LETTER FROM A SOLDIER

I write to you, my dearest Mom,

A serious note from Viet Nam.

We hear distressing news today

Of things that are not the American way.

A draft card burning, a demonstration,

What's wrong with the people in our nation?

We hear anti-war slogans and a protest song

And of sending supplies to the Viet Cong.

Do we want Communism to spread?

Do they want our flag to be only red?

Don't they appreciate our flag?

Why does their patriotism lag?

We all must take a stronger stand

And erase this evil from this land.

Now I have no more time to write.

We go to battle again tonight.

And if I return not any more,

Mom, tell them what we're fighting for.

----Joe Money

Note: Joe is one of this year's graduates, is totally blind, and has been accepted to attend Indiana State.

SUBJECT: Letter of Appreciation

THRU: Mayor
City of Sikeston
Sikeston, Missouri 63801

On behalf of all citizens of the City of Morehouse, I wish to express our appreciation to all members of the Sikeston Fire Department, who attended and assisted in fighting the major fire on May 23, 1968, which destroyed the Morehouse Oil Company (Simpson station) and cafe, owned by Mr. O. D. Henning.

I also wish to express our appreciation, to the citizens of the City of Sikeston and to the City Officials, for allowing your Fire Department to come to our assistance.

Although, our own Volunteer Fire Department were on the scene and putting up a gallant fight, it is fully realized th Knowledge of fire fighting, training, courage and efficiency of all personnel was very evident and can oly be commendable of the entire Sikeston Fire Department. It is most gratifying to know that our good neighboring City can and does come to our assistance in fire emergencies such as this one.

Again, I wish to express our appreciation for your outstanding assistance and to offer to you the help of this City at anytime in anyway that we may.

Very truly yours,
L. B. McNew, Sr.

The most vicous enemy of the church is the atheist. The active atheist insists that God be dethroned and supplanted by the all-powerful State. All forms of dictatorship, bad or benign, must maintain the all- powerful State. Some persons previously indoctrinated with a tolerance of communism may decide communism is dangerous, but that a little socialism is harmless. Socialism is equally atheistic and must lead to dictatorship and demoting God. Church demoninations are highly organized and if the enemy has them prepared, are the handiest avenue through which the communist, socialist and, therefore, the atheists, will choose to work. All believers in God must work fearlessly to detect and feat the evil decisions of the atheists who may be attempting to work within some highly organized church entities.

Constructively,

Spock Says Viet War Illegal

BOSTON (AP) – The war in Vietnam "has no shred of legality and will blacken the reputations of my country for decades and centuries to come," says Dr. Benjamin Spock.

The pediatrician called U.S. involvement in the war "outrageous and abominable" as he testified Monday in defense against federal charges that he and four other men conspired to violate draft laws.

He said American forces have killed "hundreds of thousands" of civilians while fighting in Vietnam and that thousands of U.S. troops have been killed needlessly.

"What's the use of a physician like myself in helping to bring up children to be killed in a cause which is ignoble?" he said about American war dead.

He told the all-male jury that America is participating in a war which is "totally illegal, immoral, unwinnable and detrimental to the best interests of the United States."

Spock said he believed the United States violated the Geneva accords of 1954 which were drawn up to partition Indochina into North and South Vietnam after the forces of Ho Chi Minh defeated the French.

The accords called for elections in 1956. Instead, Spock charged the United States introduced "a puppet leader named Diem" to the South Vietnamese government and supplied him with money and guns.

On trial with the 65-year-old Spock are Yale Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43; Mitchell Goodman, 44, a writer and teacher from Temple, Maine; Marcus Raskin, 34, a Washington research director; and Michael Ferber, 23, a Harvard graduate student.

If convicted, they face maximum penalties of five years in prison and $10,000 fines.

The trial is in its fourth week.

Washington, Jefferson and Franklin once proposed an east-west highway to unite the nation. The Lincoln Highway is culmination of their proposal.

WINNER OF GUITAR at Falkoff Men's Store in a work clothing contest last week was Derick Sellers 10, 310 Crowe St. Manager David Friedman, places the instrument in the hands of the winner. Second prize, a pair of trousers, went to Darrell Wyatt 16, 225 East Kathleen.

Ban Lowered on Suits Opposing Parochial Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court has knocked down a 45-year-old barrier and cleared the way for taxpayer suits challenging federal aid to parochial schools.

The barrier was imposed by the court in 1923. It found then that individual taxpayers lack the standing to sue the government over big programs because their tax payments are too small to show sufficient personal involvement.

Today's ruling sweeps aside that decision. This means seven New Yorkers who contend federal aid to pupils in church-related schools violates the Constitution will have a chance to try to block the program in courts.

Similarly, the ruling may clear the way for suits against other government programs.

The carefully worded 8-1 decision delivered, by Chief Justice Earl Warren, said there was "no absolute bar" in the Constitution "to suits by federal taxpayers challenging allegedly unconstitutional federal taxing and spending programs."

The federal government spends an estimated $41.9 million a year under the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act to provide special education programs and library services for children attending nonpublic schools in poor areas.

The seven taxpayers claim this is prohibited by the First Amendment's ban on establishment of religion by government. The Justice Department, meanwhile, urged the high court not to disturb the 1923 ruling. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold called it "a modern exemplar of judicial denial-that the court not decide political questions."

Stand-in for Laugh-in Gets Routine Label

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Champions," NBC's British import to replace its "laugh-in" for the summer, had the shape of an old model in its American premiere Monday night.

The program is a cross between superman stuff and "The Man From U.N.C.L.E. style of show.

In "The Champions," three attractive young persons, two men and a girl, are dedicated to Fighting Evil.

They work for some international crime-fighting organization. The gimmick is that all three are possessed of strange powers that permit them to see details at great distances, hear through closed doors, immobilize enemies by staring at them and even transmit signals among themselves by mental telepathy.

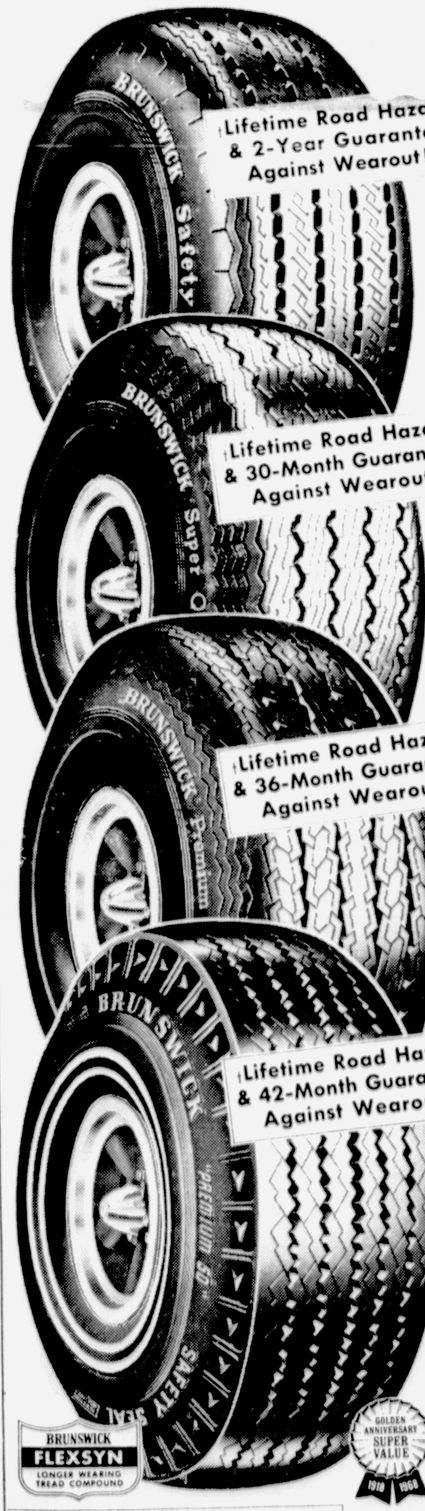

NBC chose not to tell us how they got these supernatural powers.

At any rate, the story was routine with evil dope pushers, sinister masterminds and the usual fights.

And fights currently are not popular with the television networks. Neither is any kind of action in that area.

Sight Study Leaves Student Disoriented

DENVER, Colo. (AP) – John Thomas Zimmerman emerged from his dim, topsy-turvy world Monday and promptly got sick.

His world had been topsy-turvy because for three weeks, his only vision had been through strange-looking glasses that made everything he saw appear upside down and backwards.

His world had been dim because the glasses afforded only a narrow, barely light 7-degree field of vision, compared with normal vision of about 180 degrees.

The nausea came when he took off the glasses and found himself dizzy and disoriented at seeing things right side up again.

Despite the discomfort the 19-year-old Zimmerman was pleased because his experiment had been fruitful.

The study, and a 2 1/2-month stint with right side up, but reversed, glasses before that, were aimed at learning how mind and body reactions adapt when the eyes see things as they are not.

Eventually, he said, it is hoped the pilot studies will learn to help the mind and body—possibly with the aid of hypnosis— conquer vision defects. Zimmerman, freshman at the University of Colorado, has been nearsighted since he was born prematurely, tipping the scales at 30 ounches.

For his latest tests, he wore classes with periscope-like prisms mounted on them.

"It feels like I'm walking upside down," he said. A firsthand view through the odd spectacles—while Zimmerman kept his eyes closed—showed such sensations as watching one's own feet appear to be approaching, and instinctively reaching to meet a proffered handshake with the left hand.

There were some embarrassing moments too. He said a girl friend and another girl were standing beside each other, and with the vision reversed, "I hugged the wrong one. They both gave me heck."

Execution Stay Granted Glenn

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Supreme Court has stayed indefinitely the execution of Eddie Steve Glenn, convicted of killing a St. Louis policeman four years ago.

The court refused to give Glenn a new hearing on its affirmation of the death sentence a month ago. At that time the court set the execution date for June 28.

But the court did accede to a request for a stay of execution "until further order of this court."

That will give his attorneys time to prepare a new appeal based on a U.S. Supreme Court ruling a week ago substantially restricting the questioning of prospective jurors in capital cases.

Glenn was convicted of killing officer Paul McCulloch July 2, 1964 while police were attempting to arrest him. Glenn allegedly robbed Miss Marilyn Morris of $4 and a ring a little earlier. He threatened her with a knife, the evidence showed, and said he needed $16 to get a shot of dope.

THE PLAQUE of the surrender of Japan to the allied powers, taken from the USS Missouri in Tokyo Bay, together with two photographs of the signing of the surrender by powers, are mounted on the wall in the Hearnes room of the Mississippi County Historical Society in Charleston.

1964 Letter Commends Dace

The following are portions of a letter to Capt. Melvin C. Dace, now of Gainesville, Fla., who served as commanding officer of the 11th medical detachment, with the Army in Gainesville. He is a son of Melvin Dace of Sikeston. The letter was written Nov. 16, 1964, by Col. Philip W. Mallory.

"It is my pleasure to report that the inspectors who conducted the annual command inspection were highly complimentary, in their closing remarks, about the 11th medical detachment.

"Since your assignment as commanding officer, I have been pleased to observe the leadership you are displaying in obtaining the best efforts from your personnel. The comments of the inspectors concerning the satisfaction of your patients and the high morale, discipline and esprit-de-corps of your personal attest to your fine qualifications as a leader and your judgment as a doctor and commanding officer.

"Your fine continued support is contributing greatly to our well being of the military community and to making this medical service area one of the finest medical commands in the world. The results of this inspection reflect much credit upon you as a leader and officer."

Coffee Corner

—by Cherie—

COFFEE CORNER - It's too dern hot to think, or to cook, but since God made us all with stomachs, let me give you ladies some easy and cool recipes to make life worth living. I sure had lots of excellent comments on that strawberry pie I put in, and her is another equally good dessert that you can make using the seasonable fruits.

This is called plum crunch, but is just as good made with fresh peaches, apples, etc.

Take 3 lb. of fresh plums quarter and pit them approximately 5 cups and mix them with ¼ cup of brown sugar and place in a large baking dish. Sift together.

1 cup flour
1 cup granulated sugar
½ tsp slat
½ tsp. cinammon

Add 1 beaten egg to this mixture and toss lightly. Sprinkle over plums.

Now, melt ½ cup of butter and drizzle over all and bake at 375 for 45 minutes. Serve warm topped with ice or whipped cream.

When the weather gets this hot, we always pull out the ice cream freezer and really get with it. Now this recipe came from Charle's grandmother, and it's going to cost you a little too make, but as far as I'm concerned you can keep your cooked custard ice creams, cause they just aren't the real thing. You try this and see if it isn't well worth the money.

PEACH ICE CREAM

Peel, pit and mash 3 cups of fruit with 2 cups of sugar. Let sit while you prepare the rest.

In your freezer container pour 1 quart of unwhipped, whipping cream, 2 cups of milk, and ½ cup of cup of sugar. Now start freezing, using 1/3 cup of freezer salt to 2/3 cup of ice. When it begins to slightly thicken, pour in your fruit and keep on until mixture freezers.

Without a doubt, this is one of the best salad dressings I've ever eaten. Most men could turn the bowls up and drink what's left in the bottom of the dish. Try it.

1000 ISLAND DRESSING

Mix together:
1 cup of Miracle Whip

1 TBS chopped green pepper
¼ tsp paprika
1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
2 TBS chopped onions
1/3 cup of chili sauce
1 TBS chopped pimento (optional)

Keep in a jar in refrigerator, and serve over head lettuce.

Want to do something a little different with pot roast, and fix it on top of the stove to keep from heating up the oven. This is good-good-good!

MUSHROOM POT ROAST

3-4 lbs. of beef pot roast
2 onions, sliced
½ cup water
¼ cup catsup
1/3 cooking sherry
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ tsp. each of dry mustard, marjoram, rosemary, thyme
1 bay leaf
1 6-oz. can broiled sliced mushrooms

Trim off excess fat, and flour. Brown slowly on all sides in a little hot fat. Season generously with salt and pepper. Add onions. Mix and add remaining ingredients, except mush- rooms, liquid and all and heat. Remove meat to a warm platter. Skim fat from stock. Blend 1 TBS. flour and ¼ cup of cold water, gradually stir into stock. Cook and stir till sauce thickens, salt to taste, serve over meat.

O.K., now that you've gotten dinner prepared, just call in a neighbor and sit down and relax with a refreshing wine cooler.

WINE COOLER

Use a red, ruby port (don't waste money on a good one, for this drink go cheap), and a 7-Up. In a tall glass, pour soda 2/3 of way up, and wine 1/3 way up. Fill with ice and slurp, slurp. If you want to serve this at a party, top it with slices of oranges and cherries.

President of Hawaiian School System Honored

HONOLULU, Hawaii - John Fenton Fox, the 14th president of the Punahou school system will be honored to his retirement July 1. He has headed the system 24 years.

Fox, a native of Sikeston, Mo., where he graduate from high school, and is a graduate of the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Thirty years ago he served as superintendent of Bridgewater township, N. J., schools six years before being appointed president of the private school in Hawaii.

A 28-page illustrated bulletin, published by the Punahou school, is devoted to the work of Fox and his family.

The bulletin points out that when he arrived in 1944, the school had an enrollment of 1,200 and 81 teachers. Today the school has 3,500 students and 262 teachers.

A total of 6,362 have graduated since Fox came to the school. About 98 per cent of the graduates go on to college. Many of them merit scholars,according to the report from the chairman of the board of trustees, Dudley Pratt.

Fox's wife Helen, three daughters, Mary Bell, Pat and Jean, their husbands and seven grandchildren make up the team added success to the school's achievement.

The school in 1944 had an endowment of $2½ million. The endowment has grown to $13 million. The annual operating budget has advanced during the period ten times to $3,748,000.

This, Flag Day, is the appropriate time to acknowledge services of Peter H. Wendover a representative in Congress from New York, who was responsible, more than any other, for passage of the Flag Act of 1818.

An individual of commonplace ability, yet dedicated to a cause, his sole claim to fame is his achievement in develping the flag which has served the nation for a century and a half. This is glory enough for one man, and as long as the Stars and Stripes continue to wave, the name of Peter H. Wendover should be held in grateful remembrance.

All know the facts about Francis Scott Key, aboard a British warship in the Baltimore Harbor, how he composed "The Star-Spangled Banner;" the Betsy Ross legend persists in American folklore; but Wendover's crusade to enact into law the formula of 13 stripes, alternate red and white, to represent the 13 original states, and a white star, on a field of blue, for each state in the Union, is less familiar.

Earlier legislation and practice had allowed a stripe plus a star for every state, which inevitably would make the banner of impossible proportions.

Wendover pointed out that within 13 months after the alteration of 1794, admission of Tennessee to statehood made the flag incongruous since at that time there were 15 stars and 16 stripes; the Volunteer State would have added another of each.

The act Wendover sponsored remains today the legal charter of the flag. It provided for 13 alternate red and white stripes on the horizontal, and 20 stars—one for each state—on a field of blue. It was adopted on April 4, 1818; it had required 41 years for Congress to establish this formula.

Roger Taney, Chief Justice of the United States a brother-in-law of Francis Scott Key, has handed down the best known narrative of how Key wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner" and how it was given to the world. Key made sketchy notes on the back of an envelope, relying on memory for the rest; that night in a Baltimore hotel he wrote out the lyrics as they stand today; the next morning he took it to Judge Joseph H. Nicholson. Judge Nicholson was so pleased with it that he sent it immediately to a printer and ordered copies struck off in handbill form.

On Sept. 20 the lyrics appeared in the Baltimore Patriot, and the American published it the next day, under a 173-word introduction.

There is considerable evidence that Key had in mind a then popular song, "To Anacreon In Heaven," whose melody was a perfect fit for "The Star-Spangled Banner," lyrics.

The flag which Key saw waving over Fort McHenry on the morning of Sept. 14, 1814, is still preserved. For years it remained in possession of the family of Lt. Gen. George Armistead, who as major commanded Fort McHenry in 1814; it bears Armstead's autograph and the date. It went to the Smithsonian Institution on loan in 1907, and the loan was changed to outright gift in 1912.

In 1914, much needed needlework was done on the tattered banner by Mrs. Amelia Fowler and associates, and it was stiched to a linen backing. It measures 32 by 28 feet.

VALUES IN DISARRAY

In these mixed-up, turbulent times that distort truth and real values, the law-abiding and the respectable suffer and the violent and irresponsible receive praise of kind treatment.

An example of this is the pressure successfully applied on the International Olympics Committee to ban South African athletes from the games, even though they had been formally accepted for participation in the summer Olympics at Mexico City. The Olympics, which should stand for good sportsmanship, have had to bend before the winds of politics.

The banning of South African sportsmen is a cruel blow to the South African athletes of all colors and race who would have taken part in the games this summer. They have been discriminated against and denied an opportunity to excel in international competition.

The refusal to let the South Africans compete testifies to the degree to which our world is in disarray. The communist and Afro-Asian nations never miss an opportunity to force South Africa, a constitutional republic, into the pillory of "world opinion."

If nations are to be barred from the Olympics on the basis of their political records, responsible men can easily think of some prime candidates for banning. The first would be the Soviet Union, the country that holds millions of captive people in its grip -- the nation that swallowed up the little states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania and deported millions of men, women and children to Siberia.

Few of the black African nations would be exempt from banning if a strict political behavior rule were applied. Tanzania is a one-party state that gives communists a base for communists a base for terriorist campaigns against its neighbors. Guinea is a communist dictatorship, as is Congo (Brazzaville). The Republic of the Congo (Kinshasa) is a tyranny with mixed elements of force and tribal terror.

Ethiopia is an absolutist monarchy where no one has any rights. Almost everywhere one looks on the African continent one finds cruelty and despotism and backwardness in sub-Sararan Africa. Only in South Africa, Rhodesia and the Portuguese Provinces will one find civilization and the rule of law. These advanced nations and territories are condemned, however, because they will not accept the kind of governmental system that prevails elsewhere in Africa; they will not agree to give up the accept a return of primitivism. That's shy the South Africans are banned from the summer Olympics.

The real tragedy is that some supposedly responsible people in Western countries are delighted that the South Africans are banned. They mistakenly view this vindicative action against a highly modern country, which spends more than any other African country on social services and education of ALL its people, as a victory for human rights. This reaction only indicates the extent to which logic is ignored in our time.

We see the same phenomenon with respect to the law enforcement authority in our town country. For example, when the New York police finally were called in to remove radical students from Columbia University buildings, they didn't get any thanks for a tough and nasty job. On the contrary, Mayor John Lindsay of New York called for an investigation into charges of "police brutality." He apparently didn't find it expedient to order an investigation into the student groups that ran the red flag up over Columbia, who placed the communist hammer and sickle symbol on blackboards, who shouted "Lenin won.; Fidel won; we'll win." No, the radicals were virtually excused; Mr. Lindsay upheld their right to "dissent."

It is a strange world, all right. Apparently academic freedom doesn't include the right of a university to maintain order on campus, hold classes and end student hoodlumism. But, in the view of the prevailing "liberals," academic freedom involves toleration of sit-ins, wrecking college administration buildings, pulling down bookshelves for barricades, and screaming obscenities at police and students who want to study.

Confusion of basic values is one of the worst things that can happen in a free society. It means that society is being undermined. Such confusion take place at the end of the Roman Empire when the Dark Ages began to fall on Europe. Nowadays, it often seems that a new Dark Age is beginning, as the police are condemned, universities are terrorized, riots take place in great cities and anti-communist countries such as South Africa are victimized by political extremists. The outlook is very grim for the forces of civilization.

The Flag Speaks

I placed my hand upon my heart that day:
"I pledge allegiance," I began to say.
But ere another word I could intone,
The flag began some speaking of its own:
"I also make a pledge to you," it said,
"To fly forever here above your head,
And guarantee your right to say and do
Whatever things are good and just and true.
I pledge an equal chance to every man
To do each day the very best he can.
I pledge that hills and cities fields and streams
Be his to bring fulfillment to his dreams.
And here I pledge that in all days to be,
His children's birthright shall

Seeks Tips on Brightening Her Fiberglass Curtains

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—In my living room I have loosely woven fiberglass window curtains and over draperies of figured cotton. Luckily I can draw the cotton ones at night for then the fiberglass ones look as dingy as if water had not touched them for 40 years. They look the same just after laundering, too. This is ONLY under artificial light but on hot summer nights I do not like to draw the heavy draperies which is now necessary because the inner ones look so bad. There are 40 yards in each set and I cannot afford to scuttle them. I wonder if I could dye or paint them? Hope the readers can help. —MRS. R. H. B.

DEAR POLLY—Guests have always wondered how I fixed a bowl of vegetables with one color neatly in the center and the other around it. I decided to send you my easy hint. Cut both ends off of an clean empty tin can. Stand it on end in the middle of the platter or bowl. Pour one vegetable inside the can and the other around the outside. With vegetables of different colors this makes an attractive-looking dish after the can is carefully removed.—ELLA

DEAR POLLY—Do tell Mrs. M. F. that a braided rug must rest on a flat hard surface while being sewn or laced together. Also other facts such as the tension and knowing how and where to increase the loops on the curves which affect the curvature of the finished rug. If properly made, the rug will lie flat.—THE RUG CRAFTERS GUILD.

DEAR POLLY—My husband has a neat trick for removing and replacing light bulbs in high hard-to-reach sockets in stairwells, porch, entry, etc. He uses the long cardboard tubes on which gift wrappings come, places the tube over the end of the bulb (so it is a close fit) gives it a twist and easily removes the bulb without the need for a stepladder. The new bulb is then placed in the end of the tube and twisted into place.—GLADYS

Dreams May Be Major Factor in Heart Attacks

HOLLYWOOD' Fla. - A revealing medical study has shown that dreams may be a major factor in causing fatal heart attacks.

Dr. Melvin C. Dave of the cardiology department of the University of Florida School of Medicine, said a person, especially a heart patient goest through severe stress while dreaming. He is the son of Melvin Dace of 601 North Kingshighway.

Dr. Dace outline the medical study at the 94th annual meeting of the Florida Medical Assn.

Dr. Dace and four other doctors from the cardiology and psychiatry departments of the University of Florida conducted the test for the past year on five patients with coronary artery diseases.

The doctors scould tell when one of the patients was having a dream because he would undergo rapid eye movement.

The accepted medical fact that this occurs when a person is dreaming was discovered in 1955.

By using highly technical equipment, the university research team found that during dreams a patient experiences severe stress on the heart.

Hormones are released into the blood stream, respiration rises and becomes irregular, blood pressure goes up and the pulse becomes rapid, Dr. Dace said.

The patient then usually develops angina pectoris (chest pains), which occur when not enough blood is supplied to the heart, Dr. Dace said. This causes the heart to work harder to botain an adequate blood supply.

Dr. Dace said many years ago it was believed that sleep was a peaceful time during which the blood pressure decreased and people rested.

"Now it is recognized that many people die in their sleep because of heart attacks" Dr. Dace said, "but no one knew why."

Dr. Dace emphasized that the university study is not statistically proved but it is consistent in its results.

"We still are in the early phases of our study," he said.

People dream at various times during the night for periods from five to 30 minutes, according to Dr. Dace.

"Dreams may be the trouble periods for persons with histories of coronary artery diseases," Dr. Dace said.

He pointed out that there are drugs available that can supress dreams for three to four days.

Usually a person is most susceptible to a fatal heart attack within three or four days after his first attack. During this period after the first attack the heart is in a weakened condition and needs as much rest as possible.

Possibly through administration of the dream-suppressing drugs, a patient could go through the post-attack danger period without undergoing the severe stress caused by dreams.

The university study will be continued with emphasis placed on the potential on supressing dreams.

Researchers also will attempt to determine the type of dreams that cause the most stress. Possibly nightmares and not "happy" dreams are stress-provoking dreams.

The researchers from the university psychiatry department will attempt to analyze the dreams.

Counsel for Sirhan to Be Named Soon

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The man accused of killing Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will choose a lawyer soon, says the American Civil Liberties Union.

The announcement came as investigators continued to probe the murder and Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, remained under tight security guard at Los Angeles County jail. An ACLU lawyer talked with Sirhan.

Ed Cray of the ACLU's Southern California chapter said Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer would confer with officials of the county bar association to choose attorneys from "more than a dozen top lawyers" who have volunteered to take Sirhan's case without pay. He wouldn't name the lawyers.

Leonard S. Janofsky, president-elect of the bar association, issued a statement which said his group had no official request yet to help choose counsel for Sirhan but would act promptly if asked.

Sirhan, a native of Jordan admitted to the United States as a permanent resident, has been represented by a deputy public defender, Wilbur Littlefield.

Meanwhile, the bystander most seriously injured when Kennedy was shot early Wednesday said he doesn't know who fired the shots.

Paul Schrade, 43, western regional director of the United Auto Workers Union, was one of five shot. He and another bystander remain hospitalized in good condition.

His head wrapped in bandages, Schrade told a hospital news conference that he was five or six feet from Kennedy when he saw flashes and heard sounds like explosions.

"I did not see him go down," he said of Kennedy.

Schrade, recovering from a shot in the head, said Federal Bureau of Investigation agents questioned him. "I saw nothing in terms of prosecution," Schrade said.

The status of the investigation into the shooting of the New York senator during a celebration of his victory in the state's presidential primary remained secret.

Law enforcement officers, public officials and others connected with the case have been enjoined from discussing details. Superior Court Judge Arthur L. Alarcon's security order came Friday when Sirhan was arraigned on one charge of murder and five counts of assault with intent to commit murder.

Man Sought In Bank Thefts Joins FBI List

WASHINGOTN - Phillip Morris Jones, who allegedly committed lone-wolf bank robberies in California, Florida and Maryland and reportedly abandoned most of the loot to pursuing authorities has been added to the FBI's list of Ten most wanted fugitives.

On Feb. 23, 1968, he allegedly robbed the Ming Wible Branch of the United California Bank, Bakersfield, Calif., of $5,637. all but about $500 of this money was found, along with a toy gun, in a paper sack in an abandoned getaway car.

Six weeks later, on April 8, 1968, Jones allegedly seized $79,874 from the American National Bank in Cypress Gardens, Winter Haven, Florida locked eight people in a bank vault and fled to a nearby motel where he donned swimming trunks and began relaxing by the pool. Hotly pursuing police, however, abruptly ended his brief leisure, and when he spotted and approaching police car, Jones reportedly stole a car drove to a nearby lake, swam 50 ya the opposite shore, stole a truck and completed his escape, still attired in his bathing suit. Found in his motel room were $76,597 and an automatic pistol. Subsequent investigation determined he purchased street clothes near where the stolen truck was found abandoned in Bartow, Florida, a few hours after his flamboyant flight.

On April 30, Jones allegedly robbed the Wheaton Office of the Maryland National Bank of $9,820, menacing employees with a pistol.

Federal warrants charging Jones with bank robbery were issued at Bakersfield, California, on February 24, 1968, at Tampa, Florida, on April 10, 1968, and at Bethesda, Maryland, on May 6, 1968.

Jones is a white American who was born on July 28, 1940, at Jay, Fla. He is six foot one inches tall, weighs 195 to 210 pounds, and has dark brown hair, a medium complexion and a large build. His eyes have been described as blue or gray. He has a scar on his left thumb approximately 1 ½" in length. Jones has been employed as a bartender, laborer, short order cook, farmer, aircraft laborer and ski lift operator. He has previously been convicted of grand theft.

He is reportedly an avid gambler, prone to bet on anthing but particularly fond of blackjack and poker. He has allegedly used marked cards and is also known as a good chess player. Acquaintances report he likes to frequent good restaurants and motels favors warm climates, drinks whiskey and dresses well usually wearing conservative sports clot Jones should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. Anyone with information concerning him is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of local telephone directories.
